Welfare Wins Huge Fund

By MONTE BOURJAILY JR.

WASHINGTON.—The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission has awarded the Army Central Welfare Fund, for itself and the Air Force Welfare Board, the sum of $358,897.09.

Ask Curb On Vets' Benefits

By LES HONEYCUTT

WASHINGTON.—The President's Commission on Veterans' Pensions this week asked for enactment of the House-passed Survivor Benefits bill and recommended that Contingency Option Act benefits be coordinated with those provided by the Veterans Administration.

If the survivor bill becomes law, the commission, headed by retired G/A Omar N. Bradley, asked that steps be taken "to make the Contingency Act Option benefits more attractive to personnel on active duty."

The Survivor Benefits bill is now awaiting Senate Finance committee consideration.

As predicted by Army Times last week, the commission recommended against any substantial benefits program for peacetime veterans—those who entered service after Jan. 31, 1953. Asked for were unemployment compensation, disability and death compensation rates on a wartime basis (20 percent higher than peacetime rates), vocational rehabilitation for disabled veterans, reemployment rights and insurance for those with "significant" disabilities.

Major benefits not asked for peacetime veterans include education and training, home and business loan entitlement, mustering out pay and nonservice-connected pensions.

BOILED DOWN, here are major recommendations of the Bradley Commission:

Service-connected disabled: The compensation system rating schedule should be revised; statutory awards abolished in favor of a "single comprehensive rating schedule based primarily upon average impairment of earning

Spearhead's 15

On reaching the ripe age of 15, the 3d Armored Division held open house for a week recently at Fort Knox, Ky. For a picture story on the Spearhead division, which leaves soon to take up its post in Europe, see Page 48.

RA Promotions

The names of 4208 RA officers, recommended for permanent promotion to grades of first lieutenant through light colonel, have been sent to the Senate. Army Times will publish the names in weekly increments. This week, on Page 10, are the names of 929 OK'd for silver leaves.

Incentive

By ED GATES

WASHINGTON.—The Pentagon has formed a top-level pay committee to hammer out a service-wide compensation system that would pay adequately for management as well as for "officer and enlisted technicians."

Deputy Defense Secretary Reuben B. Robertson, Jr., created the panel late last month. In laying down the ground rules, he indicated that the present pay and promotion systems both may be in for considerable change. He scored the practice of "rewarding technical ability by rank," saying it tends to depreciate authority and responsibility.

The "Defense Advisory Committee on Professional and Technical Compensation" will be headed by Pentagon personnel chief Carter L. Burgess. Government and industrial leaders soon will be asked to serve—and help solve the increasingly severe problem of skilled manpower retention.

Months of study by the panel are anticipated.

Judges Vie With JAG On Code

By JOHN J. FORD
(See Editorial, Page 8)

WASHINGTON.—The judges of the Court of Military Appeals went to bat for their court and for the Uniform Code of Military Justice before a House Armed Services subcommittee last week and criticized sharply some of the changes the Defense Department wants made in the Code.

The judges testified before a subcommittee headed by Rep. Overton Brooks (D., La.), that is considering HR 6583, the Defense-sponsored 31 amendments to the Code.

Chief Judge Robert E. Quinn said the bill "contains provisions which cannot be justified by experience, reason or logic."

Under article 67 of the Code the three judges of the court are members of a committee which meets annually to submit recommendations on the Code to the House and Senate Armed Services committees. The Judge Advocates General of the various services make up the rest of that committee.

Some of the 31 changes proposed in HR 6583 were unanimously approved by the code committee, some were not approved, and some were not even considered by the group.

In general, the judges back the changes unanimously approved by the committee and are against those not approved or considered. Chief Judge Quinn said he opposed Point Application Due (Special) — Enlisted men who plan to apply for West Point appointments on the Regular Army list (DA Form 207) before the May 31 deadline. The forms to be completed by the men are in the immediate area.

USMA Applicant Board Named Here

Opportunity to Become Cadet At West Point Extended EM

By TONY MARCH

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—Why the epidemic rash of news headlines and stories like those above spotting the face of the Army press in recent weeks?

Is it that hard to get enlisted men to try for West Point?

When this paper noted recently in an editorial ("Send Soldiers to the Academy," March 10) that Congressmen were failing to fill their quotas for West Point applications, it was not supposed that the Army's own special quota was in the same situation.

After all, the Congressional appointments total over 2000, while from among enlisted men in the Regular Army and the Reserve components only 180 men may hope for appointment each year.

That was one reason for this paper's suggestion that part of the Congressional quota might well be given to the Army. It would provide a larger incentive for many able young men to make commissioned service a career.

But since that time—presumably by directive from above—local commanders have been urging promising young men to make a stab at West Point entrance almost as if the Army's quota was 1000.

In one army area at least—the Fourth—examining boards have been set up at six posts for the preliminary testing of applicants. Should they pass, these men would go to the U. S. Military Academy Preparatory School, near here, to prepare for competitive entrance examinations next March. Similar activity is evident in other areas.

Why is all this effort necessary to fill a quota of 180 cadets (90 from the Regulars, 90 from Reserve components)? An Army Times reporter went up to the USMA Prep School to find out.

THIS HILLY little river town sits on the edge of the Hudson Highlands about 60 miles north of New York City. It's a few miles north of the Military Academy itself and a few miles south of Stewart Air Force Base, which is headquarters for Eastern Air Defense Force.

The Academy prep school sits in the middle of Stewart, entirely surrounded by jets, radar, runways and people in blue-gray suits. It doesn't bother them and they don't bother it.

Yet it is a safe bet that hardly anyone hereabouts recalls that not too long ago the prep school was the main activity in these parts. In 1947, for example, it had an initial enrollment of 482, quartered throughout the base. Last year, the enrollment sank to 108 would-be cadets and their activities were confined to eight or 10 brick buildings.

The reasons for this are all part of the school's story.

MAJ. MARK M. BOATNER III, the school commandant, is a solidly built young man of average size with the typical West Point back. He wears a star above his Combat Infantry Badge from War II (in

TAKES OVER AIR BASES

Army to Train Fixed Wing Men

WASHINGTON.—The Army has taken two more steps towards getting its own air arm.

This week it was given authority to give primary flight training not only to rotary wing pilot candidates, but also to fixed wing pilot trainees. Last week, it signed research and development (R&D) contracts for plane development with two companies.

Both represent "firsts." Up to now, R&D, like other aspects of aviation procurement, has been handled by either the Air Force or Navy as agent for the Army.

And since the Air Force and the Army separated, the Air Force has given primary training to Army fixed wing pilots.

158 Named For Duty Retention

WASHINGTON.—The Army has released the names of the 158 Reserve officers who are being retained on extended active duty beyond 20 years' service.

The Army refused, however, to give the branches to which these officers are assigned, though it did give their grades.

In refusing to make public the branches, a spokesman said that any such release might cause a morale problem in branches where standards for retention were set so high that none could qualify.

In making its selections last fall, the board considered only some of the 1400-plus officers whose 20 years' service (at least 10 years' commissioned, thus entitling them to Title II retirement) was due to be completed during fiscal year 1957.

Those considered had been recommended for retention by their branch for one of three reasons: 1) because the branch had selected them as outstanding officers; 2) because they were needed by their branch due to shortages in the grade (for example, battery commanders by Artillery); or 3) because they were specialists in fields critically short in the Army or in the branch.

Standards apparently varied from branch to branch.

By giving the branch assignments of the 158 officers selected to be retained, Army officials apparently felt they would be laying the latter because "almost every" one restricts a right granted by Congress to members of the armed forces.

THROUGHOUT the judges' testimony ran an undercurrent of fear that attempts would be made to scrap the Code.

In his testimony, Judge George W. Latimer made these points:

- The two most frequent complaints heard against the Code are lack of company punishment and too much paperwork because of pre-trial investigations.

- On the whole, the JAG reviews are working well.

- The Manual of Court Martial, though it should be revised at intervals, is a good document.

- He is in favor of one-man courts because they would alleviate the waste of manpower in trials with a guilty plea.

- The use of depositions is not the injustice supposed. He said if he were a defense lawyer he would be glad to have depositions instead of witnesses, for it's very hard to get a conviction on depositions.

- The services should have jurisdiction over dependents who accompany men overseas, for they have an effect on discipline.

HERE ARE the key points on which the CMA judges disagree with the Defense bill:

- The judges vigorously opposed the Defense amendment that an accused must obtain a certificate of probable cause from his counsel before the CMA considers his petition for review. This would mean, the judges say, that the right of an accused to have the court hear his case would depend on his ability to convince a service lawyer that his appeal was meritorious. It would return control of justice to the services and in all but a few cases they could prevent appeals getting to the court.

- On similar grounds, the judges objected to the services retaining control over a case while appeal is being made to the Court of Military Appeals. It is another means "of centralizing power in the services" and limiting the right of appeal, the judges said.

- Defense's proposal to dispense with a hearing when the services decide to vacate suspended sentences was opposed on the grounds that it would restrict the accused man's right to a hearing and leave him at the mercy of a commander.

- The judges scored the amendment to let law officers advise court-martial members secretly on sentence as well as form of finding. This is moving in the wrong direction, said the judges. They held that the traditional sanctity of the jury room should be extended, not infringed upon.

- In the case of a department review, the judges said use of civilian lawyers should be extended to all services, not just Navy and Coast Guard, as the bill proposes.

The judges went along with the Defense request for more non-judicial punishment—or unit-level punishment—but said the fining of an officer should be limited to half a month's pay for two months. Defense's proposal is three months.

Storie Assumes Command

HQ I CORPS, Korea. — Major James C. Storie has assumed command of the 51st Signal Bn., the unit which maintains communications control and supervision throughout I Corps (Gp). Prior to this assignment, Maj. Storie was Assistant to the Assistant Commandant at the Signal School, Camp Gordon, Ga. He participated as an umpire in last year's midsummer "Exercise Sagebrush."

Army Will Train Fixed Wing Pilots

entire control, administration and training of all Army aviation personnel, the Army will also take over Gary Air Force Base at San Marcos, Tex., where the Air Force has been giving Army officers fixed wing training, using Air Force personnel as instructors, and Wolters AFB at Mineral Wells, Tex. Wolters has been one of the 21 bases at which the Air Force maintained Scarwal units.

THE ORDER for the Army to assume control of all its aviation, except for the actual buying of planes was signed by Deputy Secretary of Defense Reuben B. Robertson, Jr.

The "memorandum" says in part: "It is understood that the Department of the Army will conduct primary fixed wing pilot training by civilian contractor operations at Gary Air Force Base and primary cargo helicopter pilot training by civilian contractor operations at Wolters Air Force Base. In addition to the aforementioned training elements, such other activities as will assure effective utilization of these facilities will be conducted thereon."

The memorandum gives the Army and the Air Force until May 1 to work out details of transferring these activities and bases to Army control.

Reports are that the Army will take over Wolters as a base for engineer units by June 1, and that helicopter training will begin there in July or August.

Likewise, July is the projected date for the start of Army-supervised training of fixed wing pilots at Gary AFB.

AT BOTH BASES, it will be necessary, during the next several years, to spend many millions of dollars in rehabilitation and new construction, both of airfields and of permanent buildings—shops, hangars, barracks, recreational facilities.

Defense originally planned to require the Army to conduct specific mechanics courses at Gary. Now, only those courses which fit into the Army's program will be required.

The Army now has full logistical support responsibility, except procurement, for its own aviation, and full responsibility for the men in the program.

capacity but with allowance for loss of physical integrity, social inadaptability, and shortened life expectancy.

Compensation rates should be increased in more serious disability cases. "Present compensation rates tend to under-pay the totally disabled and to favor the less disabled." And, "the levels of compensation have not been geared to prevailing standards of living." They should be "adjusted periodically."

The "presumption" system, whereby certain diseases are presumed to be service-connected within specified time after discharge, should be repealed in favor of medical diagnosis.

Nonservice-connected pensions: Veterans' pension benefits should be coordinated with the general social security benefits and become a "reserve line of defense" to the basic social insurance program—old-age survivors' insurance.

The commission would coordinate the two systems, offsetting other income, including social security, against the pension.

Some pension benefits are inadequate for those in "genuine need," the group declared. Criticism was aimed at the "unrealistic" disability and employability standards.

Finding fault with eligibility standards for widows and children—they are "not geared to need and are discriminatory among survivors of different wars"—the group said survivor pensions should be available to all veterans' families which are in equal need; and the eligibility standards should be brought in line with social security.

Readjustment benefits: The commission praised the World War II and Korea GI Bills for providing readjustment benefits when they were needed most. There was only one surprise in the commission's recommendations in this field—the VA loan program should be transferred to the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) "to eliminate duplication and permit more orderly termination of the program." The War II program is now set to expire July 25, 1957. The commission asked for a two-year extension "with diminishing benefits to permit its gradual termination."

The Eisenhower Administration has repeatedly recommended against any extension of the War II home and business loan program.

4 ARMY TIMES

APRIL 28, 1956

NOTE THE EXPRESSION on the face of MSgt. Edward Britt, as the much decorated War II and Korean veteran, shows basic trainees at Fort Ord, Calif. the techniques of bayonet fighting. Britt gained fame for going AWOL to areas where the fighting was the hottest.

Action-Seeking NCO Went AWOL 11 Times in 2 Wars

FORT ORD, Calif. — During 14 years in the Army, MSgt. Edward Britt has picked up two habits. The first is punishable by death in time of war. When things got dull in combat, Britt went "over-the-hill."

And while he was "over-the-hill," Britt picked up his second habit, collecting medals, decorations, and citations. But because he was AWOL, Britt wasn't able to get many of them.

Where Britt differed from others who took off without authority is that he went in a forward direction. During War II, Britt said he was Absent Without Leave 11 times and twice in Korea—each time to the front lines.

Most of the time, Britt's buddies were able to cover up for him, but he was caught once for a three-week junket with the Marines. Despite good intentions, AWOL is still AWOL and Britt was court martialed.

After being fined two-thirds of his pay for three months—which was later suspended—Britt was almost presented with a Bronze Star Medal for service with the Marines.

Britt had assumed the name of a dead Marine for three weeks. For his action, he was awarded the medal but it was not given to him because his real name was not on the morning report.

Britt's amazing AWOL habit began in 1943 when he was sent to the Philippines. He made short "trips" to Infantry units when the action was dull.

No Music Came Out

Scribe Finds Bagpipe Playing Not So Easy

24TH INF. DIV., Korea. — The notes of a Scottish bagpipe heard throughout the area might lead a visitor to the 24th Div. CP to assume that he was lost and had landed in the Cameron "Highlander" unit.

After checking into the matter, though, he would learn that the notes are from the officers' BOQ area where CWO Joseph Bell indulges in his favorite hobby, playing bagpipes.

What is an unusual musical hobby for an American becomes quite natural when one delves into Bell's background. His father was a piper in the British army and brought his own set of pipes with him when he came to America.

"I've been fooling around with bagpipes ever since I was 14 years old," Bell said, "but didn't start practicing seriously 'til a year ago."

"The set that I have is about 50 years old," he remarked. "It is made of African blackwood and

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—A soldier who handles one of the Army's little-known and little-sung jobs has received a citation for bravery.

For two years SP3 Delmar A. Head got no thanks for his extraordinary labors but growls. Military policeman Head is Devens' dog catcher.

The intrepid "K9" keeper also operates a dog pound, canine boarding house and home for the masterless wayfarer here. He averages five "guests" per month.

Head's formal citation, the Award of the Medal of Combat Dog Catcher, was drafted by the 24th Sig. Bn. and presented by Maj. Otto H. Luedeke, Provost Marshal. It reads in part:

"BY DIRECTION of the Commander, under no approved Act of Congress or laws of man, as promulgated by the Commonwealth of Canine Conclave of the Rifle Range Territories, the Medal of Combat Dog Catcher for famous and manifest gallantry and courage at the risk of having his pants torn and loss of various limbs beyond the normal call of duty at Fort Devens is awarded (humously) by the 24th Sig. Bn in the name of SP3 Delmar A. Head, Corps of Military Police.

"His inspirational leadership and unflinching courage set an example for all future dog-catchers in this area, thereby striking fear and trepidation into the hearts of all brown male spaniel dogs who may hereafter venture out into the wild, windy confines of the rifle ranges in quest of companionship, luscious rabbit steaks, warmth and friendship of their masters or other doggy enterprises which are infractions of War Department, United Nations, Fort Devens, or Ayer, Mass., laws and rules. Head's action reflects great glory upon himself and upholds the noble tradition of the Corps of Military Police."

DOG CATCHER Head is a graduate of the Camp Gordon, Ga., school for military dog training and served with the 549th K9 company in Panama before coming to this post. He is a veteran of two years at this work.

When a stray dog is rounded up on post, Head contacts dog officers in Shirley and Ayer to discover their owners. If the dogs are masterless, he advertises them for prospective owners about the post.

Just a Family Blowout

IT'S A SURE BET the neighbors know it when MSgt. Melbourne Blackwell Sr., left, and Jr., right, get together for a family jam session. Both are members of the Fort Monroe, Va. 50th Army Band. Blowing horns seems to run in the family for Blackwell's only other son, Hugh, plays clarinet and saxophone in the William and Mary college band. Melbourne, Sr., incidentally, is top kick of the Monroe band.

ITCHING to go back to riding broncos and brahma bulls on the southwestern rodeo circuit is former Texas cowboy Pvt. Edward L. Clem, a truck driver with the 9466 Technical Unit, Fort Riley, Kans.

Clem began rodeo competition as a young boy and at 14 corralled his first big prize—$400. He admits that trucks are a smoother form of transportation than broncos and bulls, but still hopes to go back to the rugged circuit when he finishes his Army time.

FORMER member of the Czech national hockey team, SP2 Richard F. Hrdlicka, Co. B, 13th Bn., 1st Training Regt., at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., doesn't regret his dramatic flight for freedom in 1948. Hrdlicka and 12 other members of the team sought Western sanctuary in Paris.

After arriving in the U. S., Hrdlicka went through law school and was a practicing attorney at the time he was called for active Army duty.

FEW Army personnel can match the accomplishments of MSgt. Max M. Tybroski of the 1st Inf. Div.'s 26th Inf. Regt., at Fort Riley, Kans. The 22-year veteran is a Distinguished Service Cross winner, recipient of an on-the-spot battlefield promotion to commissioned rank, former All-Army football selection, AAU boxing champion, and honor guard commander for President Eisenhower. He's even been in the movies.

"I played the part of a tough first sergeant in 'Breakthrough,'" recalls Tybroski. "It was easy, I just acted natural."

THE ONLY soldier who ever served in an enlisted status as a Pentagon branch chief is now assigned as administrative assistant to the Military Science Department of the University of California at Los Angeles. He is MSgt. Thomas Learnihan, Jr., who served from 1951 through 1954 as chief of the Procurement and Accountability Branch of the Military Personnel Division in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Incidentally, he got the Army Commendation Ribbon for his outstanding performance in this assignment.

A THOUSAND-YEAR-OLD Japanese Samuri sword first attracted Sgt. Donald W. Thorpe to the art of fencing. He saw the sword while stationed in Japan in 1952, tried unsuccessfully to buy it, but became friendly with the Japanese ex-colonel who owned it. The colonel taught Thorpe to fence and when he departed for the U. S. gave him the priceless sword. Thorpe is now S2 sergeant of the 57th Tank Bn., 2d Armd. Div., at Mannheim, Germany. He's one of the top fencers in the division.

1st Annual Clergy Day Held at Fort Dix

FORT DIX, N. J. — Approximately 440 ministers of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths in five states spent a day observing basic training, visiting barracks and chapels, eating in a soldier "chow line" and exchanging ideas with post chaplains as Dix held its first annual "Clergy Day."

The program was specifically arranged to give visiting clergymen an opportunity to examine the life of the soldier, and the visitors were asked to report their findings to their congregations.

7th Division Maneuvers In Exercise Dogwood

WITH 7TH DIV., Korea.—Another phase in the 7th Inf. Division's training, Exercise Dogwood, moved the entire Bayonet Div. into the field for five days. The problem placed training emphasis on troop movement to assembly areas and the preparation and launching of a co-ordinated division attack against a simulated enemy.

The division's regiments, supported by artillery and tanks, bore the brunt of the intensive field training, leaving for assembly areas on the first day of the exercise by shuttle-march. One Bayonet unit covered approximately 80 miles on foot during Dogwood.

While the infantrymen were moving to assembly areas, setting up security, making forced marches to the MLR, and preparing the full scale division attack, the men of the separate companies and battalions offered support.

FOOD and petroleum supply lines were maintained while the military police kept 24 hour road control points. Field services included a laundry and bath. Water points supplied purified water for drinking and cooking.

All important communications systems linked Bayonet units while light airplanes completed ariel observation, the directing of artillery fire, wire laying, radio relay and the evacuation of simulated sick and wounded.

Training of all special troops was stressed throughout the exercise as division medics practiced providing medical aid and evacuation in the field.

Civilian Demand Seen for Medical Technicians Trained in Service

WASHINGTON.—More than half of the approximately 5000 intermediate medical, operating room and neuropsychiatric technicians on duty at Army medical installations would like to continue in the health field upon completion of their military services.

This was the outcome of a questionnaire survey made recently by the National League for Nursing with a view of determining how the men and women trained in the medical branches of the armed forces felt about entering allied civilian occupations after discharge.

As a result of the 60 per cent favorable replies from the Army, Navy, and Air Force enlisted personnel, a research project will begin next September at the Teachers College Institute of Research and Services in Nursing, Columbia University, to experiment with educational programs built around the knowledge and skills already acquired by the military technicians.

These programs will be of three types: (1) leading to a B. S. degree in addition to qualifying for Registered Nurse licensure; (2) leading to a diploma qualifying for Registered Nurse licensure; and (3) a supplementary program in schools of practical nursing which qualify veterans for licensure as practical nurses.

THE RESEARCH will be projected solely for persons trained in the military health field. It will continue under the sponsorship of the National League for Nursing through a grant from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, which also financed the survey.

The collection and evaluation of the data gathered by the questionnaire consumed a year's time. The decision to proceed further towards increasing the training, experience, and interest of the military technician in the expanding civilian health channels was endorsed by an advisory committee made up of representation from the American Council on Education, the American Medical Association, the American Nurses' Association State Boards of Nursing Committee, the American Hospital Association, the National Association for Practical Nurse Education, the National Federation of Licensed Practical Nurses and various nursing education groups.

The original idea of finding ways and means for using military training in health work in similar civilian pursuits came from the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services with the complete cooperation of the Army, Navy, and Air Force nursing services.

DURING THE past five years, according to the National League for Nursing Committee on Careers in Nursing, about 50,000 enlisted men and women have completed military courses ranging from training for basic hospital ward work to highly technical specialties.

Expert Foresees Day Of 500-Man 'Copters

FORT SILL, Okla.—A supergiant helicopter capable of carrying up to 500 troops and able to haul fixed wing aircraft from behind enemy lines was envisioned here last week by Igor Sikorsky.

The internationally famed pioneer in the field of rotary aircraft spoke to pilots of the Army Aviation Unit Training Command in Snow Hall Auditorium April 19 while he was on an unofficial visit to Fort Sill. The night before, he addressed the Lawton-Fort Sill chapter of the American Helicopter Society at a dinner-meeting in the Hotel Lawtonian.

Calling his own predictions for the whirly-birds "conservative," he said that within 10 years the helicopter, as a flying machine, will be as essential as the airplane, in war and peace.

Alluding to "on the spot" rescue missions that the 'copters accomplished during recent Connecticut floods, Sikorsky said: "This signifies what it can do in an emergency, and since war is just one big emergency, you can see the part that helicopters may play."

ON THE SUBJECT of new types of rotary craft, Sikorsky said he personally favored the single rotored helicopter over multi-rotored ships.

"We feel that there's a direct analogy between one wing on a airplane and one rotor on a helicopter."

"I remember that in the early days of fixed wing craft, designers thought that biplanes, triplanes and several wings were necessary as loads increased, but those ideas failed."

He said that one of the present problems of helicopter manufacturers is to find a practical method of making a workable gyrodyne, a type of helicopter equipped with a turbine motor and a rotor and exhaust system.

LOOKING INTO THE future of the capabilities of helicopters, Sikorsky said that most of the expansion will be made by enlarging present chopper types "because there's a rule of thumb in aviation that warns one not to jump into the unknown.

"A helicopter built on the basis of the H-37 (Sikorsky's most recent chopper and a big brother of the Army's cargo type H-34), with some modifications and enlarged about three times could carry up to 20 tons."

Army MDs Offered Course In Preventive Medicine

WASHINGTON. — Applications are being accepted for the Military Preventive Medicine Course at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington, D. C., Maj. Gen. Silas B. Hays, Army Surgeon General, has announced.

In an effort to meet the continuing demand for preventive medicine officers within the Armed Services, the Army has completed initial plans for career men in this field. The program would offer to a limited number of young officers a total of six years' training and experience which will fulfill the requirements for examination by the American Board of Preventive Medicine.

Although a number of details remain to be worked out, the proposal includes one year's formal training in preventive medicine, followed by offering two years' residency training in preventive medicine and public health, and three years' assignment to duties acceptable by the American Board of Preventive Medicine.

The Army hopes that many physicians now on active duty will be interested in the new program which, when successfully completed, should offer the medical officer an opportunity for a monetarily and professionally satisfying career following his retirement after twenty or thirty years' service.

The course includes comprehensive

Missed the Wedding

SEOUL, Korea. — A recent mail call brought PFC Mike Wise, 8096th AU Hqs. Det., a wedding invitation he regretfully turned down.

The invitation—a plainly engraved white card headed "The Principality of Monaco"—requested Wise's presence at the nuptials of Prince Rainier and Grace Kelly. It had been forwarded from his home in New York City.

"Prior commitments," muttered Wise, who works at Seoul Military Post's Army Education Center.

Wise, who was with a television public relations department before he entered the Army, met the couple through his work.

Generals Reassigned; Promotions Confirmed

WASHINGTON. — New assignments for three Army general officers were announced this week by Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker.

Brig. Gen. Theodore W. Parker, Special Assistant for the Army Chief of Staff, Washington, D. C., has been assigned as U. S. Deputy Liaison Officer, Standing Group, NATO, Paris, France. He will report to his new post in July.

Brig. Gen. David L. Van Syckle, Director of Production Planning, Office of Defense Advisor, U. S. Mission to NATO and European Regional Organization, Paris, France, will return to the U. S. in May and has been assigned to Headquarters, First Army, Governors Island, N. Y.

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel III, Director, Office of Planning,

Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs, Washington, D. C., has been assigned to Headquarters, U. S. Army Forces Far East. He will report to his new post in August.

WASHINGTON.—The Senate this week confirmed the nomination of five Army Brigadier Generals to the temporary rank of Major General.

They are Brig. Gen. Robert G. Butler, Louis E. Cotulla, David H. Buchanan, Eugene F. Cardwell, and Louis T. Heath.

Also confirmed were the nominations of a number of Colonels to the temporary rank of Brigadier General. These were David W. Heiman, Eric H. F. Svensson, Thad A. Broom, William F. Cassidy, Milton L. Ogden, and Charles H. Chase.

Four for Schuyler

WASHINGTON. — The Senate was asked this week to confirm the nomination of Lt. Gen. Cortland Van Rensselaer Schuyler, chief of staff, Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe (SHAPE), to the grade of general. No change in Gen. Schuyler's job is planned, Army Headquarters in Washington said.

"OFFICERS: It pays to get your Army wings!"

"It really pays to become an aviation officer in your basic branch. It pays in more ways than just that extra flight pay you draw, though that's mighty important, too. It adds up to a big dividend each month. For captains, it can be as much as $185... for lieutenants, $165. What's more, you get it starting with your first training flight and continuing during any advanced branch schooling you may take.

SPECIALIZED SKILLS

"But that's not the half of it. Just think of the specialized skills you'll acquire as an aviation officer. The aeronautical training alone is equal to many thousands of dollars by civilian standards. You can even procure and maintain a civil pilot rating while on active duty.

"Once you've got your wings, watch your military horizons expand. You'll be a highly respected, key member of any combat force... with important assignments and lots of responsibility.

NO CAREER RISK

"A really important angle is that you can't lose when you decide to take flight training. There's just no risk involved! In the first place, aviation is now integrated into seven Army branches, so you'll stay right in your basic branch... simply add wings to your branch insignia. And you'll enjoy equal promotional chances with non-aviation officers in your branch. If you should fail to complete flight training, you can be sure that your career in your basic branch is in no way hindered.

"More pay, new skills, broader military horizons with no career risk—what more could you want! Yes, it really does pay to get your Army wings, so look up your nearest Army Aviation officer and have him give you all the details on how you can apply for this sky high career."

Army Studies Ways to Keep Famed Regiments on Roster

WASHINGTON.—A "regimental home" at least for members of the combat arms, no matter what unit or type of unit they may be assigned to for duty, is being studied by Army staff planners.

Further study of the basic concept leading to a detailed plan to put it into effect has been approved by the Chief of Staff, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

The plan is still fluid. Idea is to retain on the Army's active rolls those regiments, not only of Infantry, but also of Cavalry, Armor, Armored Infantry, Airborne Infantry, Field Artillery and Antiaircraft Artillery which have made this country's military history.

Since 1784, the Army has had hundreds of regiments. At this time, there are on the active and inactive rolls of the Army between 150 and 200 Regular Army regiments which planners feel have a history and tradition worth preserving.

New organizational concepts, however, threaten to put an end to the regiment as a tactical unit. In its place, even today, are separate battalions. This trend is expected to continue as the Army reorganizes for atomic battlefields.

But though the regiment may be tactically a dodo, it can be established as the "parent unit" of one or more tactical units, as the Army's situation warrants.

AN ARMY STATEMENT on the subject says: "These regiments would be institutional and would not themselves be combat units. Instead, each regiment would be the 'parent' organization of a variable number of combat units. The number of member units active in a regiment would increase or decrease as Army force levels move up and down in peace and war."

"Member units" would be assigned to divisions or other tactical commands as needed. Rotation or replacement of complete units in war or peace up to battalion size without members losing their identity would become possible.

AT PRESENT, planners are thinking only in terms of Regular Army regiments of the combat arms. The possibility of extending the plan to include the technical and administrative services and the Reserve and the National Guard is recognized.

But for now, only the first step—combat arms—is to be taken in working out details of how such a concept could be put into effect.

One thing the staff wants is consideration, discussion and thought on the subject. Suggestions will lead to a better solution than a few individuals, working alone, can come up with.

It is for this reason that the Army is willing to release anything at all at this time, while details of the concept are nebulous.

AS NOW being considered, regiments would have neither administrative nor training assignments. They would be "institutional" in nature, perhaps without headquarters and assigned to the Regular Army as a whole, not to any specific post or locality.

The tactical, or combat, units of the Army would be battalions or battle groups of each regiment. Thus, there might be the 1st through the 10th battalions of the 7th Infantry Regiment.

These battalions would be assigned to divisions or other tactical commands as needed. A division might be made up of battalions from six or more different regiments.

The regiments would draw their members from the Army and the country as a whole. Members would wear the crest of the regiment and the shoulder patch of the major tactical unit to which assigned, giving temporary loyalty to the latter, but permanent loyalty to the regiment.

In combat, if the 3d battalion, 2d Infantry, is knocked out by atomic attack, it could well be replaced by the 5th battalion, 23d Infantry, as the idea is now being worked out.

THE ARMY'S historical infantry regiments fall into three main groups. The first includes the 1st through the 7th Infantry. These seven regiments trace their lineage back to the War of 1812.

Next group, 18 regiments from the 8th through the 25th, dates back to the Civil War. Some of these—notably the 24th and 25th —are either not active or have been broken up to form separate battalions. But the tradition exists to be revived, military planners say.

Final group includes regiments—no exact number because of splitting and inactivation—formed before the fighting started for War I.

There are a number of armored infantry regiments, all dating back to War I, which could be revived to fit into the regimental scheme.

For airborne infantry regiments, the outstanding units of War II would become the repository of battle honors and awards won by the tactical units which they father.

A number of cavalry regiments, armored regiments (dating from early in War II) and even the War I 1st and 2d Tank Regiments (later the 68th and 67th Armored Regiments) would form the parent group for Armor or Cavalry units.

Artillery, both field and antiaircraft, the latter tracing back through Coast Artillery, have had regiments, dating back to before War I, which would be revived.

ONCE THE regimental designations are established, they would make up the fixed, historical and institutional units of which the Army is formed.

As permanent units, they would not change as the Army's troop strength increased or decreased with the budget and the threat of war. Each might be the parent of only one battalion, in the event of great reduction in the Army's size. Each might be the parent of a dozen or more battalions and even additional smaller units, in the event of mobilization.

Planners feel that they have a lead on a possible means of retaining stability in unit identification while permitting the greatest flexibility in tactical organization if the idea can be worked out.

They admit that their concept parallels that of the British army. But it is considerably modified to meet the needs of the American.

Story Personnel Aid Flood Victims

FORT STORY, Va. — A request for emergency aid by Norfolk City Police sent 34 Dukws and 100 officers and men from Fort Story to a coastal community in Norfolk April 12 to assist in evacuating an area flooded by abnormally high tides caused by a storm which generated winds up to 65 miles an hour.

The call for aid came at 8:10 p.m. April 12. An hour later the Dukws, readied for the trip in total darkness because of a power failure at Story, began the 20-mile journey to the scene.

On arrival the amphibious vehicles patrolled the streets and traveled from house to house. They removed 32 persons from homes and marooned automobiles before the water receded about midnight and Civilian Defense officials declared inhabitants of the area out of danger.

Interest Increases In Self-Study Books

FORT RILEY, Kans. — "Interest in self-study books is on the increase in the 16th Inf. Regt.," says R. P. Mueller, librarian at the Camp Funston branch.

The increase has been most evident in mathematics and English literature, according to Mueller, civilian head of this branch.

In addition, he is kept busy tracking down requests for information about people and places and taking care of the 6,000 books on hand.

"We add 50 new books every month, plus seven daily newspapers and 41 different magazines a month," said Mueller. "We also expect to add a new Americana encyclopedia, soon to be published, to our reference file."

Justice in Its Place

A SUBCOMMITTEE of the House Armed Services committee is considering one of the most important bills to come before Congress since 1950. The bill before the Brooks group proposes 31 amendments to the Uniform Code of Military Justice, which became law on May 5, 1950. These changes have been approved by the Court of Military Appeals, the Judge Advocates General, the service departments and civilian law groups.

The amendments are designed to remove "bugs" which have been brought to light during five years of the Code's operation. They do not go as far as some of the services would like.

From various quarters in recent months, a campaign has been launched against the Code. Its antagonists have charged that it has destroyed discipline, has filled military prisons, and would break down in war. It has also been said that the Code has branded many a man a law-breaker who, under the previous Articles of War, would have had his case disposed of under the "fatherly" control of his commander.

There is some truth in the latter allegation. The first three charges are unfounded.

We fought the Korean War under the Code and the Code did not break down. It has not filled prisons, either. Each service has testified that the reverse is true—there are now fewer courts martial per thousand men than at any time in the past.

Has it destroyed discipline? Every high-ranking official who observed the Korea War at close hand has called the Seventh Fleet and the Eighth Army the finest fighting forces America ever assembled. Looking at both sides of the question, we must assume that somebody—then or now, and we think now—has been handling the truth carelessly.

SOME ATTACKS on the Code might better be aimed at the Manual for Courts Martial—as is currently being done by the American Legion—or at courts martial in general.

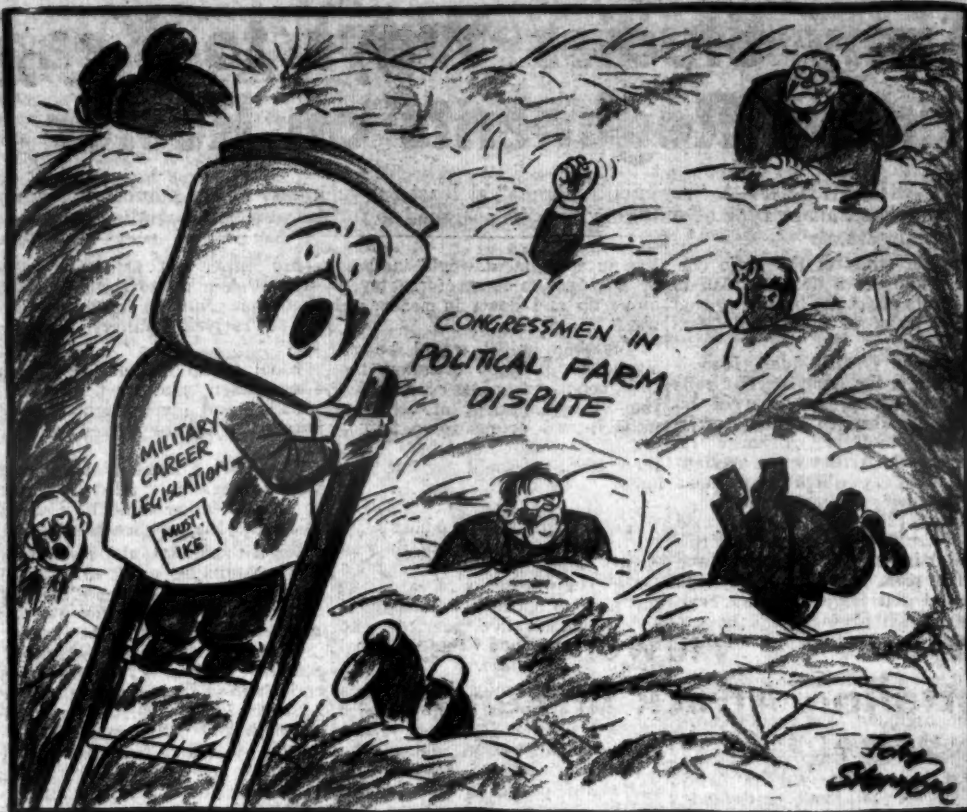

For example, the Manual does not permit evidence of past command punishment to be introduced into a trial. It should be—between verdict and sentence. Before sentencing, a civilian judge can obtain a culprit's whole history, not just his legal record. The broadening of Article 15 is going to mean more command punishment. It will boomerang on the services unless the Manual is changed to permit a court properly to punish a man on trial for the first time—but on trial because repeated CO punishment failed to bring him into line.

Unfortunately, too, most of the attacks have been centered on the civilian overseers of the Code, the Court of Military Appeals. One preposterous suggestion has been that the CMA get only those appeals that a three-officer board under the JAG wanted it to get. (This was made by an officer who at first wanted to junk the entire Code.) We are even somewhat dubious of one of the proposed changes contained in the bill now being considered. This would require a counsel to certify that a good reason exists for an appeal to the CMA. But if Congress wants to accept this we think it will probably work out all right.

Actually, the CMA has been singularly free of that nit-picking in which so much of the federal judiciary indulges. We have yet to see any of that sort of hair-splitting which turns the guilty loose on flimsy legal grounds. On the contrary, the Court in several decisions has given the JAGs and the boards of review powers they had not dared to assume in the past. Much of its work has been, not on appeals of the accused, but on questions posed by a Judge Advocate General.

We may all well pray that the Court of Military Appeals continues as it has in the past: operating to see that the guilty get their just deserts—but not more than their just deserts—and that the innocent are safeguarded against possible miscarriages of justice.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Incentive Pay

TACOMA, Wash.: It was most interesting to read Maj. J. S. Block's letter in Army Times of April 7, in which he points out that after six years of expensive schooling it is hardly fair to expect a physician or dentist to subsist on the same pay as other Army officers.

I keenly appreciate the injustice which aroused the major to write to you, as I graduated with honors from law school after seven years of expensive schooling, and nonetheless have remained a private soldier ever since I was conscripted eight months ago.

Not only has my incentive bonus been apparently lost in the mail, but I was not even jumped to PFC upon entering the Army, as I had a right to expect in view of my professional status.

It is high time that the Army took cognizance of the plight of men who have been subjected to such treatment as the major and myself, and promoted us all to be five-star generals.

JAMES J. MASON

FORT HOOD, Tex.: I know many doctors and dentists who have been drafted into service and my association with them gives me basis for this letter. I should like to emphasize I am speaking only of the drafted commissioned doctors and dentists who avail themselves of every opportunity to inform listeners of how much money they made in civil practice, the benefits of a low efficiency report in gaining a quick release and other degrading remarks about the service.

It has been said that a service career is not one which will gain an officer even modest monetary rewards. Devoted men who have given 25-30 years of their lives to their country's service, I am sure, would attest to this. Why then, is it necessary that these medical individuals must enter the service as first lieutenants with additional pay and then be promoted three times as quickly as any other branches?

Is this a new policy which substitutes pay for patriotism or pride in profession?

The MD has no less obligation to his country, as a citizen, than the tank leader with a fourth grade education.

I am familiar with the cry that the amount of costly education which dentists and doctors require is partly the reason for the quick promotions. Do not chaplains, lawyers, engineers, also receive an "advanced costly education?" Perhaps the downfall of the latter group is the lack of a lobby.

This attempt of building up a larger medical service through quick promotion can cause nothing but bitterness in any thinking junior officer. The many studies which our services conduct on "making the service attractive" and the career incentive act for doctors and dentists do not complement each other.

The writer must admit his thoughts on the subject were probably given direction and meaning by being offered "my bars when I'm promoted to captain" by an officer who had not been in the service long enough to wear lieutenant's bars properly.

"TWO CAVITIES"

'Forgiveness' Bill

FORT MACARTHUR, Calif.: Whatever happened to the bill which the services were supposed to ask Congress to pass to "forgive" over-payments of re-up bonuses in 1954 and 1955. It looks as though somebody had dropped the ball. My unit commander just received a DD Form 159, authorizing the local finance officer to collect $244.22 from my pay.

"TWO-TIME LOSER"

(Editor's Note: See last week's Army Times on HR 8922. It has been approved by the House Armed Services committee, now goes to the House. If the bill passes, men who have started to repay will have their money refunded. Until that happens, the services have no choice but to start collecting over-payments.)

ROTC Expenses

FORT EUSTIS, Va.: Your boy, Steve Tillman, has gotten into my hair with his April 7 article on pay for USMA cadets. He says: "The cadets are paid $111.15 a month. From this they must pay for their uniforms, textbooks, etc. Upon admission to the Academy, each cadet deposits $300. This is to cover his first expenses for uniforms and textbooks. These ex-

"But what's he got to look forward to?"

PVT. DANIEL W. ALEXANDER, Co. 1, 1st Inf., takes his oath of admission to the Washington State bar from Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, CG, Fort Ord and the 5th Inf. Div. The state's Chief Justice requested Gen. Mudgett to administer the oath. Alexander will be assigned to the Staff Judge Advocate's office upon completion of his basic training at Ord.

Civilian TV Viewers to See Battalion Attack at Benning

FORT BENNING, Ga.—The Infantry Center's crack demonstration team will be joined by a battalion from the 82d Abn. Div., Fort Bragg, when the Army goes before "Wide World" television cameras Sunday, May 13, in a special all-service prelude to Armed Forces Day, May 19.

The theme of the show, which will be introduced by Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, will be centered on the Army's power in event of atomic war.

Emphasis will be on the Army of the future and the atomic approach, with paratroopers landing in the first sequence, followed by an airdrop of heavy supplies and equipment. The camera will move then to the artillery fire preparation and to an infantry-tank team attack on Buma Hill.

Both the Honest John rocket and the 280-mm gun will be used in the mock battle, with atomic simulators demonstrating the potential of both weapons.

Missile Courses Moving to Sill

FORT SILL, Okla. — Seven surface-to-surface guided missile courses are scheduled for transfer to Fort Sill from Fort Bliss early in 1957.

According to instructions from Fourth Army, surface-to-surface missile instruction will cease at Bliss Dec. 17, 1956, and begin at Sill Feb. 11, 1957. Between these dates instructional equipment and classes in progress will move here.

Some of the courses will be transferred between the end of one class and the beginning of the next. Other classes will begin at Bliss and finish here.

Three of these courses are of a general nature for officers. There is a course on each level—basic, battery officer and advanced. At Bliss, eight classes a year were taught on the basic level and one a year on the others. All were 16-week courses. These courses, training a total of about 250 officers annually, will be integrated into the regular and associate career instruction patterns at Sill.

THE OTHER four courses are specialists' courses for both officers and enlisted men. In length, these range from an eight-week mechanical materiel maintenance course to a 32-week fire control system maintenance course. A total of 26 of these specialist classes will pass through the school annually, turning out about 200 graduates.

All departments of the Artillery and Guided Missile School will be involved in the surface-to-surface missile training. The Department of Materiel will be concerned primarily with the maintenance and operation of the missile itself. Instruction on the fire control systems will be conducted by the Department of Observation.

The Department of Communications and Electronics will cover the basic electronics involved. The tactics and techniques of employing the missiles will be taught by the departments of Gunnery and Tactics and Combined Arms.

The best is yet to come!

Talk about cash dividends on common stocks and we certainly think that's true.

Why?

Well, just take a look at some figures that were recently released by the New York Stock Exchange.

Last year, better than 9 out of 10—or 982 out of the 1076 common stocks listed there—paid cash dividends.

Those dividends totalled $7,488,028,780... over a billion dollars more than 1954 payments. A brand new record for the ninth straight year!

Impressive?

We think so, of course.

But that still doesn't mean you can just stick in your thumb and pull out a plum. An ideal stock in your situation might easily be a complete misfit in another.

What it does mean is that there are any number of pretty solid opportunities for putting your extra money to work, earning a current return of 4% or 5% on the dollar.

Which stocks should you buy?

We'll be happy to have our Research Department set up the best program it can to meet your particular circumstances.

Just tell us a bit about your background. The risks you can afford, the rewards you seek.

There's no charge of any kind, you're not obligated in any way.

Khaki Capsules

THE chapels at Fort Carson, Colo., ran out of Bibles last week. Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Herman J. Kregel had to go through five chapels before finding one complete copy. The American Bible Society is rushing several thousand to Carson right away.

Officers of Hq., 4th Armor Group in Frankfurt, Germany, have revived the old tradition of Mess Night. The old-fashioned stag party has gone out of style in recent years, since most of the officers nowadays are family men.

The 52 Association, a New York group dedicated to remembering war veterans, sent a delegation to Washington to throw a party for patients at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Among the delicacies on the menu was Roast Maryland Chicken, Kosher Style—whatever that is.

In Korea, winner of the 31st Inf. Regt. talent contest's instrument specialty category was Pvt. Richard M. Carroll of I Co. He played "Stars and Stripes Forever" on a couple of spoons. Carroll and his spoons went on to win the 7th Div. contest.

At Fort Lee, Va., about 100 knobby-kneed members of the 528th Bn., 3d QM Group, are going to test new summer shorts and long stockings.

Sgt. Robert E. Burton was the 250,000th person to use McGuire AFB, N. J., since McGuire was opened as an aerial port of embarkation for Europe a year ago. For this achievement, the sergeant got a scroll.

I Co., 19th Inf. in Korea is looking for an ox. It has an ex-cart in the motor pool, but has nothing to pull it.

Drivers at Fort Ord, Calif., no longer have to salute while the vehicle is in motion. The rule was made as a safety measure.

The Schofield Lightning News

in Hawaii cautions its readers against the practice of doubling the previous bet on each hole of a round of golf. It points out that if you bet a dime on the first hole, and lose every time, you would end up paying (or owing) the winner more than $29,000 after the 18th hole.

SP3 Franklin Kiel of the 41st Armd. Inf. Bn.'s Co. D has slimmed down to a svelte 208 pounds in a few months in Germany. The 2d Armd. Div. soldier weighed 268 last November. He is five-feet, seven inches tall.

PFC John Purvis, a radio repairman with Hq. Btry. of the 18th FA Bn. in Germany, used to have one of the most desirable professions in the United States. His job was to hold his arms around pretty girls in Florida. The idea was to keep the girls from falling off of water skis until they learned how to navigate on their own.

When Pvts. Jerry Rheault and Frank Cassano were cruising up the English Channel last year, they tossed a message overboard in a watertight peanut can. The message drifted all the way to England, a few miles away, where a worker in an English vacation resort picked it up. Rheault is a member of 60th Station Hospital at Croix Chapeau, France, and Cassano is assigned to 7962 AU, Orleans.

An assistant section leader with the 451st AAA at March AFB, Calif. is SFC Lewellyn M. Chilson, the Army's second most decorated soldier (Audie Murphy is first). Chilson earned three Distinguished Service Crosses, two Silver Stars, a Legion of Merit, two Bronze Stars, two Purple Hearts, and a batch of other ribbons.

ENGINEERS

THERE'S A BRIGHT FUTURE

FOR YOU AT CONTINENTAL

Continental Aviation & Engineering Corp. is constantly increasing its staff of competent specialized personnel to meet the growing demands in the development of specialized power packages. The small and medium gas turbine engine program at CAE is progressing rapidly and offers engineers and technicians a challenging career coupled with many extra job benefits. If you hold a degree in the AERODYNAMICS, METALLURGY, MECHANICAL or DESIGN ENGINEERING fields, contact CAE and investigate the opportunities that can be yours.

Soviets Seen Angling to Kill West German Arming

By GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

THE focus of Soviet attention at the disarmament talks in London appears to have switched back to the European continent, and especially to Germany.

Observers are suggesting that the real Soviet purpose—at least their immediate purpose—is to gain an agreement on "force levels" which would allow the U. S. and Britain no margin for maintaining troops and air forces on the continent.

Perhaps the actual Soviet emphasis is slightly different. They may be willing to reach a measure of agreement in the larger areas of disarmament (i.e., some form of atomic control such as the diversion of future production to peaceful purposes rather than weapons stockpiles). Their price for such agreement may be to wash out the rearmament of Western Germany.

Eliot

This thinking proceeds from two tentative premises:

(1) If—as this reporter has believed ever since the downfall of the late lamented Mr. Beria—Soviet policy is pretty well responsive to the wishes of the Soviet Army, it is well to remember that these gentlemen, like most old soldiers, think in terms of the last war—that is, of Germany first.

(2) Soviet diplomacy, if it must now pay attention to the Marshals in seeking its ends, may well perceive the opportunity presented by the increasing reluctance of the Germans to rearm, in parallel with the persistent reluctance of the French to see the Germans rearm.

IT DOESN'T require very much imagination to follow the thought processes of an accomplished Soviet diplomat—such as Mr. Andrei Gromyko—in seeking to use these two reluctances to serve his ends. If he had only Continental opponents to deal with, he would be in clove.

But he is not so happily situated. He has also the United States and Britain to think about. Perhaps the current visit of the Soviet Gold-Dust Twins, Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev, to Britain is more carefully timed than had been anticipated.

What better opportunity could be arranged for a heart-to-heart talk with British leaders, the objective of which might perhaps be to trade off peace in the Middle East, where Britain has vital interests, for British abandonment of the idea of rearming West Germany, which a large and vocal segment of the British body politic has never liked anyway?

It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that the Soviet interference in Egypt and elsewhere in the Middle East has as its purpose the acquisition of trading counters for just such a deal.

Carried to a successful conclusion, this could end up in a complete smashing of the whole system of Western alliances, which would make the Soviet leaders happy indeed.

But it is unlikely that the British are going to let themselves be deluded into any such arrangement unless they become convinced that the U. S. is not interested in supporting them in the Middle East and that they must make the best deal they can for themselves.

IN OTHER WORDS, while it is just conceivable that both the U. S. and Britain, in view of the attitudes of the Germans and the French, might be willing to let German rearmament drag along to a slow death they are certainly going to exact a higher price from Moscow than merely a cessation of Soviet troublemaking in the Middle East.

Something will still have to be done to improve the over-all picture—something that will appeal to the American voter, in an election year, more forcibly than a cool-off of the Middle Eastern fire.

Perhaps this is why, in examining the Soviet line as presented day by day in London, one continued to get these curious overtones of a desire to reach some sort of basic agreement that will—if not going all the way—at least substantially increase the prospects that we will not have World War III on our necks in the immediate future.

Surely Mr. Gromyko—who has been around this gooseberry bush a number of times—knows good and well he cannot sell Americans any phony bill of goods. If he is to produce any impression at all, he has to come up with something substantial.

When Stalin was his master, he could offer only words—mostly tough words.

If, today, the ultimate power in the Soviet Union lies in the hands of the Marshals, they might be willing to go quite a long way in other directions if, in turn, they could rid themselves of the specter of a rearmed Germany on that open western frontier toward which their thoughts are so persistently directed.

U. S. Army Chaplain Honored by Holy See

ZAMA, Japan. — The U. S. Army's senior supervisory chaplain for the Far East, Chaplain (Col.) John A. Dunn, has been appointed a Monsignor by the Holy See in Rome, Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore announced this week.

Monsignor ranks immediately below Bishop in the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church.

In addition to Chaplain Dunn's duties as Army Forces Far East and 8th U. S. Army (REAR) Chaplain, he is also Vicar Delegate thereby making him Ecclesiastical Superior for all Army, Navy and Air Force Catholic Chaplains in the Far East.

DECORATIONS

Names of decoration winners are published by Army Times as they are approved for publication in General Orders, and in some cases, as presentations are made. This list appears periodically as names are received from the Adjutant General's Office. Where known, names of those no longer on active duty are omitted.

SOLDIER'S MEDAL

BENNETT, PFC Howard, for rescuing a young girl who had been swept away by swiftly flowing water as she waded in the Catawba River in Gaston County, N. C., June 26, 1955, while a member of Btry. D, 80th Abn. AAA Bn. (AW), Fort Bragg, N. C.

KUNL, SP3 Howard G., for plunging into raging flood waters near Manteca, Calif., Dec. 28, 1955, to rescue a marooned man. Then and now a member of the 521st Engr. Co., Fort Scott, Calif.

MALASTER, PFC Abraham, for entering a burning building at Texarkana, Ark., Dec. 4, 1955, to warn occupants and aid them in leaving the flaming structure. A member of the 9361st Tech. Svc. Unit, Red River Arsenal, Texarkana, Tex.

FRIDGEON, PFC Douglas M., for grabbing the lines of a fellow paratrooper's unopened chute and supporting him until both landed safely, Sept. 26, 1955, over the southern Japanese island of Kyushu, while serving with Co. G, 508th Abn. ARCT.

BRONZE STAR MEDAL

GEIB, SFC Jakob, for meritorious service while serving with the 7th Inf. Regt., 3d Div., from December 1950 to June 1951. Presently with Hq. Co., 2d Bn., 18th Inf. Regt., 1st Div., Fort Riley, Kans.

MAYHUGH, SFC Joseph A., for exemplary behavior in combat on or about May 25, 1945, while serving with the 27th Armd. Inf. Bn., 9th Div., in Germany. Now with 18th Inf. Regt., 1st Div., Fort Riley, Kans.

COMMENDATION RIBBON

BRENNAN, MSgt. James J., for pulling two victims of a helicopter crash from the wreckage and applying first aid, after sending a companion back to camp for help, Nov. 11, 1955, near Fort Belvoir, Va., while a member of the 609th Engr. Co. (Camouflage) at Belvoir. Now with H & H Co., 75th FA Bn., APO 177.

COMBS, Sgt. Fred I., for saving a Japanese woman and three children from blazing buildings in Tokyo, Dec. 2, 1955, while serving with Co. B, Tokyo QM Depot, 8080th Army Unit. Still with the same unit.

HOUSER, Lt. Col. Edwin F., for meritorious service in 1955 while serving as liaison officer with the U. S. Air Force at Hahn Air Base, Germany. Now CO, Fort Ord, Calif. Specialist Schools.

MAYHUGH, SFC Joseph A., for outstanding performance of various duties both in garrison and field while serving with his present unit, Hq. Co., 2d Bn., 18th Inf. Regt., 1st Div., at Fort Riley, Kans.

RESCH, SFC Ralph E., for superior performance of duties as supply sergeant of Co. F, 8th Inf. Regt., from February 1953 to November 1955. Now with Co. G, 18th Inf. Regt., 1st Div., at Fort Riley, Kans.

SCHAUB, 1st Lt. Warren M., for meritorious service in 1955 with I Corps Arty., in the Far East, during which he handled one position normally occupied by a field grade officer. Presently commander of Hq. Btry., 91st Armd. FA Bn.

"Wow — Look at that plunging neckline."

RETIREMENTS

The following retirement notes are from stories received from post information officers. Full retirement list is carried at the end of Army orders.

LESNIAK, SFC Louis J., at Fort Carson, Colo., after 21 years service. He served 10 years overseas, including tours in Korea, the Pacific area, the Mediterranean, Europe, and North Africa. Last assigned to Co. C, 89th Engr. Bn. at Carson.

ROBERTSON, Lt. Col. Victor M., at Fort Jackson, S. C., March 31, after 30 years, starting as a Reserve second lieutenant in 1925. On active duty since 1940, he served during War II in the U. S. in Germany 1947-50, at Jackson 1950-53 and later as chief of staff, Military Aid Mission to Turkey. He returned to Jackson last October and was last assigned there as chief of the Retired Activities Office.

SMITH, MSgt. George E., at Fort Shafter, Hawaii, on March 31, after completing 28 years service. The ex-saddler for the late Gen. George S. Patton, enlisted in the Army in 1920. Assigned to Honolulu Army Post during War II, and later became first sergeant of the organization. Plans to live in Wahiawa and study real estate.

As flight systems have become more complex, speeds higher, space and weight-saving more valuable, the increasing rate of technical progress in the aircraft industry has created a serious problem:

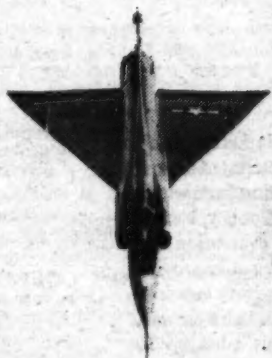

Keeping its products up to top level of operational effectiveness—and in the air—has become a major responsibility of the prime contractor.

Martin has been working on that problem for many years; and the result is a new kind of service organization and systems method which now provides for the maintenance of all Martin products—from the company's assembly lines to operational flight lines anywhere in the world—at peak effectiveness and with maximum availability.

It is service on a systems basis, and already it's setting a new pace in the industry.

RESERVE AFFAIRS

Comptroller Issues Retirement Ruling

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON.—HR 9752, to restrict effective date of Reserve retirement to date of application, is not in hearings yet but it has already accomplished the result sought by the Army.

The Comptroller General has ruled—April 10 under B-113387—that he would not accept the Seagrave decision from the U. S.

Swastika Flag Goes To 82d War Museum

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—A huge swastika flag that fluttered over Ludwigslust Castle in Germany 11 years ago, has found its way to the 82d Abn. Div.'s War Museum.

Brig. Gen. Robert H. Wienecke, assistant division commander, presented the Nazi flag to MSgt. Bennie M. Weeks, curator of the museum. Wienecke has preserved the flag since the day it was taken as a war trophy.

The flag was one of seven which encircled the high central tower of Ludwigslust Castle in May of 1945 when the 82d took the massive stone building and used it as division CP.

New Post Theater Opens at Buchanan

FORT BUCHANAN, P. R.—Fort Buchanan's new post theater was formally opened recently. Lt. Col. Thomas E. Bennett, commander of the Special Training Center, who substituted for Col. Robert G. Sherrard, Jr., cut the symbolic ribbon inaugurating the building.

The new theater, built at an approximate cost of $130,000 during the past year, has a number of modern conveniences for the comfort of its patrons. It features a wide-view screen with four speakers, adaptable projectors and cushioned, spring-like seats. Its seating capacity is 336.

Court of Claims as being applicable to all similar cases.

This means that all Reserve officers who have applied for Reserve retirement after they attain age 60, must file individual claims with the Court of Claims, if they wish their retirement to take effect at that age. And this must be done before Congress enacts HR 9752 into law.

The Seagrave decision says that the effective date of Reserve retirement is the month in which the officer attains age 60. If application is filed years later, the decision, says, it would be retroactive with respect to pay, to the date on which age 60 was attained.

No Tanner Review

The Tanner decision is far from being settled.

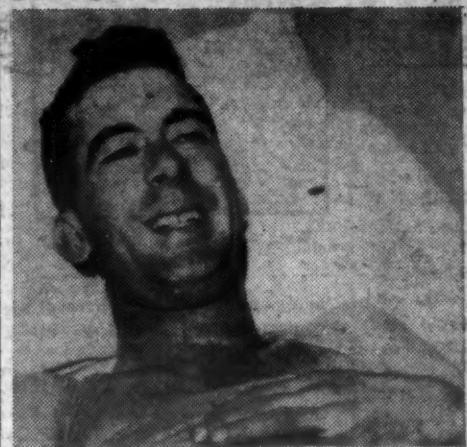

The Army is not sure how to proceed in bringing retired pay up to the limits allowed by the Comptroller General. So the decision has been "bucked" into Army JAG for instructions.

Since the Army cannot tell what officers are affected without individual review of all records on retired Reserve officers—and this would be far from 100 percent reliable—it looks as if each officer must protect his own interest.

If the Army had to resort to reviewing all records it could only pick out Reservists coming under the Tanner decision if the record disclosed current federal employment.

Best bet is for all Reserve officers holding federal employment, who have retired under Title III of PL 810 or who expect to retire under the Reserve act, to write the Army Adjutant General, Washington 25, D. C., and ask for information relative to collecting Reserve retirement pay while in federal employment.

Gives Girl Chance to Live

WHEN PFC Gene E. McDowell, Fort Campbell, Ky., paratrooper, heard that 7-year-old Deltina Norvall, of Nashville, Tenn., needed a skin graft to give her an even chance of survival, he volunteered with the blessings of his military supervisors. "Tina" suffered severe burns over 65 percent of her body when her dress caught fire March 24. The operation in Nashville last week took three hours and doctors said it would take several days for results to be known. McDowell, left, will be hospitalized two weeks. Deltina is at right with mother, Mrs. Wm. Norvall, a widow.

Look Now into a Civilian Career
with Shell

MORE AND MORE ENGINEERS these days are filling top jobs in American industry. Some reach executive status by sticking to pure engineering, others by using their knowledge and training as stepping stones. Either way, the engineer's analytical approach to problems seems to be invaluable to the executive in business—particularly the oil business.

As a graduate engineer, you can be very valuable to Shell's nationwide marketing organization—either in technical sales or in our vast product distribution operation. With sales surpassing the billion-dollar mark each year, Shell Marketing has a lot to offer you in return.

If you come with Shell Marketing, you'll find we are every bit as interested in your career as you are. Promotion from within is a long-established Shell policy, backed by continuing employee evaluation and by recurring training aimed at improving job knowledge and supervisory capabilities of qualified employees. In a dynamic, growing business, all this adds up to exceptional opportunities for capable, ambitious and hard-working engineers. Shell salaries are good, too, and its overall benefit program for employees is practically unequalled in American industry. Our best reference: any of the 7,000 Marketing employees who make our organization what it is.

Colonel's Idea Makes 'Copter Rescues Easier

A RESCUE DEVICE designed to make helicopter rescue operations safer and easier, has been developed by Lt. Col. Gerald H. Shea, right. It's a railed platform mounted in a rubber raft, which dangles below the Army's H-21 helicopter. At left is CWO John Cooney, copter pilot from the 93d Helicopter Co., Fort Riley, Kans.

FORT RILEY, Kans. — Persons marooned because of flood waters or snow storms, may find efforts to rescue them by helicopter faster and less hair-raising thanks to some constructive thinking and action by a Riley officer.

Lt. Col. Gerald H. Shea has devised a system by which a four-man rubber raft may be suspended below a helicopter. Shea is commanding officer of the Army Aviation Unit Training Command here.

Along with the assistance of his men, and the executive officer, Maj. Byron E. Sheppard, Shea's development also includes two-way communication between pilot and raft when the 'copters cannot land and pick up their human cargo.

BASIS for the rescue innovation is centered around the four-man raft, a standard item carried in Naval aircraft flying over water. The raft has a light platform and a collapsing railing to provide extra safety in case children or injured persons are being carried.

The raft is stowed beneath the 'copter where it is secured to two standard bomb shackles. The raft is ready to utilize after it is released and dropped to the ends of four 30-foot nylon ropes.

The unit has already been tested here to a certain extent.

FURTHER TESTS are scheduled. The raft itself has been thoroughly tested and can support six persons. Rescue work has been previously possible but additional safety factors have been needed. Persons have been tossed from the external hoist of a helicopter during rescue operations, while in other cases, they have been swept off the tops of cars stranded by flood waters or by blasts of air from the 'copter blades.

Tall trees and high TV antennas have also prevented helicopter rescue from roof tops and Shea's device is designed to eliminate all the hazards of helicopter rescues.

Shea has gone further into planning for a flood disaster. He has also worked out a proposed tactical operation of a helicopter unit called to assist in evacuation and rescue work.

The colonel's tactical plans call for one platoon of a helicopter company's machines to be equipped with the fabricated rescue raft.

The six machines would move in to evacuate persons off house tops, car tops, out of trees or wherever they might be stranded and carry them to high ground. They would be picked up by machines from the other two platoons and taken to the point where they would be sheltered and fed. This system would free the emergency equipped machines for more rescue work and would also cut down the distance the 'copter would be required to travel with its suspended human cargo.

AT YOUR SERVICE

KOREA MOH AWARDS

Q. Will you print the over-all total number of Medals of Honor awarded by the Army for Korea action, as well as which Army division earned the most MOH awards for Korea action?

A. The Army awarded 77 Medals of Honor for Korea action. Members of the 2d Inf. Div. won the most, with a total of 18; next was the 25th Inf. Div. with 14 and the 7th Inf. Div. with 12.

CAN'T TAKE IT

Q. I am eligible for Korean GI Bill training, but I have just returned to active military service. Could I take a GI Bill correspondence course while back in uniform?

A. No. Under the law, veterans may not receive Korea GI Bill training while on active duty — even though they meet all the law's other basic requirements.

VOLUNTARY RELEASE

Q. Is the program for granting a few weeks' early release at the close of the fiscal year entirely voluntary on a soldier's part?

A. Yes. No soldier will be released under the plan if he wants to finish out his tour of duty.

NON-CHARGEABLE LEAVE

Q. Is convalescent leave chargeable against accrued leave? What about delay en route for a convalescent?

A. Convalescent leave is not chargeable; delay en route is chargeable. See AR 630-5, par. 2.

POST TRAILER RULE

Q. Is it customary to give civilian employees at an Army installation preference over noncoms in assignment of leases in the post's trailer camp?

A. No. Trailer camp leases are granted by the local commander and fall wholly under his disposition.

Like the assignment of quarters, much depends upon the nature of the civilian employee's work and the need for his immediate availability on the installation at all times and beyond his normal tour of working hours. See AR 210-10, par. 65, and AR 405-80, par. 6b (i).

DEFENSE MEDAL CUTOFF

Q. What is the cutoff date for the National Defense Service Medal, and how long must one have served before that date?

A. The inclusive dates are June 27, 1950 and July 27, 1954. One day or more of active duty service anywhere in the world earns the award.

DEPENDENCY CLAIM

Q. Can a soldier claim his minor sister as a "dependent" for Class Q allotment purposes, provided the sister is more than 50% dependent upon him for her support?

A. Brothers and sisters — regardless of degree of dependency — may not be claimed as Class Q dependents. Of course, the soldier may authorize a Class E allotment of pay for the sister's support, all of which would be deducted from his service pay.

ARAACOM ASSIGNMENTS

Q. What is the number of the directive recently issued by ARAACOM concerning choice of station and assignment to ree-listees of that command?

A. Department of Army Circular 601-11, dated Nov. 25, 1955 and Change 1 to that Circular dated Dec. 9, 1955.

Poconos Ideal Vacation Spot

By FRANKLIN G. SMITH
Travel Editor

STROUDSBURG, Pa.—This old town, with its faded buildings and rambling streets, started out as a blockhouse. Master of the outpost was a stern, fearless Dutchman by the name of Col. Jacob Stroud.

The place was first known as Fort Penn. And under Col. Stroud's command it became the haven for many an early-day traveler, particularly for the frontier men, women and children fleeing the wrath of the fierce Wyomings.

For some 180 years, starting with the west bound pioneers, traders, adventurers and in later years, the vacationists and tourists, Stroudsburg has been sheltering and feeding all comers.

SITUATED NEAR that picturesque gorge between the Tammay and Minsi mountains known as the Delaware Gap, through which flows one of the four main arteries of traffic into the vast and varied Pocono Mountain region, Stroudsburg has a good claim to the title of the "Pocono Vacation Capital."

From this strategic point, the Pocono Vacation Bureau tells the world of the mountains, lakes, rivers, falls, forests, flowers, animals, and above all, of the numerous old and new resorts that make the Poconos one of the nation's greatest playgrounds.

Covering more than 1500 square miles, with altitudes ranging from 800 to 2000 feet, the region is bordered by Lake Wallenpaupack in the north; Wind Gap in the south; the Delaware River to the east; and the Lehigh River to the West.

WITHIN THIS area may be found about every sport, recreation, and amusement known to our day. Some of the most popular centers, places that provide vacation delights for thousands every season, are listed as:

MOUNT POCONO—Heart of the region is 1658 feet high. From a hundred viewpoints one can see right through the Delaware Gap 25 miles away. There are ten fine golf courses within five miles. Most magnificent panoramas in the whole region is from Pocono Knob from where one can see New Jersey and New York on a clear day. The Lackawanna tracks wind around its base.

BUCK HILL FALLS—Favored in summer for its green valleys, waterfalls, golf courses and trout streams, and in winter for its ice and snow sports, and deer hunting, the area is one of the choicest holiday resorts for Easterners.

LAKE WALLENPAUPACK—Largest artificial lake in the State, was created in 1926 by the damming of the Wallenpaupack Creek for electric power. It covers 5760 acres and provides boating, camping, swimming, hunting and fishing facilities.

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Popular for years as a summer resort, the Gap shares popularity with Kittatinny Park of the Blue Ridge Mountains and beautiful Lake Lenape.

Some of the more popular resorts in the various centers are:

Penn-Stroud, famous town and country inn operated by descendants of Col. Stroud in Stroudsburg; Lenape Village, Tafton, on natural crystal Fairview Lake, with 60 cozy individual cottages with a friendly, informal atmosphere catering to honeymooners and families; Twin Pine Lodge and Ranch high in the mountains above Stroudsburg with a friendly, western informality has miles of riding trails, swimming pool, tennis, nightly dancing and one of the most magnificent views in the Poconos; Echo Lake Lodge and Cabins at Echo Lake in the Eastern Poconos has excellent food, swimming pool, orchestra and cocktail lounge; Strickland's Inn and Cottages at Mt. Pocono, operated by the "original honeymooners," Ed and Anne-Louise Strickland, this mountain retreat has about everything in the way of comfort, food, sport and recreation; Merry Hill Lodge, Cresco, a gay, friendly, distinctive resort that features a white sand beach, ship's deck, TV lounge and numerous "romantic" and friendly amenities; Willow Dell House at Buttermilk Falls is just four miles from Stroudsburg on Route 402, featuring square dancing, swimming pool, orchestra, and many social and sports activities; Fernwood at Bushkill occupies a 160-acre estate, with lake, pool, golf course, driving range, archery, saddle horses, and a daily recreation program; Whittlewood Lodge, Mt. Pocono, offers moderate rates, full vacation facilities on 77-acres of woodland, streams and cozy hollows.

The Resort Directory of the Pocono Vacation Bureau lists 40 distinct resort communities, cities, towns, villages and hamlets, in the region. It also lists 140 hotels, inns, ranches, motels, cottage and cabin establishments in these communities.

Among these may be found about everything desirable in the

What to See In Poconos

Big Pocono, 2131 feet high in Big Pocono State Park west of Tannersville, has one of the most spectacular, all around views in the area. The road to the summit has been improved, and a rim drive newly constructed.

Cherry Valley. The black top road running from Delaware Water Gap to Saylorsburg, along Cherry Valley Creek south of Rt. 200, offers lovely rural vistas and long range views of the valley and the Blue Mountain ridge.

Delaware Valley views, both spectacular and picturesque, are plentiful along Rt. 209 between Echo Lake and Milford, and along the River Road from Minisink Hills to Bushkill.

Delaware Water Gap. Rts. 611 and alternate 611 offer good views of the Gap, but possibly the most striking views can be seen from the approaches to the new Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge on the New Jersey Side.

Lake Wallenpaupack. There are several good views of the lake from Rt. 507 north from Greentown, an dtraveling down Rt. 390 from Promised Land to Tafton or toward Paupack.

Pocono Knob Drive. This road turns off Rt. 611 in Mt. Pocono at the Marene Doll House. It runs past Skyline Inn and loops around the Knob, offering good views across the mountain tops.

Routes 90, 290, 390 from Bangor on up to Greentown and beyond offer perhaps the largest variety of rural scenes and wide range views in the area. During blossom time in May and June roads are especially beautiful.

Scranton and the valley of the Lehigh can be viewed from lookouts along Rt. 307.

How to Get to Poconos

TRAIN—Lackawanna R. R. features air-conditioned coaches from New York. The line crosses the heart of the Poconos and connects with trains from all parts of the U. S. and Canada.

BUS—Martz Bus Lines and two divisions of the Greyhound Bus Lines provide direct service from New York, Philadelphia and economical express service from other sections of the East and West.

AIR—The major airlines have year 'round service to the nearby Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport or the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport at Avoca. Private planes are welcomed at the Mt. Pocono or East Stroudsburg Airports.

AUTO—A network of highways and super-highways converge on the Poconos offering a wide choice of routes for your driving pleasure. Excellent hard-surfaced highways criss-cross the entire Pocono region so that every Pocono resort is easily and quickly accessible. (See map).

ATTENTION HONEYMOONERS

This Area Casts Romantic Spell

STROUDSBURG, Pa.—Ever since the braves of the Minsis wooed the daughters of the Paupacs, and vice versa, this sylvan region of the Blue Ridge Range has had an aura of romance.

Sometimes violent, as when the warring Delawares and Iriquois seized each others females on the Delaware shores, and sometimes somewhat "comic-opera" romantic as when "Indian Butler," the savage Tory colonel, took as his fighting-mate "Queen Esther," the half-breed Seneca, in a whooping, howling ceremony.

Just why the Poconos impart the romantic spell no one seems to know. But it is definitely felt around here. Every hotel, inn, motel, cottage and cabin installation capitalizes on the urge, particularly in the spring.

Harry Ahnert, president of the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau here, recently issued a typewritten-page statement on the subject of Pocono honeymoons.

He traces the new boom in post-marital traffic back to the close of War II when the soldiers, airmen and sailors from Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Washington found the Poconos an inviting retreat for themselves and their brides.

To give some idea of the popularity of the region for the newlyweds, Ahnert cites the report of one resort alone that received 96,000 couples since 1944. To get a fair estimate of the total honeymoon patronage, he suggests that the 96,000 figure be multiplied by the 30 other resorts that cater especially to honeymooners.

He attributes the extraordinary attraction to modest prices, the beautiful scenery, a certain peaceful atmosphere, adequate sports and amusements and the nearness of the Poconos to the great population centers of the East.

Ready to Fire a 'Maximum 100'

601st AAA Battery Racks Up New Gunnery Record

ANDREWS AFB, Md.—"Target right field of fire! Commence tracking! Free to fire when ready!"

Lt. John P. Milleson Jr., commanding officer of B Btry. of the 601st AAA Bn., Andrews Air Force Base, was calling the shots to Lt. Rolando Rodriguez, his gun platoon officer, for the seventh and final course of the day, on their record service practice at Bethany Beach, Del.

The big 90-mm. roared, the black puffs of smoke encircled the elusive target, and it looked like a pretty good course to Lt. Stephen Bostic, the battery radar officer.

The radar crew sat in the van waiting for the score sheet to come in from the records section, and a few minutes later, a breathless runner returned with the tally sheet.

In the upper left corner, there was a bright red, maximum 100, which meant that B Btry had established a new single course record for the 2d AAA Regional Command, which makes up a very large section of the East Coast AAA Defenses.

TV Science Show Features AA Men At Camp Hanford

CAMP HANFORD, Wash. — Six members of the 83d AAA Missile Bn. (Nike) recently were the stars of the Hanford Science Forum, a half-hour TV program over KEPR-TV, Kennewick, Wash., sponsored by the General Electric Co. and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Also on hand for the program and for benefit of visitors were the 72d Army Band from Camp Hanford, and MSgt Jack Cantrell, local Army recruiting NCO.

This marks the first appearance of a 31st AAA Brigade Nike unit on a half-hour telecast.

The men gave an overall picture of a Nike battery operation, answered questions phoned in by the viewing public, and demonstrated the raising of a Nike to firing position, which was followed by a film-clip showing the Nike tracking and destroying its target aircraft.

The participating personnel were Lt. Col. Reuben Mundy, battalion CO; Maj. Werner S. Kohlhaugen, executive officer; Capt. Lowell E. Oder, CO, Btry. B; Sgt. Waldimer J. Nameniuk, fire control NCO; SP2 Frank M. Hernandez, cook; SP3 I. V. Boswell, launcher crewman.

The 83d AAA Bn. and three 120-mm Gun Battalions make-up the 5th AAA Group which is responsible for the anti-aircraft defense of the Hanford atomic products operations, located in the desert area of southeast Washington.

SHOWN ON the firing line at Bethany Beach, Del., is B Btry., 601st AAA Bn., regularly stationed at Andrews AFB, Md., as part of the anti-aircraft defense of the Washington-Baltimore area. The battery, which has held scoring records in its command since 1954, has just turned in a new one—a new single course firing record for the 2d AAA Regional Command.

New Unit Set Up For H34 Training

FORT SILL, Okla. — A new transportation company to give Army warrant officer pilots transition training in the H-34 helicopter was organized recently at the Fort Sill Army Aviation Unit Training Command.

The new unit, the 36 Trans. Co., is attached to the 54th Trans. Bn. of the AAUTC Capt. James R. Stegall is the company commander.

Since the activation of the aviation command itself last July, this is the sixth company to be started here. The purpose of the helicopter command — to train pilots in the H-34, one of the largest 'copters the Army has—necessitates activating new companies of student pilots as former companies complete their training and are reassigned elsewhere.

One of the units completing its "basic training" in the H-34s is the 110th which has been assigned to Europe. The unit, to move on April 25, will be stationed in Oberschleisheim in the Munich area of Germany.

DEVELOPER OF BEAUTIFUL OCEAN BEACH, MARYLAND

says this about Indian Lake Estates:

"The choice of location for Indian Lake Estates was made after a careful survey throughout the state, along both coasts as well as the inland areas. For three years I have looked for an ideal spot for a new development . . . and I have found it. For sheer beauty, delightful year-round climate, recreational opportunity and sound investment, I am convinced that no other section of the state has so much to offer.

"Indian Lake Estates, located near Lake Wales in the very heart of Florida's richest citrus region, with its warm winters and delightfully mild summers, offers the ideal climate for year-round living. Indian Lake Estates has a gradually rising elevation from 64 to 115 feet above sea level. High above sea level and away from the threat of hurricanes, this beautiful lake property is within short motoring distance of both the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

"Indian Lake Estates borders on beautiful Lake We-oh-ya-Kapka. This 15-square mile lake has a firm, sandy bottom sloping gently from the shore. This sparkling fresh water lake is superb for bathing and boating. Anglers in great numbers find Lake We-oh-ya-Kapka a fisherman's paradise. Here, at Indian Lake Estates, I feel sure that you will want to make a choice selection in our ideally planned and carefully controlled country club community. We will provide, at no additional expense to the purchaser: paved streets, parks, an 18-hole golf course, club house, 1,000 ft. boat pier, pavilion and boat basin, beautiful beach areas along the lake, and other recreational facilities for year-round enjoyment.

"In view of the current rapid growth of Florida, and the sound investment outlook for the property owners in this area, I know that this property will sell very rapidly. Therefore, I suggest that you make your selection of choice residential sites now for year-round living, winter vacations, future retirement . . . a real investment opportunity."

'Happy Birthday to You'

Lengthy Communications Set Up for Camp Kilmer CP

GOVERNORS ISLAND, N. Y. — One of the most intricate systems of communications to be used in a command post exercise was installed at Camp Kilmer, N. J., for Exercise Raindrop III, April 21-22.

Approximately 500 miles of wire, enough to reach from New York City to Columbus, Ohio, along with 50 switchboards, 150 teletypewriters and 1,300 telephones, linked the various headquarters and administrative sections as 5000 active Army, National Guard and Army Reserve personnel participated in this year's phase of the annual First Army tactical map maneuver.

A total of approximately 750 military operators and technicians serviced communications during the 27-hour exercise. Actual combat conditions were simulated by jamming telephone lines when First Army attempted to make a theoretical crossing of the Rhine River in Germany and establish a bridgehead.

PURPOSE OF Raindrop III was to train participants in command and staff phases of modern warfare. Guard and Reserve officers and enlisted men were given the opportunity to solve the tactical problems that arise in a modern atomic and guided missile war.

Through the carefully devised communications system, umpires monitored key Raindrop telephone, teletype and television nets to keep one jump ahead of the players.

For reasons of economy, Signal Corps technicians preserved the wiring system used in last year's exercise, thus eliminating the need for complete rewiring this year.

AIR FORCE

THE wraps came off the newest fighter in the "century" series—the F-104A Starfighter—in California last week. The new plane is as fast in climbing as it is in level flight, has a speed of "more than 1200 miles per hour," is lighter than most fighter jets. Air Force chief of staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining says that it is "the most advanced airplane of its type ever developed."

Air Force is looking for $10 million so that it can give a quarters allowance to bachelor officers, now living in substandard BOQs, which will permit them to move into private rental quarters after July 1.

Career fields for officers and enlisted men were revised this week, but revisions won't take effect until Dec. 31, to reflect the changes in equipment now being used by the Air Force. For officers, engineer and pilot fields are revised. For EM, intelligence, air traffic control and warning, armament systems maintenance, construction, utilities, transportation, statistical services and machine accounting, administrative, information, personnel, special services, education and training are the fields revised.

SEA SERVICES

THE Marine Corps is going to establish a second SAM battalion to fire the Terrier, Navy's AA missile, during 1957. It will also shift some of its air groups around to make more space at overcrowded fields.

The USS Saratoga, the world's largest ship, was commissioned by the Navy last week and takes its place in the fleet as the most modern aircraft carrier and most powerful fighting vessel in the world, according to Navy officials.

GUARD-RESERVE-VETERAN

Number of volunteers under the RFA dropped to 695 last week.

National Guard still expects to get Army approval of its plan to extend its eight-week training program to next Aug. 31. Under it, men who joined the Guard before Jan. 1 this year would get eight weeks' basic training in federal status, not enough to reduce their Reserve obligation but enough to get them started as trained Guardsmen.

Unit Makes Mox-Nix Stick, 'Hot-to-Trot' Arm Band

HEILBRONN, Germany. — The 60th Inf. Regt. First Bn. has come up with two innovations designed to improve the efficiency of the battalion—and they have evidence to indicate its success.

The creation of a special arm-band, worn by officers and NCOs of the Battalion Training Committee, was the subject of a complimentary remark by Lt. Gen. George H. Decker, while the 1st Bn. ran through small unit training at Hohenfels.

The armbands consist of a large red Go-Devil on a blue background, beneath which is an outline of a rearing horse, drawn to signify the individual as a member of the 60th Infantry's "Hot to Trot" 1st Bn.

ANOTHER notable invention of the "Hot to Trot" Bn. is the "Mox-Nix-Stick." This stick, used by Go-Devil drivers while in convoy, was improvised by Lt. James Cody, Assistant 1st Bn. S-3. Invented during the 60th Infantry's cold weather indoctrinations in January, the Mox Nix Stick is a three-foot wooden stick with a tin disc on one end.

One side of the disc is painted red, while the other has a black cross painted on a white background.

While motoring in convoy, the lead driver simply puts the "Mox-Nix Stick" out of the window, with the red side facing toward the vehicle's occupants, indicating that he is stopping for a break.

The driver of each vehicle would in turn, put his stick out of the window to show the men that it is "break-time."

When stopping for traffic, the opposite side of the disc (black cross on white background) is shown to indicate that there is no break. When on a break, the driver puts the stick out of the window, waving it high in the air, to indicate that the men should load quickly and prepare to move out.

The sticks were made by Pvt. Bloom and MSgt. Gonzales of the 1st Bn. training aids section.

Lions Visit Nike Site

FORT BELVOIR, Va.—Over 100 Lions Club members from Brightwood, East Gate, and Takoma Park, Md., yesterday visited a Rockville, Md., NIKE site belonging to the 71st Anti-Aircraft Missile Battalion of Fort Belvoir.

Guests of the unit's A Battery, the Lions toured the radar-control area, launcher area, missile assembly building, fueling area, and climaxed the activity-point stops by descending into an operational NIKE underground storage chamber.

Medics Remodel Messhall For Someone Else to Enjoy

FORT LEWIS, Wash. — Sometimes a feller can't win.

About two months ago, members of the 2d Medic Bn.'s Clearing Co. decided to slick up the messhall. With an eager jack-of-all-decorating-trades, company commander, Capt. William A. Schwader, leading the way, they put in panel walls, a gleaming false ceiling, a fancy "fireplace" of imitation stone. An 85-year-old wagon wheel, painted a shiny barn-red, wound up as a chandelier.

Leonard Taylor and others worked night after night to rush the project to completion. The whole thing had a tinge of alchemist's lead-to-gold witchcraft.

PAINTED MUSLIN stretched over padding became the fireplace stones. Varnished railroad ties made a mantle over the "masonry." Discarded siding was cut into wall panels. Old plywood crates picked up at the salvage yard formed the ceiling panels. The whole job was done with a cash outlay of around $20.

Lieutenant Signs for 'Castles, One Each'

BUTZBACH, Germany. — There is an Army lieutenant who lives in a massive, old German castle here, has property valued at more than $3-million, and rules over a sprawling domain from a mahogany office which once served as the royal boudoir of a medieval nobleman.

But the above lieutenant is not a wealthy prince masquerading in soldiers' clothing. Nor is he a penning-pinchy advocate of Soldiers' Deposits. In fact, he just arrived here from Fort Knox with advance elements of the 3d Armd. Div., attended a property-transfer meeting, and presto!—he had "inherited" a 17th Century castle, tanks, jeeps, countless Bavarian beer steins, and a bedroom in which someone scribbled: Charlemagne slept here."

For 25-year-old Lt. Larry L. Sutton, the acquisition of the unusual is nothing new to his particular property book. In Korea, in 1953, as a member of the 8240th Army Unit, he "signed out" for a few unoccupied obscure islands in South Korea. Last year he had as his responsibility 45 medium tanks, "but no gold bullion," at Fort Knox, he said.

"It's not unusual to be responsible for millions of dollars in government property," Sutton said, "but not many Army lieutenants find themselves signed-out with 'one-each' castles."

THE CASTLE, built in 1603, is located in the Schloss Kaserne, a battle-riddled piece of real estate in Western Germany over which sword-swinging knights as well as mechanized battalions have raised havoc from the Visigoth era through War II. The Schloss Kaserne, one of eight strongholds in Western Germany to be populated next month by the gyroscoping 3d Armd., is possibly one of the oldest and easily one of the most picturesque sections in Germany.

AAA Sergeant Picked to Take Nuclear Course

ENT AFB, Colo. — Army Antiaircraft Command MSgt. Charles R. Feavyear is one of the 12 soldiers selected Army-wide to form a cadre of enlisted men to supervise and instruct Army nuclear power crews. Feavyear has been Intelligence Sergeant of the Army Antiaircraft Command's Headquarters for the past year.

He has left Colorado Springs for Fort Belvoir, Va., where he will report before going to Charlottesville, Va., to attend the University of Virginia. A five-month course at the university will be the first step in a two-year training program to prepare the 12 Army men as atomic power plant operators and instructors.

Feavyear, who has been in the Army nearly 18 years, participated in the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project at Sandia Base, N. M., for three years (1949-1951). He was a prisoner of war of the Japanese during War II, after his capture on Corregidor.

Driving Personality

FONTAINEBLEAU, France. — PFC Cosmo G. DeStefano, 8651 DU, Det. I, was awarded a permanent plaque for having been chosen "Driver of the Month" three times since arriving here. Maj. Gen. William P. Ennis Jr., senior United States Army officer, Allied Forces Central Europe, made the award and congratulated him.

DeStefano is driver for Brigadier General Phillip Bethune, assistant chief of staff G-2, Allied Land Forces Central Europe.

Aside from Army vehicles and scattered road signs, the Schloss' city of Butzbach has the medieval look of a Bavarian post card, and its gloomy remains of fortress-castles and narrow cobblestone paths would make an ideal setting for a Hollywood direction of a Dark Age horse opera.

THE CASTLE in Sutton's property book was constructed by the powerful feudal lord, Philip of Hesse. It was built to protect Butzbach from the religious enemies and marauders of the Thirty Years' War. The castle stood the test of time and war through the centuries and in 1935 was taken over by Nazi troops and held until the Allied breakthrough 10 years later.

U. S. forces rehabilitated the Hesse castle from time to time and it was most recently used this year by the 4th Inf. Div. But since the infantry is being replaced by the 3rd Armd. Div., the castle changes hands again and that's where Lt. Sutton enters the scene. Sutton is acting commander of H&S Co. of the 709th Tank Bn., which will occupy the castle.

ABOUT TWO DOZEN troops can be accommodated in the castle with space also for security guards as well as a guard house. The large ground floor is mostly used for a consolidated mess hall. Its present spacious kitchen used to be, in the 17th Century, the knights' stable. According to Capt. Dwight O. Kniphfer, who served in the castle with the 4th Inf. Div., the structure is worth over a million dollars.

But it is by no means the oldest castle in the area. Just down the cobblestone road is another ancient structure—Munzenberg castle. It was built in 800 A.D. And, according to the word of medieval press agents, it was occasionally used by Frederick Barbarossa—200 years before George Washington was to sleep anywhere.

But Munzenberg castle is too

"I was born in the shadow of the Pyramids."

large and old for U. S. Army use and serves mainly these days as a tourist spot, and maybe that's why Lt. Larry L. Sutton is not signed-out for it.

$15-Million Records Center For Vets Opens in St. Louis

By LARRY CARNEY

ST. LOUIS.—A $15 million Department of Defense Military Personnel Records Center with floor space equal to that of the Empire State Building has been opened here to handle the more than 35 million service and medical records of Army, Air Force and Navy veterans.

Located on a 44-acre tract in Overland, a nearby suburb, the building, one of the 20 largest in the world, contains 1,240,000 square feet of floor space and five acres of window glass.

Among the modern devices for facilitating operations are a mechanical conveyor system which connects all floors with the central mail room, a flexible lighting system which will permit changing of the illumination as requirements change and a special window washing rig with an electrically operated cage which travels on rails around the building.

The center provides the veteran with many services. Some of these include the forwarding of original records to the Veterans Administration for claim adjustments, verifying active service for Social Security benefits, handling the veteran's requests for lost discharge papers and checking the decorations and awards that are due former servicemen.

In 1955, the center handled approximately 750,000 such requests for veterans.

During an average work day, the center receives about 50,000 pieces of incoming mail; makes 32,000 referrals to veterans records and processes over 13,000 pieces of outgoing mail.

The service to the veteran is very rapid, officials said. It takes on the average three days and at the most one week for the veteran's request to be handled and processed through the mails.

The center's records date back to 1912 for both the Army and Navy and to 1947 for the Air Force. They include records of all enlisted and officer personnel who have been completely separated from the service, Department of the Army and Air Force civilians, and Philippine Army and Guerrilla personnel who served in the Philippines during War II.

IN THE new building, Army records will occupy two floors, Navy one-and-a-half and the Air Force one floor. Offices, a 250 capacity cafeteria and a first aid room occupy the remainder of the space.

To cut down on file space, the center microfilms all of its records. One cabinet of microfilm records equals 100 standard file cabinets of paper records.

Approximately 36 military and over 2000 civilians with an annual payroll of $7 million are employed at the center. However, the building when expansion is necessary could hold a peak load of 4000 employees.

The center commandant is Col. D. H. Arp, USA. Charles A. Henderson is in charge of the Naval Records Management Center. A. Petroski is head of the Air Force section.

Dedication ceremonies which were held last week were attended by a score of high officials headed by Assistant Army Secretary Hugh M. Milton, and administrative assistants John J. MacLaughlin of the Air Force and Charles H. Cox of the Navy.

Signal Corps Weather Net Probes Higher Atmosphere

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J.—A new "stop-gap" upper atmosphere experimental network that takes in the area from where standard weather balloons stop and rockets start, has been inaugurated by the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories.

Experimental balloons weighing less than two pounds but carrying almost five pounds of weather gathering equipment, now are probing areas more than 20 miles aloft, and send back hitherto unobtainable data on atmospheric pressures, temperatures and humidity through a small radio transmitter.

The high-altitude radiosonde flights are being conducted at various Air Force bases in cooperation with Air Weather Service. Personnel from the Signal Corps supervise the flights at Narssarsuaq, Greenland; Goose Bay, Labrador; Cocoa, Fla.; Chanute Field, Ill.; Denver, Colo.; Long Beach, Calif.; and Portland, Ore.

INCORPORATED IN the radiosonde used is a high-altitude hypsometer that gives accurate pressure measurements above 85,000 feet. It allows computation of altitudes and winds to a much greater degree of accuracy than was possible with standard radiosondes.

Data from the flights will materially add to knowledge of upper atmospheric conditions for military use, according to Signal Corps engineers.

This special research operation now covers the upper reaches of the Air from coast to coast, from Greenland to Florida and from Portland, Ore., to Long Beach, Calif. in a large "H" formation.

In the Greenland tests the system has been operating during ground weather of from 50 degrees above to 30 below.

The project is under the direction of the Physical Sciences Division of the Meteorological Branch, of Evans Signal Laboratory, a Fort Monmouth component.

● Berlin Command 298th Army Band Takes 7th Victory

BERLIN, Germany.—The 298th Army Band won the Pentathlon competition of the 7781st Army Unit for the seventh consecutive time. The band has lost the competition only once in the 10 times it has been held.

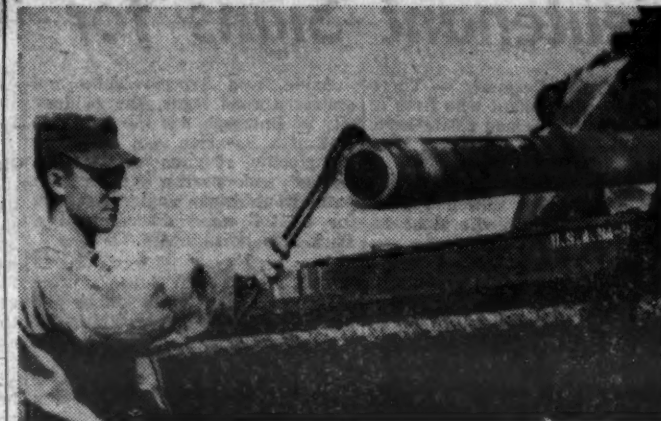

THE 7781st Army Unit, Special Troops, has inaugurated the policy of having the Soldier of the Month selected by a board of noncommissioned officers to give NCOs greater responsibility and the experience of serving on boards.

THREE MEMBERS of the 298th Army Band are using some of their off-duty time to teach the playing of band instruments to students in the American School here. They are SP3 Robert Mello, clarinetist; PFC Richard Herrala, French horn, and PFC Lee Hopp, trumpet and cornetist.

THE 2D Bn., 6th Inf. Regt., ended a four-day bivouac and field training in the Grunewald forest with a 12-mile hike through the city to the battalion quarters near Tempelhof Air Base.

HEAVY WEAPONS crewmen from Company M, 6th Infantry Regiment, gave the regiment's NCO Academy a demonstration of the organization, operations, and capabilities of machine gun, mortar and anti-tank platoons.

Fluoridation Set for 21 Army Posts

WASHINGTON.—Fluoridation of drinking water at 21 Army posts in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico has been approved to date, it was announced by Maj. Gen. Silas B. Hays, Surgeon General of the Army.

These posts, in order of their approval for fluoridation, are as follows: Fort Richardson, Alaska; Fort Campbell, Ky.; Fort Gordon, Ga.; Fort Knox, Ky.; Fort Huachuca, Ariz.; West Point—U. S. Military Academy; Fort Shafter—Schofield Barracks, Hawaii; Fort Lewis, Wash.; Fort Ord, Calif.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Fort Bragg, N.

C.; Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Fort Sheridan, Ill.; Fort Monroe and Langley Air Force Base, Va.; Redstone Arsenal, Ala.; Fort Sam Houston, Tex.; Presidio of San Francisco and Letterman Army Hospital, San Francisco, Calif.; Fort Dix, N. J.; Henry Barracks, Puerto Rico; Camp Losey, Puerto Rico; and Sioux Ordnance Depot, Sidney, Neb.

The fluoridation of drinking water at Army installations lacking the natural fluorine necessary for oral health was approved by the Army Medical Service in July 1954.

MONTHLY PAY

It's yours in cash—and it comes in regular as clockwork. There's no better financial security than a steady paycheck. Count on it month after month.

PAID LIVING EXPENSES

A big part of most people's budget goes for the things you get free—food, rent, clothing, medical and dental care, $10,000 insurance and legal counsel.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES

Basic allowances for quarters and subsistence may seem part of your paycheck—but they're a special financial benefit you won't find in civilian life.

FREE TRAINING

You can become a skilled expert through Army schooling—and your tuition is free! Choose the training you want from over 150 technical courses.

SPECIAL HOUSING LOANS

You can apply for a government-insured loan of up to 95% of the FHA appraised value of the house you wish to buy. A great benefit for service families!

RETIREMENT INCOME

A comfortable lifetime income is yours after only 20 years service—and you haven't paid a cent toward it. Retire while you're still young enough to enjoy it.

30-DAY PAID VACATION

How many other jobs would offer you a 30-day paid vacation every year? The Army does. It means more time for fun!

FREE RECREATION

Army posts offer you a wide variety of free recreational and entertainment facilities. Think how much it would cost you to enjoy similar facilities as a civilian.

EXTRA PAY

You can add to your income with extra pay for parachute, glider or demolition duty, aerial flight, diving duty, and sea and foreign duty. A big "extra"!

Army Effects Office Closes After 15 Years of Service

CHICAGO.—A little known Army unit that played a big role in lessening the heartache of parents of American war dead, has phased out after 15 years of quiet service.

The Army Effects Office has completed its job of collecting and delivering the personal effects of soldiers who died during military operations. The unit, a part of the Chicago QM Purchasing Center, became inactive on March 31.

Although not widely known, the Effects Office will long be remembered by some of the families of killed in action American soldiers. Wrote a war bereaved father after receiving his son's personal effects:

"We would like the Army Effects Office to know how deeply we appreciate the care which must have been taken in order that these items might reach us from half way around the world. While of little value in the material sense, they are of great value to us and it is some small comfort to us to know that the Army realizes this and makes it possible for us to have them."

Whether on the rugged terrain of Heartbreak Ridge or through the low rice paddies of Chorwon Valley—wherever the men of the Army were fighting and dying for their country, they always carried a few valued and treasured personal possessions.

Perhaps there was only a well worn wallet with a few Korea "won" in it, or only a Bible or testament with well read passages. It may have been a high school ring, or a wedding band—or maybe only the fountain pen his fellow employees had given him as he left for his call to military service. Whatever was found, it was the job of the Army Effects Office to return these things, many of which are of little monetary value, to the wives and parents eager to have some remembrance of their loved ones.

SINCE 1942, the Army Effects

Fort Chaffee Silver Star Goes To SFC Tomandao

FORT CHAFFEE, Ark. — SFC Fidel Tomandao, instructor with the Cannonier Committee, 3d FA Tng. Regt. was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on Corregidor during World War II, in ceremonies recently.

THE FIRST Five-Year Safe Driving award here for operation of a private vehicle without an accident or traffic violation was presented recently to Lt. Col. Rudolph Morgan, executive officer of the 1st FA Tng. Regt.

MEMBERS of the Fort Smith, Ark., Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance toured post chapel facilities recently. The group heard a talk by Chap. (Lt. Col.) John M. Kilburn and were guests at a luncheon.

COL. Alfred G. Texley, Deputy Chief of Staff, was the principal speaker at the recent alumni meeting of the Subaco Academy.

SOME 20 Fort Smith, Ark., youngsters, all Boys of Woodcraft, were the guests of Fort Chaffee recently for a day's fishing at the post's Engineers Lake.

Office has returned thousands upon thousands of personal effects to the parents and wives of deceased soldiers. Originally located in Kansas City, Mo., the agency moved to Chicago in 1955 where it has been under the immediate supervision of Capt. Amit J. Price, Effects Quartermaster.

As the packages of effects were received in the office from the combat zones, contents were processed with great care. Checks were made against inventories with the package to be certain that all of the effects were accounted for. Government property was removed and all soiled and stained clothing was laundered or cleaned.

Any cash or checks in the effects were withdrawn and deposited to the account of the owner. Letters, papers and photographs were examined for classified information and for indelicate material which should not reach the family of the soldier. After this screening the property was packed and shipped to the recipient at government expense.

Workers in the Army Effects Office found that soldiers in combat carried little that was not essential to keep them alive. On his person, a typical soldier's effects usually contained a billfold and identification cards, one or more souvenirs or keepsakes, several items of clothing, a packet of personal letters and often a tattered Bible or New Testament.

THOUGH he traveled light in combat, the American soldier was a great collector of souvenirs. Given a short rest period from combat duty, he usually returned to a rest center area and went souvenir hunting.

Among the many souvenirs to pass through the office were scarabs from North Africa, opals and moonstones from Australia, figures in ivory, teakwood chests, tiger-skins, tapestries and rugs from the Far East, a Japanese life raft, walrus tusks and miniature totem pole from the Arctic, musical instruments from Italy, grass skirts from the South Pacific, not to overlook rice bowls from Korea.

These souvenirs were as varied as the tastes and imaginations of the Americans they represented. A former effects Quartermaster said, "The soldiers souvenirs reflect his hobbies, interests, and family background. They are reminiscent of Coney Island, the county fair, the church bazaar, and the summer vacation trip to the Grand Canyon."

The Army Effects Agency, later redesignated as Army Effects Office, was organized in 1942. The peak workload was reached during War II when 973 persons were employed. Tentative plans were made to close the agency in September 1950, but with the outbreak of the Korean conflict, action was taken to reestablish the activity.

PERSONNEL of the Army Effects Office have tried to serve with the utmost tact and understanding. Correspondence was never coldly official in style or tone, but always friendly and understanding. The work done by this agency in the past 15 years is well summed up in a letter received from grateful parents.

"None but those who experience it can quite know the deep grief that comes from sacrificing one's son. However, it does help alleviate the suffering to some extent to know that the government is giving every consideration for that sacrifice."

"We appreciate the tactful wording of your letter, for it makes us realize that some one cares wheth-

Come to Alaska: The Land Of Woods, Red Tape, Bills

PORT CHILKOOT, Alaska.—You can find this place on the map if you look awfully close, but it's really a dream. A dream come true for a small group of ambitious young War II veterans.

They have had, and will have, a lot of hard work and a lot of heartaches. They have a small mountain of debts.

At the same time, "it's a great country—good climate, wonderful scenery, and tops for opportunity—or could be," says Martin Cordes, one of the five veterans who originally dreamed this dream.

Just under 10 years ago, the Times papers carried a long series of articles about Cordes and the other four men, and their efforts to buy the Army's old Chilkoot Barracks here.

Chilkoot: A complete "city" of 389 acres, with 89 buildings, a hospital, a theater, and dock facilities. Value: more than $1 million. The price: a little over $100,000.

They had their troubles but eventually they got the fort. Organized as the Port Chilkoot Company, they—Cordes, Carl Heinmiller, Ted Gregg, Steve Homer and Jim Trelford—set out for Alaska to look over their purchase. Which none of them had ever seen.

To bring the story up to date, the Times editors recently asked Cordes what's happened at Port Chilkoot, how the original five members have made out, and whether they have any hard-won advice to pass on to other would-be settlers.

In condensed form, here is Cordes' reply:

I think the clocks in this country run just as fast as they do in the States. That old cliché—"what do they do up there in the winter-time?"—has many logical answers. One of our favorite occupations is gloating over the "horrible" winter storm reports from the States—and, of course, convincing the wife that it really is a lot milder here than many places in the supposed sunny south.

It's a great country—good climate, wonderful scenery, and tops for opportunity—or could be. Politically we're at the bottom of the totem pole, and it takes a few years to realize what that actually means in the way of handicaps. Statehood would resolve many of our problems.

Carl W. Heinmiller bought a set of Compiled Laws of Alaska—which fills one living room wall—and made several attempts to get on the Alaska legislature. He'll probably connect one of these years. In the meantime, besides managing the Port Chilkoot Co., he has been in the oil business, bar business, and the electric power business. He's a very active guy.

In emergencies he's the local doctor, pinch-hitting for the territorial nurse when she's out of town and doing other saw-bone jobs by remote control, i.e., by telephone to the doctors in Juneau. If he isn't the future Governor of Alaska, maybe his boy, Lee, will be. And his wife, Betty, recently assisted with their second child, a little gal by the name of Judy.

Ted (Tresham D. Gregg) and wife Mimi now have four children. Ted and Mimi are the artists—and commercially so with their craft and wood-working shops.

Ted is still the boy with the imagination and tireless enthusiasm and has sparked a number of enterprises in this area. One, started several years ago, gives us all a lot of trouble and fun every summer now.

Ted thought we should start an annual strawberry festival. The first year the berries didn't ripen in time for our festival date so we had to import 'em from Seattle—but mostly it has been a very successful thing. A three-day celebration complete with pretty gals that packs 'em in from all over, standing room only—all hotel space sold out and strangers sleeping on the sofa in your front room.

Ted and his ideas. He's the one who talked me into joining the group in D. C.—over a glass of Scotch. Believe he said something like this: "Why we can make our own Scotch in Alaska. There is supposed to be peat-moss in the tundra up there—and what more do we need?" Old sourdough Cordes thought the idea might have possibilities—so I joined the group. Now I—imported Scotch costs so much have to pay $12.50 a fifth for the stuff.

I worked for CAA here for three years, ventured in and out of the lumber business one year, then gave away my white collar, joined the union and became a carpenter. Quite lucrative these past three years—but I've been spending all my dough on property purchases, based on the assumption that this place is bound to grow-up some day. As a sideline I do a little commercial and portrait photography.

STEVE HOMER, still a bachelor and still working on ships (out of Seattle), finally sold his hotel at Port Chilkoot but retains his stock. Steve is the one who started a ferry service between Juneau, Port Chilkoot and Skagway.

Sunk his money in an LCT and spent the next four years fighting the U. S. Coast Guard. Good old PRINCESS sheath is of checked worsted wool, with deep patch pockets at side hipline. An organdy scarf is tucked into the casually-collared neckline.

Uncle Sam, a tough nut to tangle with, finally licked him. Seems the inside waters here came under ocean sailing rules and he had to have all the trimmings: fire axes (on a steel ship); a number of lifeboats (at $3500 each) etc.—so he couldn't carry passengers for a couple of years.

They finally forced him to sell his ferry to the Territory of Alaska, and then the Coast Guard changed the rules, so the Territory has been running the rig every year since and doing quite well, thank you.

I've lost track of the fifth member, Jim Trelford, wife Irene and four or five rumored children. He sold most of his stock to Clarence Mattson and has been working for the CAA in Anchorage for the past six years. Clarence is one of the original members and with his wife Hilma (no children) operates and owns the Halsingland Hotel.

AS A GROUP maybe we "have it made." I believe we're over the hump—may even expect to burn the old mortgage in a few more years, but we've still got king-size debts. But then I don't suppose we would know what to do if we didn't have creditors (the bank, lawyers, general maintenance, and dear, dear Uncle Sam). If big debts are a measure of success, we are very successful.

You asked if I might have any hard-won advice to pass on. But of course! This area has lots of opportunity, but it costs money. A guy has to gamble on most any venture, and the number one rule is you have to have more than just the ante to stay in the game.

The biggest question in the mind of the prospective settler is, "Should I take a chance up there?" They always ask, "Is there a place for a person of my qualifications there—and should I come up?"

There is always room for really competent people.

We do have a few live-wires here who aren't easily discouraged—and a few of us have so much tied up here that we can't let go of it. Most of us are just ordinary folks.

You're the Detective

By A. C. GORDON

"WILL you come at once?" a voice cries to you over the telephone. "This is Ben Padgett. I own a general store at 404 Clark Avenue. A sneak-thief has burned it down. . . I caught him at it, overpowered him, and have him for you!"

You find the firemen busy putting out the last of the flames which have practically demolished the general store. An excited man rushes up to you and identifies himself as Ben Padgett.

"I have the firebug tied up in the shed behind my store," he exclaims. "I had come back to the store tonight to do a little work on my books. As I unlocked the door I was startled to see one side of the store in flames. On the other side I saw this man bent over my cash register, scooping out the money and putting it into his pocket. I rushed up behind him, wrestled him to the floor, and knocked him out with a punch in the jaw. I dragged him out of the store and phoned the fire department."

You enter the shed with Padgett and see the seedy-looking body of the man on the floor. You note the ugly looking gash over his right temple as you bend over the still unconscious man and go through his pockets looking for some identification. You find nothing.

"Do you know who he is?" "No. I've never seen him before."

"I suppose you have adequate fire insurance," you say. "Oh, yes."

"How soon after the events you have described did you phone me?" you ask.

"As soon as I had dragged this fellow into the shed and tied him up, I heard the fire trucks coming down the street. I hurried out immediately, rushed next door and phoned you."

You meditate for a minute, then say: "You know, Padgett, for one little reason I am inclined to believe that you set fire to the store yourself in order to collect some of that insurance money!"

What leads you to believe this?

ONE effective way of camouflaging nailheads in furniture construction is to cover each nail with a wood chip lifted from the surface with a wide-sweep gouge.

Don't cut the chip loose. Just drive the nail into the recess under the chip, using a ball set to drive it, so as to avoid breaking the chip. After the nail has been set, coat the chip with glue and press it into place, holding flat with a weight. Then, when the glue has hardened sufficiently, sand the surface smooth.

Now Flyboys Are Reversin' Time

By PAUL GOOD

"IT'S a great blessin' that the Kelly girl has finally become Mrs. Prince Ranier III," the Old Sergeant declared the other day "It's a load off my mind, at any rate."

I scrutinized my favorite curmudgeon carefully, but it was plain that he was speaking seriously.

"That's a strange remark coming from you," I said. "All along you've been telling me how appalled you were by all the pre-nuptial activities and now you sound relieved as a mother hen that's married off her chick to a prize rooster."

"Cut that barnyard talk or I'll light on you like Eddie Hoover on a Rhode Island Red. The point I'm makin' is that lots of important things has been happenin' in the world the last week or so, but what with all the talk about them two nobodies has been payin' attention to anythin' else. It's been worryin' me an' today I mean to make up for lost time, startin' with you as a listener."

"I don't think—" I began. "First off," he blithely continued, "the Air Force has made one of my early predictions come true. Time is on the way out an' if you got any shares of stock in Benrus, Longine or the like, sell."

"The flyboys has come up with a jet what goes 1400-mph downhill. Or up. This means it could leave New York at noon an' get in Los Angeles at 11 a. m. All you'd have to do is keep tankin' it up with cigarette fluid or whatever they're usin' now, an' you could keep goin' indefinite, gettin' earlier all the time."

"Lay aboard a supply of vitamin pills an' a man could start out on Wednesday, fly back into Tuesday an' eventually find himself in the day before last week. If you had a strong constitution an' the ship held up, there wouldn't be nothin' to stop you from flyin' back a month or even a year."

"Take a man what is celebratin' his second weddin' anniversary an' decides he'd of been better off if he'd a married one of the Great Apes. What's he do? Simple, sonny. He just steps in a F-104 an' keeps goin' until it's two weeks before he ever met the girl. Time don't mean nothin' anymore an' they might as well scrap all calendars except the one with that Monroe girl on it. We can keep that for its sentimental value."

"BUT SARGE, time and space don't operate like that. It's true that they constitute a vast continuum but—"

"Don't bother me with none of that. I'll talk to you after I fly back to my high school days. An' knowin' what I know now, things'll be pretty lively for the girls in that class. Which leads me to the second important item lost in all the Patsy Kelly shenanigans."

"After months of experimentin' usin' live, human animals, a doctor has come up with the earth-shakin' news that people's hearts beat faster when they're makin' love. Three times faster than in any other violent sport was the way he put it."

"What stops me cold ain't the findin's—which anybody what has a heart could of told the doc—but the fact that married couples took part in such a test. They had electric cardiographs an' blood pressure meters an' so forth hooked onto 'em while machines a couple of rooms away took it all down."

"Now I'm as liberal as Alf Landon but I'll be damned if I can see doin' that. A husban' comes home, kisses his misaus, whispers a sweet somethin' in her ear an' she says:

"Yes, darlin'. But you ain't plugged in. An' I think I got a short circuit in my basil metabolism wire. Let's call the electrician first."

"It was bad enough when Doc Kinsey was crouchin' under people's beds. But I draw the line at wirin' you for sound. Next thing they'll be puttin' it on television for the Medic program."

"I have to agree," I said. "But to get back to time and space."

"To get back to time an' space there's one more thing needin' discussion. Which is the fact that the baseball season wasn't 10 minutes old, but sportswriters had Mickey Mantle hittin' a 450-foot home run. Now that Kelly an' her Prince is out of the way, I'm all for promotin' a society to press perjury charges against anybody claimin' 450-foot home runs for Mantle without presentin' surveyor's records an' affidavits. We lost time. We lost the privacy of the marital couch. If we lose common sense in baseball, then it's time to strike the colors."

FORWARD LOOKING:

Rocket Industry Rockets in Size

THE guided-missile race between the United States and the Soviets may determine the shape of things to come, militarily, socially and politically within the present generation. Meanwhile, the development of this new and terrible weapon has already created a new industry which, like the peacetime functions of the atom, has had a marked effect on the business world. That is the rocket industry. For the rocket is the seed of life that quickens the missile into being.

Experts predict that this new industry, now 15 years old, before long will rival in size the comparatively new but exceedingly sturdy jet business.

Aircraft engine makers (including jet engines) employ 110,000 workers and do a business of some $1.9 billion.

Already there are more than 15,000 rocketeers, which include engineers and technicians but does not include a host of others in chemical plants which supply the raw materials.

The government is asking for $1.7 billion for all missile purposes and expects to pay out $1.2 billion to contractors. It is predicted that in addition to the use of rockets as a part of the guided missile, commercial planes will be using them for propulsion through outer space where the rocket is right at home, since it produces its own air which a jet can't.

A $1 billion rocket production figure is contemplated for 1960 with greater expansion thereafter.

The United States might have been much further with the development of this means of propulsion if it hadn't been for what was probably a wise decision at the time when a group of military and industrial top brass decided that the United States, in World War II, should concentrate on the man-guided plane rather than the buzz-bomb type of weapon.

About that time, the Chief of Ordnance dug up a picture of a rocket used by Northern troops in the Civil War and hung it in his office to stop the gaping mouths of laymen who came, wide-eyed, to inquire about this new, and horrifying weapon. He admitted that neither we nor the Germans invented it. That the Chinese used it against invading Mongols in 13th Century. The Germans faced with a problem that didn't bother us—manpower—would have carried the guided missile infinitely further if it hadn't been for one of Hitler's tantrums. As it was they did a fairly effective job before the Feuhrer's impatience throttled their efforts.

Today, development of the guided missile by Russia has reached the point where it may upset the atomic stalemate and put the balance of power in sharp imbalance again. Hence the rapid acceleration of the new industry. As in the case of most instant military needs this one has generated research and development which is bound to produce important peaceful by-products and there is little doubt that the predictions concerning the rocket industry are justified.

The forced draft applied by the government is resulting in widespread plant construction. Perhaps largest new undertaking is that of the Aerojet Corporation which is putting up a $20 million establishment in Sacramento, Calif. The Rocketdyne division of North American has more than doubled its staff over a year ago and now employs 4,000. These are only two of a long list of companies with well-known names and established reputations.

Income Hits $313 Billion Annual Rate

WASHINGTON. — Personal income in February — latest reporting date — was at an annual rate of $313 billion, little changed from January, the Office of Business Economics, U. S. Department of Commerce announced this week.

The annual rate of personal income in February was $1½ billion above that for the fourth quarter of 1955. It was 7 percent higher than in February 1955 when the rate of personal income flow was $293 billion.

Personal income estimates include wages and salaries, the net income of proprietorships and partnerships—farm and nonfarm—as well as dividends and interest, net rents received by landlords, and other types of individual income. The annual rates, which are used to facilitate comparison with previous annual totals, represent the seasonally adjusted dollar totals for each month multiplied by 12.

GM Dollar Sales Go Up

GENERAL MOTORS dollar sales up to $428,815 from $344,046 for 1955 were about equal to the record-breaking first quarter of 1955 despite a substantial decline in the defense activities. Defense deliveries during this quarter dropped to four percent of total dollar sales from nine percent a year ago. Net earnings after taxes during the first quarter were $283 million, equivalent to $1.01 per share of common stock.

All GIs Knew Erika

FRAULEIN, by James McGovern. Crown Publishers, New York. 312 pages. $3.50.

If you lived in Germany from, say, 1945 to 1950, you knew Erika Angermann. And if you were a member of the U. S. armed forces there at that time, you probably knew her better than most.

She was the blond Lorelei perched on the tall stool in Frankfurt's Astoria Bar (or in Berlin or Hamburg or Munich). She was one of that cellar club crowd of schatzes and GIs, raucous and unwashed. She was the girl with the hunger-pinched belly inching up with the line as it moved toward the clerk's window in the state work office. She lay beside the sleeping alien, sucking chocolate out of her teeth.

Things looked bad for Erika as Armageddon closed in on poor, prostrate Germany. The flames of the great air raid on Dresden ate up the city and her parents, too. She fled to her uncle's house in Berlin and things immediately looked worse: the Russians shortly moved in on the capital. The inevitable happened—to Erika and many another women caught above ground.

In following his blond and fetching heroine through Germany's death and rebirth, author McGovern shows a good appreciation of the political, as well as human, problems involved. He also has a good ear for the odd language woven by German girls out of their contacts with the American soldier. He unwinds it in pages-long skeins.

His central character, however, is unsuccessful as a person. Through rape, desertion and ultimate triumph, she maintains an unfeeling stoicism that may be valid as a literary symbol but is not believable to the reader.

Indeed, Erika—through a career as nude dancer, mud-bath wrestler, and paid "drinking companion"—figuratively speaking, does not change expression.—T. M.

• Curiously asexual.

1st Jake La Motta Wasn't a Boxer

JEWISH NOTABLES IN AMERICA, by Harry Simonhoff. Greenberg Publishers, N. Y. 402 pages. $5.

You have to be particularly interested in one phase of this subject—Jewish-American notables between the Revolutionary and Civil Wars—in order to enjoy this book.

It reports, for example, that Florida's first Senator was Jewish, as was the sixth governor of Georgia. And it tells of such people as Lorenzo da Ponte, librettist to Mozart, and Dr. Isaac Hays, co-founder of the American Medical Association.

A surprising name listed in this volume is that of Jake La Motta, a well-known surgeon of the 1820s who moved to Charleston, S. C., after a hitch in the Army. He had no connection with the prize fighter.

• Lots of American history, in a roundabout way.

How to Become Number One

HOW TO DRINK 100 proof milk (remaining simultaneously wholesome and happy) is one of the many hints to would-be Presidents which appear in "I'd Rather Be Right," a handbook for expectant Presidents by Philadelphia newspapermen Charles Ellis and Frank Weir (Simon and Schuster, $2.95). The illustrations are by Pogo's daddy, Walt Kelly.

GI Prisoners' Enemies Were Buddies, Hunger

By BOB HOROWITZ

REACTIONARY! by Sgt. Lloyd W. Pate, as told to B. J. Cutler. Harper and Bros. N. Y. 150 pages. $2.50.

Sgt. Pate, who spent 32 months in North Korean prison camps, believes American soldiers should get tougher and more realistic training. He points out that people who complain to the Army about rugged training schedules cannot complain to an enemy in the future about rugged conditions of warfare.

Pate, the lead witness in the court martial conviction of Cpl. James C. Gallagher (who got life imprisonment), thinks the tougher training should extend to activities outside the training schedule. As he puts it:

"A lot of soldiers, especially young recruits, gripe about Army chow. They say they don't like it and they sneak off to the PX to stuff themselves with hot dogs and soft drinks. This is a bad habit to let them get into because I know men who were trained that way who didn't come back from Korea because of it. A man should learn to eat what he gets."

In his description of brutal prison camp life, Pate says his worst enemies were "my fellow prisoners and hunger." He tells of the brutal, and sometimes friendly guards, and the escape attempts. And he expresses disappointment in the south Koreans, who were usually unfriendly to the American forces. He says many north Koreans treated the American captives fairly well, and some north Korean civilians even sneaked food to the prisoners.

Pate has written a bitter book, with a few more hells and damns than are necessary to convey his meaning. Occasionally, he is too intolerant, expressing hatred and contempt for all "gooks." But this book, which has appeared in syndicated newspaper columns, is worth reading if there is any doubt about the necessity for tough, realistic training in the armed forces.

• A sad story.

Practical Guide To Landscaping

A GUIDE TO HOME LANDSCAPING, by Donald J. Bushy. McGraw-Hill, N. Y. $4.95

Because of in-service loans and the GI Bill, thousands of service people ought to be interested in this practical discussion of landscaping.

The book discusses everything connected with the outside of a home. It takes up site planning, grading and drainage, maintaining lawns, where to plant trees, foundation plantings and gardens. It even has some suggestions for outdoor games, such as shuffleboard, badminton and croquet.

The most useful section of the book is the final chapter, which lists plants, giving their time of bloom and characteristics.

CLASSICAL RECORDS

By E. KAHN

Mozart, Serenade in C Minor, K.388; Divertimento No. 15 in B-Flat, K.287. Arthur Fiedler and his Sinfonietta. (12-inch RCA Victor LM-1936) $3.98.

You don't have to be long-haired to enjoy this Mozart. It is gay, tuneful, and played with spontaneity and taste. Don't scoff at the idea of Fiedler playing Mozart; he's done an artistic job, not merely gone on vacation from Von Suppe. This is not to say that Fiedler has given us the greatest performance, but he's caught the lilt and informality of the music, his players are very good, and RCA has given us clean, brisk sound.

Mozart Songs. Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, soprano, and Walter Gieseking, piano. (12-inch Angel 35270) $4.98 in de luxe factory-sealed package; $3.48 in standard wrap.

Name it and Mozart wrote it. He is little known for his songs, perhaps because he is so very famous for his compositions in other forms. I suppose, too, that seed pearls might get lost in a heap of precious stones. Sixteen of Mozart's 40-odd songs are on this record. Every one is worth hearing. They are sung in Italian, French, and German, but the music is all Mozart. A few of them (Das Veilchen and Abendempfindung, for example) rank as truly great art songs in a class with Schubert's Lieder. Miss Schwarzkopf sings with dramatic flair and beautiful control; Gieseking performs not as a mere accompanist but as a major artist.

and Mozart specialist. Altogether, an exciting record.

Flotow, Martha. Elena Rizzieri, soprano; Bruno Carmassi, bass; Carlo Tagliabue, baritone; Ferruccio Tagliavini, tenor; Pia Tassinari, contralto; Orchestra and Chorus Radiotelevisione Italiana, Turin, directed by F. M. Pradelli. (2 12-inch Cetra B-1254) $9.96.

"Martha" is midway between "grand" and "light" opera. Its tunes are pretty, its plot is an improbable love story. Much of the music, in fact, has been worn pretty thin by repetition. The two leads—Tagliavini as Lionel and Rizzieri as Harriet—are somewhat disappointing. Tagliavini, alas, is not the singer he was eight years ago. Carlo Tagliabue gives a very adequate performance as Plunkett, and Pia Tassinari (as Nancy) is in full and wonderful voice. On the whole, the performance is spirited, with very good sound. Cetra has managed to get the whole opera on two discs, which to my mind adds to the lead this set has over its recorded competitor.

jazz

By TOM SCANLAN

APPARENTLY few people find the current tremendous interest in alto saxophone a subject for wonder.

But it's real amazing to me, Bird or no Bird. (Bird, the late alto man Charlie Parker, influenced innumerable modern jazz musicians).

It may be considered some kind of blasphemy in certain critical quarters to even think such a thing, but I am not convinced that the alto sax—by its very nature, or "sound," to speak more plainly—is worthy of such attention.

TO THIS frequently old hat jazz addict (I'd much rather listen to Teddy Wilson than to Dave Brubeck) it seems curious that in an era when young men interested in jazz persistently talk about "sounds" as though "sounds" did not exist before these young men came of age, the alto sax, an instrument which so often has the most unsatisfying, nervous, shrill, strident and unfulfilled "sounds" in a jazz band, nevertheless appears to be the instrument of the era.

Of course, one reply to such wondering is that it's not what you play, it's how you play it. And despite my feelings about the alto sax, I'll have to agree to that.

But after listening to the latest batch of new jazz records that have come in for review, I'm up to my ears in alto sax.

Does every other jazz quartet have to have one?

BUD SHANK, one of the best of the modern alto men, is featured on a new record which should interest a fairly large number of jazz enthusiasts (Pacific Jazz 12-inch LP 1215).

It's a quartet, the other gentlemen being pianist Claude Williamson, bassman Don Prell and drummer Chuck Flores.

On occasion, Shank can swing viciously, but things are pretty cool here, meaning light and polite.

Williamson plays the kind of mostly right hand piano style almost always heard these days, and Flores is an advocate of the tish-tish-boom style of drumming, also much in favor now. Prell is a good bassman.

I can't get too excited over this kind of tame jazz, but some can.

Eight tunes are included, one of the best being Duke Ellington's "Do Nothin' Till You Hear From Me," which was called "Concerto for Cootie" in my salad days, long before it was decided that this specialty number for trumpeter Cootie Williams could make it a pop number if it had a new title and words.

"Nature Boy," of all things, is here, too, as is Caricia and something called "Jubilant" which

POPULAR RECORDS

DEBBIE and other Eddie Fisher admirers will want the newest album by the teen-agers' delight. Title is Eddie Fisher Sings Academy Award Winning Songs (RCA Victor 12-inch LP LOC-1024).

Eddie sings 21 Academy Award songs dating from The Continental (1934) to last year's movie winner, Three Coins in the Fountain.

Some of the better tunes include Over the Rainbow (1939), You'll Never Know (1943) and Swingin' on a Star (1944).

THE EDDY DUCHIN biographical movie, titled what you might expect—The Eddy Duchin Story—will soon be released. An album of songs from the movie is now available (Capitol 12-inch LP T716). The piano solos are by Harry Sukman and George Greeley. Songs vary from Chopin's Nocturne in E Flat Major to Shine on Harvest Moon. Tyrone Power plays Duchin in the movie.

PEGGY LEE brings back an oldie that's been away too long on her latest single—"You've Got To See Mamma Every Night" (Or You Can't See Mamma at All). Other side is The Come Back (Decca 9-29837).

JANE RUSSELL is back on records again, this time doing two songs from her latest movie "The Revolt of Mamie Stover." Yes, they made a movie out of that book.

sounds like How High the Moon to me.

The record is recommended for modern alto enthusiasts.

CANNONBALL, as he is known, is featured on another alto sax album (Savoy 12-inch LP MG-12018). Nat Adderly, on cornet, along with rhythm men Hank Jones, Paul Chambers and Kenny Clarke round out the group. Cannonball digs Bird and he also digs blues progressions. One side of the LP is made up of blues in B Flat (entitled "Spontaneous Combustion") and blues in F (entitled "Still Talkin' to Ya"). Cannonball has talent.

Cheese Recipes

WASHINGTON—A fact-packed leaflet, "Cheese in Your Meals," with recipes designed to serve six persons, is available from the Times Service Center, 2020 M St., N.W. Washington 6, D. C.

To get your copy, send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for Cheese leaflet.

Amen

"Make yourself an honest man, and then you may be sure there is one rascal less in the world." — Thomas Carlyle.

The songs are Keep Your Eyes on The Hands and If You Wanna See Mamie Tonight (Capitol F3399).

MERENGUE enthusiasts will want "Merengue a la Nono" (RCA Victor 12-inch LP 1163) by Nono Morales and his Orchestra.

Earth Satellite Show in Boston

BOSTON, Mass.—A diorama depicting earth satellites of today and tomorrow, and featuring an actual satellite model fitted with electronic parts to simulate the devices that may be used in real satellites, will be a central display at the 10th national convention of the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association, which will be held in Boston on May 24-26.

As revealed by the White House several months ago, the United States plans to launch real satellites into orbits from 220 to 300 miles above the earth during the International Geophysical Year, '57-'58.

At Ease...

about your future
when you get out of service!

WITH PROCTER & GAMBLE

Whether you're so close to the end of your service stretch you've already had the folks at home get your civilian clothes cleaned, or whether you're still in boot or basic, you can apply now for a job at Procter & Gamble! There are a number of openings in all departments to be filled in the next few years.

These are good positions with a good future. Procter & Gamble has a long-term expansion program which means that many of today's trainees will become tomorrow's executives. Promotions in Procter & Gamble are always made from within and are as rapid as ability warrants. The size of each operating group is such that each individual's progress is closely observed and merit, imagination, and efficiency are rewarded.

Procter & Gamble is one of the world's largest manufacturers of soaps, synthetic detergents, shortenings, and toiletries—and in just the last 10 years, has increased its gross sales from $336 million to over $910 million. This rapid expansion naturally has created a need for more executive personnel in every department and in every echelon. Since Procter & Gamble has a firm policy of training its own executives and promoting them only from within, the need for personnel is most acute at the younger levels. Procter & Gamble therefore is offering positions with an extremely attractive future to recent graduates who are properly qualified.

No letter of application is required. Mail coupon below, to W. L. Franz, Procter & Gamble, Dept. A75U, Gwynne Bldg., Cincinnati 2, Ohio, and a descriptive booklet will be sent to you.

What Could Be Better Than Creamed Lobster?

If you like lobster (and who doesn't?) here's a delightful recipe that is simple and quick. What's more, you don't have to smell up the whole place in the process of preparing it—because canned lobster is perfectly acceptable. It will be just as good and certainly much less expensive.

For Modern Living...

PASTE SOLDER cleans, tins and solders in one operation. The tin-lead solder is combined with an active flux. It is heated with soldering irons, torch or line oven and applied. Needs only to be wiped with a damp cloth to complete the job. (Hercules Chemical Co., 416 Broadway, NYC.)

STOCK MARKET GAME is described as an educational parlor game for the whole family. It can be played by two to six persons. It is based on the relative values of stocks and bonds, represented by stock "certificates." The game is complete with board and play money. (T. T. Products, 21-20 3d Ave., Long Island City 6, N. Y.)

NAIL DRIVER that is hand-operated is designed for builders, electricians and home workshops. A British invention, it can drive plain, screwed and tapped bolts of one-quarter inch diameter and less into bricks, rendered walls, sheet metal, timber or insulation boards. (Adam and Harvey Ltd., Greenwich House, 10-13 Newgate St., London ECI, England.)

BEACH SANDALS molded of polyethylene plastic are designed to fit and flex with the foot. Unbreakable, the sandals are deep-ribbed underneath to permit easy walking on the sand. Water-resistant, sand and dirt can easily be washed off. (Nu-Dell Plastics, 2250 N. Pulaski Rd., Chicago 39, Ill.)

TINY RECORDER permits a busy businessman to have a secretary in his pocket. The miniature battery-operated tape recorder weighs three pounds and measures 1 1/2 inches deep by 3 1/2 inches wide by 8 1/2 inches long. The crystal microphone is the size of a postage stamp. (Mohawk Business Machines Corp., 944 Halsey St., Brooklyn 33 N. Y.)

SEWER OPENER does the job of six men with only one operator. Mobile and simple to use, the two-horsepower, four-cycle back-gear machine is designed for on-the-job threading and cleaning of storm and sanitary sewers. It features a foot-operated clutch. (Ohio Tool and Engineering Co., 128 N. Spring St., Springfield, Ohio.)

ASH TRAYS are self-deodorizers. A built-in chemical preparation removes the odor left by butts and ashes, whether smoldering or not. The trays are available in a variety of shapes, colors and sizes. (Armchair Shopper, 829 N. Dearborn St., Chicago 10, Ill.)

CREAM-TYPE Medication is "stingless." The result of seven years research, the antiseptic cream is described as an infection fighter, a pain reliever and a healing helper. It can be applied directly to open wounds, burns, chapping, sunburn and insect bites. (Johnson and Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J.)

For luncheon, this dish should impress your most screamingly blasé friends. It's from General Pinky Dorn's cookbook.

CREAMED LOBSTER

1 lb. lobster meat, cooked and shredded
6 strips bacon, cut up fine
2 onions, finely chopped
2 tbsps. butter
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup canned milk
1/4 tsp. caraway seed
1/4 tsp. garlic salt
1/4 tsp. oregano
Tabasco to taste
1/4 cup sherry
Grated Parmesan cheese
Half slices of buttered toast

Cook bacon in a saucepan until it is about half done. Drain off the grease, and place bacon in a dish to the side.

Place olive oil, butter, garlic, salt, caraway seed, oregano and tabasco in the saucepan. Bring to a simmer. Add chopped onion. When the onion becomes transparent, add milk and chopped bacon. Stir while mixture simmers for about 2 minutes.

Add lobster and sherry, and simmer for 2 minutes.

Place lobster mixture on hot buttered toast and sprinkle generously with Parmesan cheese.

(Editor's Note: Any reader wishing to own a copy of Gen. Dorn's cookbook may have one by sending $4.95 to Army Times, 2020 M St., N.W., Wash. 6, D. C.)

Starboard Sari

THIS INDIAN SARI print is highlighted by a deep-toned border. The two-piece cotton washable dress has a simulated apron front on the pleated skirt. The border print is repeated at the belt and at the high square neckline of the bodice.

A Few Tricks Speed that Housework

SOME smart songwriter might have had housework in mind when he wrote "Taint what you do, it's the way howcha do it." For in this perpetual motion department applying a few time-saving tricks can spell the difference between a harried housekeeper and a leisured lady.

Mary Tilford, a home economics expert, has come up with a few smart suggestions for keeping the household in tune on fewer dollars and fewer hours:

• You can extract more juice from lemons and oranges, and do it more quickly, if you warm them for a few moments under the hot water faucet before squeezing. You won't lose the vitamins.

• Don't let blunt scissors slow you down. Sharpen them by cutting a piece of sandpaper with them once or twice.

• Next time your bristled lavatory brush wears out, replace it with an all-plastic no-bristle Jonny Mop. Disposable refill pads clean and deodorize bowl quicker.

• Clean your dust mop by using a tool attachment of your vacuum cleaner. If you don't have a vacuum cleaner, tie a paper bag around the head of your dust mop and shake dirt into bag.

• Windows will come clean faster and stay that way longer if you moisten a rag with glycerine and use it on those dirty panes.

• To line up the two sides of a row of snaps, sew all the pronged halves on one side first and then rub chalk on the prongs. When you press them against the fabric on the other side, they will mark the spots exactly where the mates are to be sewn.

• Lessen the laundry load by keeping a box of facial tissues in the bathroom. Women guests can use them instead of guest towels to remove lipstick.

• Don't waste time watchfully guarding the double boiler. Place two or three marbles in the bottom compartment before turning on the flame. When water gets dangerously low, the marbles will bang away noisily.

• Quick and easy way to clean copper pots is to rub them with a cloth dipped in salt and vinegar.

ASK ANNE

HOW CAN I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

• How can I remove the shiny parts from a woolen suit?

Sponge with a solution, 1 tablespoon of ammonia to 1 quart of water. Then cover with a wet cloth and press with an iron not too hot. Follow by brushing the garment with a stiff brush to raise the nap.

• How can I make candles last longer?

Place them in the refrigerator for a day or two before using, and they will last twice as long, and will not trickle down the candlestick so readily.

• How can I bring out all the lights in blonde hair?

Use a solution of a level teaspoonful of borax added to a gallon of water as a rinsing water.

• How can I change the flavor of bread pudding?

When preparing bread pudding, sprinkle each buttered slice of bread with desiccated coconut instead of currants, and spread some on the top. This will be a pleasant change.

• How can I pack eggs successfully?

Before packing eggs, coat each egg thoroughly with lard and butter. Use a large stone jar and place the eggs small end downwards in layers of dry salt.

• How can I prevent water bugs around the kitchen sink?

A little kerosene poured down the kitchen sink at night is a precaution.

• How can I remove tarnish from nickel?

By making a paste of powdered pumice stone and sweet oil. Rub with this paste, then polish with a dry, clean cloth.

• How can I remove worms from cabbage?

Sprinkle ice water on the plants. Sprinkle during the hottest time of the day and the worms will roll off and die.

• How can I drive mice away from closet shelves?

Lay gum camphor along the backs of the closet shelves, or any other haunts of mice.

• How can I cut citron easily?

Steam it for a few minutes and it will make an easy task out of a difficult one.

Help Needed

FORT CARSON, Colo.—Carson's hospital needs staff aides for evening work, Mrs. Regina Wilson of the hospital staff announced.

She said the regular staff is too small to handle work in the offices and answer phone calls, plus serve in the television lounge, recreation halls and elsewhere within the hospital. No particular training is required.

A good pianist also is being sought to entertain a few hours each week.

Hours for volunteer workers are 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Anyone able to spend a few hours in this work each week is asked to call Mrs. Wilson at MEIrose 3-6644, extension 2266.

Members of the Officers Wives Club here met for luncheon and a business meeting this week at the Officers Open Mess.

Constitution Amended

FT. McCLELLAN, Ala.—The wives of officers assigned to Special Troops, Chemical Corps Training Command were hostesses for the April luncheon meeting of the Fort's Officers' Wives Club held at Remington Hall.

Presiding at the business session was Mrs. Ted Bernhisel, who presented an associate membership amendment to the constitution. The President announced plans for a bake sale to be held May 3 and 4.

Jack Smoot, vice president of the Teen-age Club, which is one of the main projects of the Officers' Wives Club, gave a report on club activities.

It's a Girl!

FORT McCLELLAN, Ala.—CWO and Mrs. Gerald M. Clapper are about to spoil a girl.

After five boys, the Clappers naturally expected the new baby to be a boy, too.

"Much to our surprise," says Mrs. Clapper, "she was a girl, and Rebecca Anne made her debut weighing in at seven pounds, twelve ounces."

CWO Clapper is bandleader of the 296th Army Band at McClellan, and has been in the Army 20 years.

Group Officers Wives Club gathered to discuss future plans, over coffee.

The wives voted into office are: Mrs. George D. Burch, honorary president; Mrs. William C. Creary, president; Mrs. Henry C. White, vice-president and Mrs. Raymond F. Dwyer, secretary.

More than 50 wives of the 35th Engineer Group attended the meeting.

FORT BELVOIR, Va.—The Belvoir NCO Wives Club installed new officers this week. The club was organized about two years ago and holds semi-annual elections.

Service wives installed at this meeting were: Mrs. Raye Sitkoff, president; Mrs. Jennie B. Wells, vice-president; Mrs. Lelia Walker, secretary; Mrs. Susan Hazell, treasurer, and Mrs. Severa Buenafe, corresponding secretary.

A buffet luncheon was served following the meeting.

WASHINGTON.—Mrs. Eugene M. Caffey, wife of The Judge Advocate General of the Army, and honorary president of the Army Judge Advocates' Wives Club, presided at a meeting of the group at which new officers were elected.

To serve during the coming year are: Mrs. George W. Hickman Jr., president; Mrs. Delphine D. Rasco, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Nicholas R. Voorhis, 2d vice president; Mrs. Alan B. Todd, secretary; Mrs. Stanley F. Flynn, assistant secretary; Mrs. John G. O'Brien, treasurer.

LIVER DUMPLINGS

1 loaf white bread	butter
1/2 pint milk	1 small onion, chopped
1/2 lb. chopped liver	parsley, chopped
2 beaten eggs	1 garlic clove
salt

Soak bread in milk, squeeze dry. Fry lightly the onion, garlic and parsley in smallest possible amount of butter. Add to the bread. Add the beaten eggs and liver. Knead to a paste. Break off pieces and shape into dumplings, laying them side by side in a large saucepan. Pour salted boiling water over dumplings, enough to cover, and cook for twenty minutes. Serve with sauerkraut.

Army Times Cooking Party

MRS. LOUISE LE CLAIRE, c/o Capt. G. H. LeClaire Jr., Pirmasins Signal Depot APO 180, New York, N.Y., is this week's winner of the Army Times cooking party.

Mrs. LeClaire says, "This is a German dish that we really enjoy since we came here to Germany."

Each week an Army wife will win a check for $5. These recipes should be typical of the section of the States in which she is now stationed—or of a foreign country.

If possible, please mention where the recipe was discovered. Name and address should be printed clearly on each entry and addressed to: Army Times Kitchen, 2020 M St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C. No recipes can be returned.

Style Show Held

MRS. WALTER HENDERSON, wife of 1st Lt. Henderson of the 35th Inf. Regt., models a black, rhinestone-ornamented swimming suit at a fashion show sponsored by the Hui O Na Wahine, and held at the Schofield Barracks, Hawaii Officers Club. Seventeen ladies, officers and children from various division units modeled the styles supplied by a Honolulu department store. Following the show, a formal Cotton Ball was held.

M'Lady Sees Spring Styles At Socials

FASHION shows and crazy hat contests were popular entertainment this month when Army wives got together for their luncheon and tea meetings.

At FORT GORDON, Ga., the PMGC Ladies Group staged a fashion show sit-down tea at the Officers' Open Mess.

Hostesses were wives of officers attending the Officers' Advanced Class No. 9. Mrs. Virgil P. Foster and Mrs. Clifford J. Rainford acted as co-chairmen.

In PHILADELPHIA, Pa., the Officers Wives Club of the 24th AAA Group held a fancy hat contest at its April meeting.

Mrs. William R. Scruggs, 506th AAA Missile Bn., won the prize for originality with her version of the Eiffel Tower, complete with French flag.

Summer playtime was heralded at a fashion luncheon given by wives of officers of The Infantry School's Tactical Department at FORT BENNING, Ga., with sports clothes as the theme. The event was attended by 72 ladies who sat at tables decorated with miniature sailboats, beach balls, ping pong paddles, and such. At the speaker's table a speedboat skimmed across a crepe paper lake.

Mrs. William H. Applegate headed the hostesses.

An April in Paris luncheon was sponsored by the officers wives of the 17th AAA Group, ARMY CHEMICAL CENTER, Md., highlighted by a spring and summer style show.

Mrs. James R. Laney, Jr., and her committee turned the Gunpowder Officers Mess into a French cafe, with the decorations held to pink and black and the candles dripping from bottles. A French menu was served.

Fort Gulick Wives Earn Money

FORT GULICK, C.Z.—The third annual thrift shop anniversary sale was termed a complete success by Mrs. Leroy M. Glodell, president, after tabulating sales slips for the day-long affair.

Clerks sold 370 items to 223 registered customers in a sale marked by door prizes and a variety of goods ranging from clothing to living room furniture. In all, $320 was taken in.

Army wives from Gulick, Fort Davis and Coco Solito combined their efforts to organize and conduct the sale.

In addition to regular stock, the volunteer group amassed a variety of crystal, china, figurines and leather goods. Highlight of the day was a drawing for three door prizes donated by local merchants.

Mrs. W. H. Goggans, won the first prize, a set of porcelain figurines.

Profits from the Fort Gulick thrift shop go to the post welfare fund which aids activities in the Army Atlantic area. Thrift shop profits go toward support of Boy and Girl Scouts, Brownies, Cubs, and the chaplain's fund.

Getting Oriented

with

Betty Morris

THEY tell me quiz shows are still the rage in the States. That's one reason why Mr. Hori of the International Division of NHK (Japan's National Broadcasting and TV Co.) chose an audience participation quiz for me to witness after a "grand tour" of NHK's modern, well-equipped radio and TV studios in Tokyo.

Here was a quiz with a new twist!

The program, a musical quiz, consisted of two parts. The first was based on classical music. A passage from a famous work by a composer such as Beethoven, Tchaikowsky or Mendelssohn was played. The contestant's chore—listen intently to the music and then describe the impressions the music brought to his mind.

The other portion of the quiz—equally as unusual and as difficult—consisted of choosing a folded paper from a collection of unknown lyrics or poems—reading the lyric aloud and then improvising a tune to fit the chosen set of words.

The impressions and improvisations were judged by a panel of five noted figures in the Japanese musical field. Xylophone chimes, one to five, heralded the favorable votes of the judges. Each contestant faced the quiz, the judges and a large studio audience.

A young boy of about seven, an unemployed middle-aged man, a housewife, a middle-school girl and a zoot suiter were the contestants. Their interest and ability in these fields was amazing. I'm tone deaf and a musical moron so not qualified to pass judgment, but I'm sure that even my "long hair" friends would have been amazed and enthusiastic about the educational benefits of such a quiz.

I'm for seeing it tried in the States.

On Diet? Just Nibble Raw Carrots

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD.—"Trying to improve your appearance all you can, is much more than a form of vanity," Jan Sterling told me when I visited her hilltop home recently.

"I am all for changing what ever bothers you. For years I hated my nose. I didn't feel pretty and it affected my attitude. After I had it bobbed, I developed a new personality and my career and my life took an upswing.

"And teeth, too, should be fixed. I happen to have no trouble there, but I have had friends who were afraid to smile until they had caps made.

"The first time I bleached my hair for the Chicago company of 'Born Yesterday' I had to look real flashy.

"With my hair platinum blonde I found that I had to dress differently."

The nurse brought in Jan's baby, an adorable little boy of six months. Jan's baby was delivered at home without anesthetics.

"I really indulged myself during pregnancy," Jan reminisced. "I ate everything that I felt like eating and gained 42 pounds."

"How much did you have to lose to get back your normal weight?" I asked.

"About 30 pounds," Jan disclosed. I like a clean line, so I stay at 110 pounds.

"Ten days after the baby was born I was rehearsing. When my costumes were fitted, I told them to make my inner belts 22 inches."

I asked Jan about her diet.

"I love sweets so I had to discipline myself," Jan confided. "I didn't follow any set menus but I kept to around 750 calories a day and I still had reasonably balanced meals."

"For breakfast I had grapefruit, coffee and either a poached egg or diet toast.

"For lunch I had a boiled egg, lean hamburger or cold chicken. For dinner I had steak, green vegetables and skim milk. And I supplemented my diet with multiple vitamins and minerals.

"If I found myself thinking about food, I nibbled a raw carrot. I was very careful to have no candy in the house."

INERTIAL NAVIGATION

with ARMA

ENGINEERS

Now...when you leave the Service, you can step right into a high-paying job in a great new field and grow along with it.

It's Inertial Navigation—an absolute navigational system that's completely self-contained, non-detectable, unaffected by weather or terrain, and unlimited by range or altitude.

The vital heart of this system: accelerometers, gyros, integrators and computers is being developed at Arma, one of America's largest producers of ultra-precise equipment.

This new field demands a highly creative approach—and pays handsome dividends. The Arma way of working: small units that encourage quick recognition and progress; financial assistance for continued study at nearby universities; and a complete program of company-paid benefits, make an Arma career a profitable long-range proposition. Arma engineers are currently working a 48 hour week at premium rates to meet a critical demand in the Defense Dept's missile program. Moving allowances arranged.

And living on Long Island—one of the country's best-known suburban-resort areas—is living at its best!

SENIOR ENGINEERS • ENGINEERS • ASSOCIATE ENGINEERS

Gray Lady graduates included Mrs. William N. Gillmore, wife of 4th Armored Div. commanding general; Mrs. Edward B. Armstrong; Mrs. John A. Beall; Mrs. George F. Burton; Mrs. Paul J. Costello; Mrs. Edward H. Cummings; Mrs. E. G. Fish; Mrs. Randolph V. Foster; Mrs. Robert Greer; Mrs. Thomas A. Harris; Mrs. Robert C. Hunter; Mrs. Homer H. Jones; Mrs. Wing F. Jung; Mrs. Orville T. Lowe; Mrs. John C. Patrick; and Mrs. Don L. Wilhelm.

Four of the ladies who were capped as Gray Ladies also received their caps as staff aides. They are Mrs. Gillmore, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Lowe.

Other staff aides include Mrs. Marshall W. Balkcom; Mrs. Glen A. Langer; Mrs. William B. Merchant, Jr.; and Mrs. Pearl M. Nelson.

An unusual feature of the staff aide capping was that of Mrs. Nelson who has been a patient in the hospital for several months. She earned the staff aide certificate from her hospital bed.

Volunteer Gray Ladies and staff aides who have served for one year or longer were presented service stripes at the ceremony.

WEDDING BELLES

MENSTER-IVEY

FORT MEADE, Md.—Mary M. Menster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Menster of Cascade, Iowa, was married to Lt. Thomas C. Ivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ivey of Milner, Ga., in the Post Chapel this month.

Miss Betty Menster, sister of the bride, was Maid of Honor. Kenneth Ivey, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Hunt Room of the Meade Officers' Open Mess. The Rev. William J. Menster, brother of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

MOORE-MOUTON

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Capt. and Mrs. Julius Bruce Moore, USA, announce the engagement of their daughter Lynne Marie Moore to Francis Edward Mouton Jr., of Lafayette, La.

The wedding is scheduled for May 30, at Our Lady of the Most Holy Rosary Church in New Orleans.

Miss Moore has selected her mother as Matron of Honor.

O'CONNOR-BAKER

DERIDDER, La.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O'Connor, retired Reserve, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Jane, to Lt. Charles J. Baker, son of Maj. and Mrs. James F. Baker of Grafenwohr, Germany.

Lt. Baker is a member of the 27th AFA Bn., 1st Armored Div., Fort Polk, La. Miss O'Connor is employed at Post Ordinance, Fort Polk. A May wedding is planned.

Fort Gordon Wives Entertain

IN A GAY SPANISH MOOD the ladies of the 500th Transportation Group at Fort Gordon, Ga., met for lunch. From left, the Senoras are Mrs. R. I. Miller, Mrs. Manuel Martinez, Mrs. J. O. Younts Jr. and Mrs. Russell White, who were hostesses on this occasion.

A Camp Site Is In Sight At Fort Lewis

FORT LEWIS, Wash. — A big step forward in the creation of a Youth Activities Center summer camp ground at American Lake, was provided through the donation of $1500 from the Post thrift shop, representing the activity's accumulated profits.

The money, accepted in behalf of the group by Brig. Gen. George P. Lynch, deputy post commander, will be used to improve a club house, which is in the process of being erected. Mrs. Martin L. Green made the presentation on behalf of the shop.

In explaining the ability of the thrift shop to make such a donation, Mrs. Green said that profits come from sales of items donated and from a small service charge included in the sales price of items placed with the shop on a consignment basis.

With the exception of one person who maintains books and other necessary records, all services are volunteered by wives.

Mrs. Green said, "I hope the

Kids Get Shot

FORT CARSON, Colo. — A special immunization clinic for Army dependents going to Germany under Operation Gyroscopic has been established here.

The clinic is exclusively for wives and children of Carson soldiers who will travel overseas with the 8th Inf. Div.

The immunization center, located on the 2d floor of building 6237, is in the outpatient section of the post's hospital.

It will operate from noon to 3:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and Saturdays from 8 to 11 a.m. for school children who will travel overseas.

Saturday morning hours for Gyro children only will continue until further notice.

families gyroscoping to Alaska this summer keep us in mind when packing. If they find items no longer needed and would like to give them away, we can use them for a good cause."

She also pointed out that the gyroscoping move of many 2d Inf. Div. units will deprive the shop of a number of its present volunteer workers and replacements are needed.

STATESIDE TOUR

Author of 'Heir Corps' Speaks to Dix Wives

FORT DIX, N. J.—At the luncheon meeting of the Dix Officers' Wives' Club in April members heard guest speaker Leone Hart Koster.

Mrs. Koster, wife of Col. Alfred M. Koster, USA, presented a program of humorous commentaries on life in the Armed Services. Author of more than a hundred published rhymes, Mrs. Koster has concentrated her writing on topics pertaining to the Armed Forces.

Over a hundred members and guests enjoyed the program of original verses, among them the popular "S.O.P." (Standard Operating Procedure) and "The Heir Corps" on service children.

A gay note was carried out in the luncheon theme Medley of Spring. Colorful window box centerpieces filled with fresh spring flowers in pastel hues decorated the tables.

Luncheon chairman was Mrs. Albert V. Bruni. Assisting Mrs. Bruni were the hostesses, Officers' wives of the 2nd Training Regiment, headed by their committee chairmen—Mrs. Paul R. Jeffrey, Mrs. Carl F. Cusanelli, Mrs. Kenneth A. Ward, Mrs. Wilson M. Liggett, Mrs. Charles G. Sheaffer, and Mrs. Edward J. Russell.

Antique Talk Heard

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. — A patriotic theme was carried out at the April luncheon meeting of the Officers' Wives and Women Officers' club held in the Valley Forge Army Hospital Officers' Open Mess. Sixty members were present.

The U. S. flag and state flags for the 48 states were placed as background for the tables. These flags were loaned for the occasion by the Freedoms Foundation located at nearby Valley Forge State Park. Members and guests were seated according to their home states.

The club president, Mrs. John Robert Pracher, presided at a short business meeting and introduced the speaker, Mr. Phillip Jenney, an antique restorer.

Mr. Jenney said antiques can be blended with all periods. If furniture of different periods is enjoyed and appreciated, it can be used harmoniously in the home.

The committee for the luncheon meeting included Mrs. John B. Plum, chairman; Mrs. Mac C. Newman, Mrs. Forrest P. Newman, Jr., Mrs. Merle W. Ogle, Mrs. Dale H. Palmer, Jr., Mrs. Albert L. Paul, Mrs. Earle A. Paxson, Mrs. Edward J. Pilewski, and Mrs. Victor Phelps.

Col. Schull Gets Scroll

FORT KNOX, Ky. — Officers departing from CONARC Bd. No. 2 were honored this week with a formal dinner dance at the Brick Club. New assignments for the departees represent practically all parts of the globe.

Col. John C. Welborn, president of the board and Mrs. Welborn were hosts on this occasion and Col. Welborn presented Col. Edson J. Schull, departing deputy president with a scroll signed by each of the officers and professional civilians on the board in recognition of his efforts and accomplishments during his assignment.

Col. and Mrs. Schull are departing for Japan where the colonel has been assigned to Hq. Far East Command, Tokyo, Japan.

'Come On, It's My Turn Now'

Welding Unit's Worth Proven

FORT DEVINS, Mass. — The week-old mobile welding unit of the 74th RCT really paid dividends as the unit was dispatched to do welding on a gasoline storage tank.

This particular job was extremely hazardous in that there was a possibility that the fumes in the tank would be ignited from the welding arc. However, extreme precautions were taken, even to filling the tank with water to minimize the danger.

The 5000 gallon storage tank, welded across the street from the regimental motor shop, will be used for fuel storage.

3-Man Bliss Unit Does Big Job

FORT BLISS, Tex.—It takes a jack of all trades to serve in the smallest unit here. At least that's the firm belief of men of the 203d Sig. Det. assigned to the U. S. Army training center.

This small but important command is composed of two enlisted men and one officer who handle all the maintenance support of the Signal Corp's radar equipment in the ATC's 5th Bn.

The reason the men of the 203d feel they are about the most specialized group of soldiers at the ATC is because they daily handle the functions of supply sergeant, first sergeant, vehicle drivers, unit clerk or armorer, in addition to some highly skilled duties as the battalion's radar maintenance group.

As a regular TOE unit, the signal detachment is a self-sufficient group having equipment and supplies ranging from carbine rifles to a deuce-and-a-half.

THE 203d is commanded by CWO Mariano Rodriguez with SP2 Joseph Gordon serving as NCO in charge. Rounding out the fabulous trio is PFC William C. Osgood.

When one of the "Tipsey-One-Dogs" (surveillance radar sets) break down or "go off the air," the 203d is summoned to the radar park to repair the trouble. With all sorts of different tools and testing equipment, the three men begin their trial and error sysplained SP2 Gordon, "because we are constantly working inches away from 18,000 volts."

Hambone, Carson's Jumping Mule, Is Glad Exercise Lodestar Is Over

FORT CARSON, Colo.—A grizzled old Army trooper seemed a bit thankful Exercise Lodestar Baker has drawn to a close after three months training climaxed by a seven-day maneuver.

It was his third such mountain winter operation at Camp Hale, Colo., the Army's highest Stateside post.

The most famous member of Btry. A of the 4th FA Bn. (Pack), the veteran was with first sergeant Alton Ware whenever he went into the field.

But despite the welcomed rest, Hambone, the 4th gray-turning-white jumping mule, took the exercise with the same sobriety that has marked his 14-year Army career.

He's a little slower, maybe, yet ready for the next exercise, and still the unanimous choice of the men in the 4th.

"HAMBONE to me—well, there just isn't another animal in the unit to replace him," reflected Ware.

The master sergeant and Hambone have been together since the mule skinner joined the pack artillery outfit last December.

The 4th spent much time in the mountains surrounding Hale on bivouacs and firing missions before the Lodestar maneuver began, and from April 6 to 12 was camped out in McAllister Gulch and Resolution Creek.

And whenever the battalion packed out, Hambone and Ware were right in the lead with the commander, Capt. Raymond L. Nelson, and his horse.

"The 4th's mascot is always ridden," emphasized his guardian. "You'll never see him packing a load or being herded."

NEVER ONE to encourage friendship, either human or animal, the 19-year-old mule rates first class treatment from the entire battery.

"I give him sugar or an apple once in a while—and a little extra petting more often than that," the veteran mule packer admitted. "And I see a lot of the men sneak him special favors, too."

The stable sergeant—MSGT. Daughtry Stallings—gives Hambone "horse class" treatment. He's fed in the barn at Hale at night with the other horses and "bunks" in his personal box stall.

"He's not as young as he used to be and doesn't fight for his food when the other mules crowd him out," Stallings explained. "And because he's an old vet—well, he gets a little more than the other mules."

There's been talk a long time about retiring the mule that fooled them all when he took third in a jumping class at a Colorado Springs horse show several years ago.

"Retirement's sort of a problem," explained CWO John McKinney, pack officer. There is nothing said in Army regulations on what to do with a retired mule.

"We don't want to discharge old '9Y11,' as his service record calls him. Seeing him sold to pull a junk wagon or possibly put to sleep would be more than any of us could take."

Hambone doesn't seem to think he's ready for retirement or discharge either. No one in the battery can remember when he's been on sick call.

The post veterinarian has said "no" to any more jumping. But for normal work his legs are as good if not better than a lot of younger mules in the 4th Field, according to McKinney.

When the battery begins herding the mules to Cheyenne, Wyo., in July for the annual Frontier Days, Hambone most likely will go by truck.

MULE AND SKINNER go off to another day's work at Fort Carson, Colo. The mule is Hambone, who is celebrating his 14th year of Army service. His friend is SFC Lawrence Cnossen, 4th FA Bn. (Pack). Hambone used to make exhibition jumps, but has been grounded because of old age. Carson has the Army's only remaining mule pack outfits.

New York TV Cameras Focus On Wadsworth Installations

FORT WADSWORTH, N. Y.—New Yorkers recently saw a TV camera-guided tour of this post via WRCA-TV's remote unit.

The camera, mounted atop a specially designed and equipped limousine gave television viewers a good idea of military activities on an Army installation devoted to the support of AA units in the New York Defense area.

Brig. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commander of the 52d AAA Brig. here, acted as the official TV guide for the show and Herb Sheldon, master of ceremonies for the program.

Sheldon opened the show by greeting Gen. Duff as he landed in a helicopter. The remainder of the half-hour program was devoted to panoramic pick-ups of various historical installations and post activities.

Of particular interest was the age of the installation. Gen. Duff pointed out that it dated back to Hendrik Hudson and the early Dutch. It was active during the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Civil War and at present is an AAA Hqs. and home of a 90-mm gun battery.

Service Experts Study Aerial Delivery Ideas

FORT LEE, Va.—Preparation for warfare in the atomic age requires speed and efficiency to the greatest possible degree in all factors related to aerial delivery of supplies.

So declared William H. Martin, Director of Research and Development, Department of the Army, at the opening session of the recent Department of Defense Symposium on Aerial Delivery.

"With our concept that atomic age battlefields will call for a highly mobile and widely dispersed Army," Martin said, "we will have to look at the whole job as a system which involves aerial transport vehicles, materials to be transported, and their treatment for transport."

Maj. Gen. K. L. Hastings, The Army Quartermaster General, spelled out the challenge presented in future aerial delivery planning when he told the conferees that the military's present aerial delivery system is "cumbersome . . . expensive . . . and entirely too complicated."

Col. Julian M. Lockhart, an Army air specialist from Fort Bragg, predicted that between 1965 and 1970, the military should be able to deliver by air all supplies needed by front-line soldiers.

THE SYMPOSIUM, sponsored by Quartermaster Corps under the direction of the Department of Defense, attracted military participants from the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps, together with civilian governmental, industrial and scientific representatives from across the nation.

The conferees came to the Symposium sketching out each service's particular requirements. They left with areas of agreement mapped out between the services and a step closer to tomorrow's air minded armed forces.

The Marines indicated they wanted to boost high speed, low-altitude delivery to men on the front lines. Jet fighters, suggested the Marines, could be exploited for the drop.

The Navy expressed a determination to continue testing the free fall method of air-sea rescue equipment. The Air Force called for the development of an all purpose cargo carrier that could air lift 25,000 pounds and maneuver in all kinds of weather.

The Army Quartermaster Corps, faced with the responsibility of readying supplies for drops, stressed the search for more effective shock absorbing materials, packing containers and aerial delivery equipment.

The 500 visitors that converged on the site of the Quartermaster Training Command, Fort Lee, for the first day's activities heard symposium chairman, Brig. Gen. C. G. Calloway, commanding general of the Quartermaster Research and Development Command at Natick, Mass., and Maj. Gen. Ira K. Evans, commanding general, Quartermaster Training Command, and host to the symposium.

Gen. Hastings outlined the job of the conferees as one of making aerial delivery a normal rather than an emergency means of delivery. Martin emphasized speed of delivery from points far distant from the battlefield.

Army Son Is 'Medicine' For Ailing German Dad

THERE'S A NEW TWINKLE in his eye as ailing Franz Degenhardt chats with his son, Alfons, a private in the U.S. Army. Alfons was rushed from Fort Benning, Ga. to Oberkirch, Germany, when Red Cross officials learned that his father was seriously ill. Now, he's been reassigned to Karlsruhe, less than 40 miles from home.

OBERKIRCH, Germany. — The warm heart of the supposedly impersonal U. S. Army has made these the brightest days in over a decade for 71-year-old Franz Degenhardt of this Black Forest village.

Until recently it looked as if the tragedy and misfortune, which have stalked him for 15 years, would take its final toll. He lost four of his six sons in the war. He left all his material possessions behind when he fled from his home in the Russian zone of Germany after the war.

Then, in February, the doctor in Oberkirch warned him that a serious heart condition might end his life soon. Herr Degenhardt had only one last wish—to see his youngest son, Alfons, 26, a private in the Army at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The doctor suggested that the Red Cross might help in getting the son over to see his father, and together they wrote a letter of appeal. It reached American Red Cross European headquarters in Stuttgart, Feb. 27.

FROM THERE cables went to the Pentagon and Benning explaining the situation. By March 3, Pvt. Degenhardt had emergency leave orders in his pocket and had hitched a plane ride to Washington with a four-star general.

Alfons arrived here after a plane trip to Frankfurt from McGuire AFB, N. J., to find his father weak and unable to leave his bed.

The Army and the Red Cross stayed on the job. Three weeks later the young soldier got his wish—a reassignment to Karlsruhe, just 40 miles from his father.

SEEING HIS SON again was apparently the medicine the elder Degenhardt needed. The retired railroad worker, who now lives with his wife in a small apartment provided for displaced persons by the German government, is now able to be out of bed and move around his home.

There is a new twinkle in his eye, a twinkle that hasn't been there for 15 years.

"I am very grateful to the United States Army and the Red Cross," he said in German. "You Americans have big hearts."

Chief Puts NCOs On 'Guest List'

FORT CARSON, Colo. — Fort Carson non-commissioned officers are now on "Dad" Bruce's guest list. I. B. Bruce, Colorado Springs police chief, has invited top NCOs to attend weekly military police and civilian luncheons. MSGts. Jack Henderson and Vess Miller, sergeant major of Carson's 13th and 61st Inf. Regt. were the first to attend.

COMPANY H of Carson's 13th Inf. Regt. has passed the 800-day mark without a single AWOL. Last AWOL for the company was recorded on Dec. 18, 1953, when the company was stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

CARSON'S 28th Inf. Regt. has received another honor to add to its imposing record. The 28th merited an award for chalking up the best (percentage-wise) recruiting record during February at the Colorado post.

GM Will Unveil Car That Burns Anything From Gas to Peanut Oil

THE XP-500, first automobile in the world powered by a new engine that burns almost any type of fuel, was announced this week by General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice.

It will be unveiled at the May 15-16 dedication of the new General Motors Technical Center, where such engines have been under test the past three years.

Known as the free piston engine, designated GM-10-10, Curtice said the experimental power package represents an entirely new concept in automotive power.

Commercial production is five to 10 years away, Curtice said.

"Although the principle of the free piston engine has been known for more than 30 years," the GM president declared, "General Motors' research staff is first to put it to work in an automobile."

The XP-500's engine has no crankshaft or connecting rods, no rotating parts in the manner of a conventional auto engine with its pistons spinning a crankshaft. Basically, its pistons operate like a bicycle tire pump or old-fashioned fireplace bellows, blowing hot gases through a pipe to a turbine.

The spinning turbine powers the rear wheels of this revolutionary experimental motorcar.

Curtice said engineers directed by Dr. Lawrence R. Hafstad, GM vice president in charge of research staff, are the first to design a free piston engine into such a small, compact unit. It generates a nominal 250 horsepower and is described as a Siamese unit.

THIS MEANS it consists of two parallel cylinders, each containing a set of two horizontally-opposed pistons, a departure from previous free piston engine design.

Heretofore, this type of engine has been used primarily in Europe for such large-size jobs as powering ships, locomotives, stationary power plants and portable air compressors. These units usually consist of a large single cylinder or banks of disconnected single cylinders each containing two pistons.

One of the most interesting features of a free piston engine is an unfinicky fuel appetite. In tests at the Technical Center a unit has run on all types of mineral oils from high octane gasolines to so-called bunker "C" or residual fuels.

In fact, a GM experimental unit has been fueled with whale oil, peanut and other vegetable oils.

According to Arthur F. Underwood, head of GM Research Staff's mechanical development department, "This engine never heard about octane."

Although it is in the very early experimental stage, Underwood explained, the engine offers engineers many interesting possibilities with a new form of power not only for passenger cars but also for buses, trucks and military vehicles.

IT HAS FEW high-precision parts as compared with conventional auto piston engines and gas turbines. Also, engineers say, it is inherently balanced so that it operates virtually without vibration, and the comparative absence of rotating parts would cause little wear of rubbing metals.

I Corps Artillery Tests Its Firepower in Korea

By LT. ROBERT L. VICKERY

WITH I CORPS (GP), Korea.—The tranquil quiet of a spring afternoon was shattered as a burst of explosives from the Army's deadliest artillery weapons pounded a target area, and a hypothetical enemy force was decimated.

"Exercise Mobile"—a three-day field problem which emphasized the effectiveness of artillery firepower and mobility—was conducted by I Corps (Gp) Artillery opposite a simulated aggressor attack along the corps front.

The exercise began shortly after dawn, with no prior announcement to the troops. With the sounding of the alert, each battalion immediately prepared for occupation of its battle positions.

FOLLOWING their arrival at the Tactical CP, headquarters staff prepared situation maps and firing charts and set about to employ the battalions defensively against the advancing "aggressors." While the firing units camouflaged their stations and established perimeters of defense, men of the 1st FA (Obsn) Bn. made surveys to the observation posts and provided meteorological reports.

Brig. Gen. Phillip H. Draper, I Corps (Gp) Artillery commander, maintained close contact with his men by means of ground-hugging helicopter flights to battalion gun positions and OPs.

At the critical moment during the problem, when the opposition was allegedly committing its entire strength for a massive assault, a surprise time-on-target fire mission was launched by the artillery by massing howitzer firepower across the entire front.

Heavy bombardment continued through the night, as observers on Wehle OP adjusted the fire by using illuminating shells to light up the target areas.

After three days of crippling fire, "aggressor" action foundered and I Corps (Gp) Artillery took the offensive. As "Exercise Mobile" was concluded, the combat potential of Korea's front-line of defense was successfully proven again.

Boo Hoo

THE GAS MASK really works, says PFC Prudencio V. De Luna, after discovering what happens when the mask is removed inside a tear gas chamber. De Luna is shown leaving the chamber during recent CBR training in Co. H, 32d Inf. Regt., in Korea.

Unit in 17th Infantry Sets Up A 'Talking Bulletin Board'

WITH 7TH DIV., Korea — The most unusual "bulletin board" in the 17th Inf. Regt. belongs to Hq. Co. of the 3d Bn. It consists of an old radio and tape recorder combined to bring the men of the company news and the latest hit tunes from the states.

Operating inside the company mess hall during meals, this likeness of a radio station has been named "Blue Buffalo," giving company level news, details of all news directly concerning company personnel, current events happening in "Buffalo City," places of interest to visit while on R & R, and a wide selection of music. Records were obtained by the men from their homes in the States.

SP2 Bobby Britt is acting manager and announcer for the enterprise.

Troops Train in Shadow of Fujiyama

Japanese, American Troops Share Fuji Training Area

By MSGT. FRED W. BAARS

TOKYO. — For more than 10 years the Fuji-McNair Maneuver Area, comprising some 80,000 acres of rolling terrain located around the base of Mt. Fuji, has been the principal training area for U. S. Security Forces in Japan. Once the almost exclusive domain of the 1st Cav. Div., many other famous units have trained there during and subsequent to the Korean war.

With the end of the occupation, the signing of the peace treaty with Japan and the birth of the new Japanese forces, the entire area reverted legally to control of the Japanese government. By administrative agreement reached between the governments of Japan and the United States, the maneuver area is now allocated by the Japanese government for joint use by American and Japanese soldiers.

Under the terms of the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact, by which the United States provides military and economic aid to allied nations, a Military Assistance Advisory Group has been established in Japan. Known as MAAG Japan, this is comprised of officers and enlisted personnel of the U. S. Army, Navy, and Air Force. It is the mission of MAAG Japan to assist the Japanese in the organization, training and equipping of military forces.

AN IMPORTANT portion of this program is being conducted in the Fuji-McNair area, where schools have been established for the training of Japanese officers and men. The courses include intensive instruction in the care and maintenance, range firing and tactical employment of infantry weapons and artillery. This requires the daily allocation of a major portion of the maneuver area for the exclusive use of the Japanese and MAAG Japan, and must be coordinated with Army units.

For example, a typical week's training schedule shows the area being used by an Army tank battalion, a field artillery battalion, a Marine regiment and Japanese infantry and artillery units.

It is the responsibility of the Range Section, S-3, at Camp Fuji to coordinate the joint use of the area. This section, under the direction of Maj. Francis Alix, processes requests for use of range and maneuver areas received from both Japanese and U. S. forces, conducts weekly and quarterly range meetings with representatatives of using units to allocate and coordinate use of the various areas, prepares, publishes and distributes to military and appropriate Japanese government agencies weekly and quarterly schedules to reflect firing and training information. It also participates in meetings between the post commander and local Japanese government and liaison representatives concerning use of roads, training and maneuver areas, enforcing range regulations and safety precautions, and also supervises and training of all range personnel in the operation, construction, maintenance, survey and marking of training and range facilities.

SILHOUETTED against majestic Fujiyama, tank and infantry units of the 1st Cav. Div. take part in rigorous combat training at the Fuji-McNair maneuver area. The training site is shared by other American units and ground elements of the new Japanese army.

GI Meteorologists Teaching U. S. Methods to Japanese

WITH 1ST CAV. DIV., Japan.— Launching balloons valued at $100 each may seem like an expensive avocation. But carrying special electronic equipment aloft, and observed by trained meteorological specialists of the Artillery Ballistic Meteorological School at Camp Fuji, these balloons become a valuable instrument in artillery and missile warfare.

Under a special grant to the Japanese army, the school was organized in January of this year under the command of CWO Lu-Verne E. Ebbesen. A teaching staff of 12 graduates of the Meteorological School at Fort Sill, currently attached to the 1st Cav. Div.'s 5th FA Btry. (RKT), has been instructing the Japanese in the use of meteorological equipment and its application to artillery fire.

Classes of instruction in the operation and maintenance of the highly sensitive devices which receive, record and evaluate the conditions of the upper atmosphere are the two major courses offered.

Radio transmitters, set at a predetermined frequency, are set aloft in hydrogen filled balloons. Receiving sets on the ground receive a steady radio signal which is transcribed in terms of humidity, wind velocity and air pressure during the course of flight of the balloon.

Look Out . . . Here Comes the Company Day Room

THE CHOICE was to take the quonset apart and move it, or pick it up as is. The men of H&H Co., 32d Inf. Regt. in Korea, decided to do it the lazy man's way. So 70 men lifted the unit's day room and carried it 250 yards down the road. The move, under the direction of Capt. David J. Schumacher, took 15 minutes. That's better than a half mile an hour. And not a bit of damage was suffered by the quonset hut in the moving process.

All About STAMPS

By BILL OLCHESKI

WITH this issue we launch a new swap plan designed to give stamp and coin collectors in the military and reserve components a chance to get together and exchange their duplicates.

In order to protect our readers, as well as to conserve space, we have had to adopt a rather specialized system of handling swap items.

The system will work in this way. Each member of the swap club is assigned a number. This number is kept on file in our Washington office.

Periodically we will publish a list giving numbers and items in which they are interested. To contact a person on the list, send your name and a three-cent stamp (six-cent if you desire air mail service) to the stamp editor of this publication. We will then forward your name to the club member.

TO JOIN the club, send your name and a resume of your interests to: Stamp Editor, Army Times Publishing Co., 2020 'M' St. N.W., Washington 6, D. C. There are no dues. When your letter is received you will be assigned a number and your number and interests will be listed in a future issue.

The only requirement for continued membership is that we be notified when your address changes.

Following are the first Swap Club listings. The member's number is followed by his interests:

- 101 has worldwide duplicates;
- 102 wants to trade U. S. for new issues of Austria or Germany;
- 103 will swap worldwide duplicates for stamps or other items;
- 104 interested in U. S. and general foreign;
- 105 offers fine to very fine foreign in approval books on even swap basis;
- 106 wants Israel, mint or used, on or off cover;
- 107 offers to pick up mint Arabia at face for interested military personnel;
- 108 offers mint U. S. for same;
- 109 will give West Germany for Israel or U. S. mint;
- 110 asks for your duplicates for a group of youngsters he has in a stamp club;
- 111 wants Guatemala;
- 112 worldwide first day covers;
- 113 offers U. S. or foreign for worldwide revenues;
- 114 seeks U. S. first day covers;
- 115 is in Japan. He offers to get answers to questions on stamps of that country;
- 116 is a beginner and wants to swap general foreign.

COIN QUESTION. An AF S/Sgt. at Parks AFB, Calif., writes he has a dollar bill which is lacking the signature of the treasurer of the U. S. — wants to know what it is worth.

Our sources here tell us a bill of this type is not rare, but it is an oddity. At a coin counter it would sell for from $3.50 to $5, depending on condition.

EXHIBITION. The fourth annual Philatelic Exhibition of the Border Armed Forces Stamp and Coin Society will be held at Fort Bliss, Tex., on Nov. 3 and 4.

The group is trying to put their show on a national basis this year and—with your help—will be able to do so. If you are interested in submitting an entry, write for full details to: Mr. Frank Roddy at 106 Scott Ave. (VHP) Fort Bliss, Tex.

FIPEX. The "uncancelled stamp brigade" a pioneer group of philatelic leaders who sponsored the first international stamp show 43 years ago will be saluted at a special FIPEX luncheon. The first show drew about 2000. The current effort is expected to attract 400,000.

COIN PAPER. From Hawaii, S/Sgt. J. Cunningham calls our attention to the newspaper "The Coin Collector." It is available from: Lawrence Brothers, Dept. AT, Anamosa, Ia., at two dollars per year. Subscribers become members of a collectors' club. The sergeant calls it a "treasure in help to collectors."

ALASKA. The Society of Philatelic Americans is considering publication of "postmarked Alaska," a saga of the early Alaska mails. The book is by M/Sgt. Joseph J. Cavagnol of the USAF. Comments on interest in the book would be appreciated by the author. He can be reached at 17-A Haynes Ave., Mathies Manor, Westover AFB, Mass.

FOR TOURISTS. A portion of the Rudolf G. Sonneborn collection of Israel stamps will be on exhibit through May 9 at the Theodor Herzl Institute, 250 W. 57th St. (Suite 413) N. Y. Admission is free.

ONE FOR THE ROAD. Highway Post Office Service will begin between Parkersburg and Huntington, W. Va., around the 1st of May.

ONE FOR THE AIR. "Adventures With Stamps," a 13-week series of radio shows dealing with stamps and collecting will be heard over WABC, N. Y. on Sunday mornings from 11:05 to 11:20. Sounds like a good idea for base radio and TV stations to give a whirl.

NEW STAMP. The nine-cent Alamo stamp of the U. S. regular series will go on sale June 14 at San Antonio, Tex. Color will be red.

The central design features a view of the Alamo reproduced from a drawing by an artist in the Bureau of Engraving.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send a reasonable number of self-addressed envelopes to the Postmaster at San Antonio, Tex., with money order to cover cost of stamps to be attached. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers."

Cover collecting is a fascinating sideline to stamp collecting.

Regimental Music Revived at Riley

FORT RILEY, Kans. — Regimental "field music" again resounds across the Kansas plains here at Fort Riley, once the "Cavalry capital" of the Army.

The martial music of the 26th Inf. Drum and Bugle Corps is heard every duty day morning at the Camp Forsythe area of the Blue Spader Regt., as the volunteer members of the corps serenade their fellow soldiers with the traditional march tunes which used to begin the military day at all Army posts.

Regimental bands were discontinued during War II, to the regret of many an old soldier. In most cases, even the bugle calls are played on phonograph records nowadays.

Cpl. John L. Moore of the Blue Spaders decided to do something about the situation. He organized a drum and bugle corps of volunteers who rise early to greet the new day, then put their instruments away and join their fellows as the scheduled training begins.

OBITUARY

COL. WALTER T. BATES

WASHINGTON.—Col. Walter T. Bates, who died in Washington, was buried last week at Arlington Cemetery.

Col. Bates, who was officer in charge of the Enlisted Division of the Adjutant General's Office during the 1930s, was a distinguished graduate of the Infantry-Cavalry School and also graduated from the Army War College and the General Staff College. He retired for physical disability in 1936.

A native of Dayton, Ohio, he enlisted in Co. G, 17th Inf., in 1895, and served as a private, corporal and sergeant until he was discharged to accept a commission in the Regular Army. He was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action against Filipino insurgent forces on Luzon in 1899. He served in Cuba and in Germany, where he commanded the 8th Inf. Regt. in the Army of Occupation at Coblenz.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Margaret Jones Bates, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Hughes, and two grandchildren.

Ft. Dix Set for 'Rebel Invasion'

FORT DIX, N. J.—Plans are set for the "Battle of Fort Dix" on Sunday, May 20, the first time Blue and Grey forces have clashed north of the Mason-Dixon line since the highwater days of the Confederacy in 1863.

Thousands of spectators from the surrounding area are expected to attend the colorful civilian marksmanship event which will pit latter-day "Rebels" and "Yankees" together in their 13th semi-annual bloodless skirmish.

More than 150 sharpshooters from points as far distant as the Carolinas and Michigan will participate in the May 20 "clash." "Rebel" marksmen will go into the "Battle of Dix" holding an 8-4 edge in the previous competition.

The North-South skirmishers, largely civilians and gun enthusiasts, who meet twice-yearly in friendly marksmanship competition to determine northern or southern supremacy with weapons of civil war days, are expected to transform a Dix range into a picture torn from the pages of a history book.

Both combatants, using authenticity as their by-word, will make every possible effort—Civil War vintage weapons, uniforms, flags and even campfire songs—to make the scene a throwback to the Civil War era.

MEN WEARING uniforms of "Rebel" grey and "Yankee" blue will employ only weapons that were manufactured during the Civil War. During the musket rivalry, the famed old "minie-ball" of that period will be used, sent to its target by the acrid black powder of a century past.

The sole modern item to be used during the "Battle of Fort Dix" will be employed by the cannoneers, and only out of necessity—the ordinary beer can. Filled with concrete, the beer cans will serve as the shells when the artillerymen hammer at their targets.

But unlike Civil War clashes, excepting the first Battle of Bull Run, civilian spectators will be invited to view this spectacle, the first invasion of northern soil since Gettysburg in 1863. Bleachers are being erected by the Dix Special Services office to accommodate the several thousand viewers expected on the battlefield site.

THE "ARMIES" will rough it during the skirmish, bivouacking overnight on the battleground, a Dix range area, and using only the limited facilities on hand.

While but 150 marksmen are entering the contest, the number of skirmisher personnel coming to Dix will total about 400; the remainder being the families of the contestants. "Troops" from Vir-

ELECTRONIC TECHNICIANS

Time to think of your after-service job?

Use your experience in military electronics at General Electric's Light Military Electronic Equipment Department in Utica, New York.

A fine job—and a fine place to live—are both waiting for you at this General Electric Dept. — If you have had military experience or a two-year technical school course in electronics.

Assignments are unusually interesting, involving complete aligning of testing and troubleshooting of ordinary electronic units, as well as substitution testing on complex electronic equipment.

Ability and initiative determine your responsibility and compensation—not a "set" scale. And there are ample opportunities open to you to advance and increase your technical skills.

And you'll like Utica—a progressive, friendly community with ample housing, room in schools, and year-round outdoor recreation. Ideally located close to the Adirondack Forest Preserve.

True! True! You'll feel so cool. She'll think so, too! Barbasol has more built-in skin aids—cools and soothes as it shaves. Prove it to your face! Smooth it on, then begin. It's good for your skin. Also in tubes and jars. Shaving's first name: BARBASOL! BARBASOL!

43 Retired Generals Live in Tarheel State

FORT BRAGG, N. C. — Forty-three retired Army general officers make their home in North Carolina, a survey conducted by the XVIII Airborne Corps and Fort Bragg public information office shows.

Leading the list are one 5-star and two 4-star generals. Gen. George C. Marshall, former Chief of Staff and Secretary of State is a part-time resident of Southern Pines. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, former consultant to the Secretary of the Army on Far Eastern affairs, lives in Asheville, and former Third Army commander Gen. John R. Hodge makes his home in Fayetteville.

The survey further shows two lieutenant generals, 17 major generals, and 21 one-star brigadier generals living in the state.

Resort areas seem to be favored by the retired general officers. Sixteen live in Asheville, seven in Southern Pines, and three in Pinehurst.

The Gentle Touch

A gentle act, a gentle help, can say so much. That's why gentleness is what modern taste demands in cigarettes. And why new Philip Morris, born gentle, then refined to special gentleness in the making, is so popular among our young smokers. Enjoy the gentle pleasure, the fresh unfiltered flavor, of today's Philip Morris.

New Philip Morris... gentle for modern taste

Framed in Flowers

AH, SPRING! In the States or overseas, the new season is sure to bring out gals and cameramen, along with the first flowers. In this case, the place is Camp Zama, Japan. And the gal is pretty SFC Donna Kincaid, of the AFME Medical Section, admiring some of the cherry blossoms for which Japan is famous.

Army Seeks New Land Agreements At Maneuver Site

FORT POLK, La.—The Army will seek maneuver agreements on certain tracts of land in the Louisiana maneuver area which were not available for Exercise Sage Brush, Brig. Gen. L. E. Seeman, head of the Corps of Engineers' Southwestern Division in Dallas, announced.

During the short time available to prepare for Exercise Sage Brush, held in November and December of last year, no effort was made to obtain agreements on tracts of 20 acres or less.

Lt. Gen. John H. Collier, commanding general, Fourth Army, has advised Gen. Seeman that it is especially important these small tracts along highways and roads be made available in order to bring about more realistic troop training in future maneuvers. Last year it was found that the lack of agreements on these small tracts prevented access to much larger areas which were under agreements.

About 24,000 maneuver agreements covering over six million acres of land were taken prior to Exercise Sage Brush. Through April 6, 745 restoration settlements had been made in a total amount of $180,054.85.

ATS Grads Total Less Than Hundred

FORT EUSTIS, Va. — For the first time in several weeks, graduates at the Army Transportation School here numbered less than 100.

The seven-day period from April 11 through April 17 found only three courses being completed. Largest of these was the air Transportation course which graduated 37. Of these, 18 were U. S. Army Reserve officers, five were Marine Corps officers, and the remaining 14 were enlisted men.

Twenty-two other enlisted men completed the stevedoring course, and 17 finished the harbor craft crewman's course.

3d Armd. Division Returns to Europe

FORT KNOX, Ky.—As the hierarchy of Armor assembles here for the annual conference of the Armor Association, Fort Knox bids farewell to the 3d Armd. Div.—on the eve of the division's departure for Germany.

The first ship will depart from Brooklyn Army Terminal this week end with approximately 1400 troops, their families, pets, personal cars, furniture—everything save heavy equipment—and arrive in Frankfurt nine days later. The mass exodus of Spearhead troops from Knox is a gigantic, precise Gyroscopic movement which should transplant them all—about 16,000 troops and their families—by late June.

The division's commander, Maj. Gen. John M. Willems will depart for Frankfurt at the end of May.

IN ALL, four ships will comprise the first increment; additional ships in the second and third increments are scheduled to leave for Germany at least twice a week from now through June.

Behind this movement has gone a solid year of intensive training and planning.

The job at Knox had a happy culmination last week with a Spearhead birthday celebration—an event marking the first anniversary after its designation as a combat division last year after its deactivation following War II.

The 3d Armd. Div.'s history during War II is a brilliant chapter in the Army's European advance against the enemy in 1944 and 1945.

Since early March, the 3d Armd. Div. has been operating on both sides of the Atlantic.

While most of the planning and all of the training went on at Knox, the Third's advanced party under the command of division assistant, Brig. Gen. Robert W. Porter Jr., have been organizing details in Frankfurt.

Col. James H. Polk

IN FRANKFURT last week Gen. Porter had this to say about the division's progress in the operation:

"The smoothness of this Gyroscopic operation so far has been gratifying. The advanced party (about 1600 individuals, dependents) is now situated here and we're looking forward to continued efficiency when the main body arrives this week."

The general said "Operation Welcome" (performed between incoming 3d Armd. families and exiting 4th Inf. Div. families—) was going along "surprisingly well." In many cases 4th Div. families, before departure, had left beer in the icebox, warmed the roast beef, and warmed milk in the bottles for babies.

Families generally were pleased with the apartments' size and accommodations.

Gen. Porter said the first increment would have 100 percent concurrent travel. "This has been authorized by USAREUR," he said.

The first increment will consist of about 6000—including dependents. It includes two infantry, two tank, and one artillery battalion.

Gen. Porter said that August and September this summer will see the 3d Armd. training at Grafenwoer, a sprawling tank area in Bavaria used by Panzer divisions during the Hitler era.

The Spearhead will be equipped with 300 M-48 tanks and 450 armored personnel carriers.

According to the training plan, the Spearhead will be combat ready within 72 hours of its arrival in Germany.

... BUT BE PREPARED

Point Prep School Needs Good Soldier-Students

Europe) and Korea. Starting with his father, Class of November 1918, he is the fifth member of his family to graduate from the Point.

He said, "This is as good a time of day to catch me as any other. The students are now out of my hands and in class. We—that is, the Army cadre—get them as soon as they get up. There's regular reveille, police-up and breakfast, then they take off for class. We don't see them again, for all practical purposes, until late afternoon. Of course, they're supposed to leave their quarters in apple-pie order and we make a regular check to see that they do. Let's go into one of the barracks and take a look."

Like all the other buildings here, the barracks was the standard Army structure found on any post, but given an appearance of permanence by an exterior facing of red brick. Inside, it was broken up into "roomettes" by open-end partitions, with two men—and sometimes only one—to a room.

"WE'RE NEARING the end of the course now," Major Boatner said, "and consequently 'way down in strength. That explains the relative expansiveness of the quarters. There's a lot of empty space upstairs as a sort of memorial to the 52 eager young men who started this course eight months ago but are no longer with us. I think we've got about 100 left. Reason we try to break them up like this, in these little rooms, is to make life here as much like that at the Point as possible. They'll be there a long time—if they get there—and they might as well start being monastic right here. We try to keep everything as uniform as possible—shoes and clothing lined up in regular order, and so forth. This can present problems when you've got a number of Air Force men in the student body, what with certain differences in their equipment, but it isn't too bad. Notice there are no pin-ups on the walls. No one's ever issued an order against pin-ups, but the men have just sort of mutually agreed it wouldn't be a good idea. All in all, I'd say cadet candidates get a minimum of harassment up here. No guard mount, no special details. For instance, the latrines and furnaces in all the buildings are taken care of by a civilian and an assistant from the cadre. Of course, the students do take regular turns at KP—we give them that to keep them honest. But in the main we consider that they're up here to qualify academically for West Point and the emphasis is kept on that."

BACK IN HIS OFFICE, a small room in a corner of the orderly room building, Major Boatner got a pipe going and asked MSgt. William D. Massey, his first sergeant, to get some records from the files. He pointed the pipe stem toward the next room where the sergeant was at work and said, "That's a sergeant major in the old tradition. When the men get back from class this afternoon, you'll find him right out there taking charge of the formations, organizing for sports, or doing whatever needs to be done. He could easily knock off here for the day at four in the afternoon and let his assistants carry on. Instead, he stays here nights, doing work in anticipation of the next day's routine. As a matter of fact, we could all go home early, the way we've got things set up. That would still make it a long day, mind you—roughly six to four. But we don't go home. There are too many other things to do that are as much a part of this preparatory course as the academic side, though you won't find it written down anywhere. There's a very definite need to check on the men's attitude when they're outside the classrooms. It goes without saying that the commander is responsible for the overall success of the program and this can't be gauged solely by academic standings. You've got to watch them at work and play, form an idea of their leadership qualities, estimate the depth of their motivation. That's an ambiguous word if I ever heard one. Still, it has to be a favorite of mine because it's an absolute essential of this course and will be even more so—if that's possible—when a man gets to West Point. It's defined in the AR very neatly, and I've memorized it. 'Applicants,' says AR 350-55, 'must possess a strong desire for a permanent military career as an officer.' They also, says the regulation, must have 'the capacity for leadership required of an officer.' Well, those are pretty vague terms, you have to admit, but there they are and it's up to me to interpret them. And how are you going to find out if a man has these qualities unless you watch him in action and talk to him on a personal basis? Certainly, he won't necessarily have them just because he has written down on a piece of paper: 'Yes, I would like to be an officer,' and so forth. No, you've got to make a personal study of the man. That's what I do, and that's why, sometimes, I have to tell a man: 'Sorry, son, it's no go.' We had a man here, not long ago, an absolute whiz at studies. Entered some California college at the age of 14, that sort of thing. The academic work here was child's play for him. He was OK physically, too. But when it came to relationships with fellow students and with cadre noncoms, he didn't have it. Routine, and responsibilities that had nothing to do with cracking a book were annoyances to him, more or less. He lacked the maturity of outlook that would make leading a platoon just as much of a challenge to him as a course in trig. I don't think he was sorry to leave when the axe finally fell. On the other hand, we've got a man here now who's continually in hot water, and I think he's getting apprehensive about it, too. He's carrying the classwork load all right and his leadership qualities have already been demonstrated—to my satisfaction, at least. But he's continually getting these demerits, for an untidy locker or for being late at formations—things like that. But I know what the trouble is. He's doing too much extra-curricular stuff, like writing for the unit paper, serving on this and that committee. He's spreading himself too thin. But this fellow isn't in any danger: I know he's in earnest about this course. I'll just have a little talk with him and advise him to stop running around in circles."

MAJOR BOATNER slid across the desk a sheet of paper Sergeant Massey had brought in. He said, "Take a look at that." It was an enrollment record for the USMA Preparatory School covering the years from 1947 to 1955. For each year, it showed total enrollment, the number who were there for examinations at the end of the course, the number who passed the exams and qualified for West Point, the number entering the Academy, and the number graduating.

In every year, there was a very noticeable drop in numbers from column to column.

In 1947, for example, 482 youths came to the school, presumably bent on getting into West Point. By the time examinations rolled around at the end of roughly eight months, only 339 were there to take them. The rest had been weeded out during the course by resignations, academic deficiencies, and for various other reasons. The exams themselves knocked off another 145 men. Of the 194 who qualified for the Point, 34 went elsewhere before the first Tuesday in July, the Academy's annual entrance date. And of the 160 men who began the West Point course, only 116 graduated. This made for a "success percentage" of just about 25 percent.

THIS RATE of attrition was continued down through the years. It was also noticeable that the initial enrollment was falling off each year, so that only 108 enrolled in 1955. The course started this year with 157, one-third of whom had departed even before examination time. The rest were "sweating-out" the results of the tests as this was written.

The falling-off in applications clearly explained—at least in part—why the Army was making a concerted drive at this time to get enlisted men to apply for the prep school before the application closing date of May 31. The opportunity for an Army officer's career had not been sufficiently made a matter of general information. But it did not explain why so many men were falling by the wayside, once in the school. Was the course too tough?

"The course is not too tough," said Major Boatner. "To pass the course, a man should score a little above the average for any high school senior in the country. The course concentrates particularly on English and mathematics, and I think it probably is weighted a bit heavily on the side of math, because a West Point cadet needs more math than would, say, a student at a liberal arts college. When you consider the general run of high schools from which these candidates come and which have shown a continuous de-emphasis of math in recent years—then you would have to say that this course would be a little tough for the average student. But let's go see for ourselves."

THE ACADEMIC WORK at the prep school is completely staffed by civilian instructors under the direction of Raymond M. Coolidge. The mathematics department is headed by Robert O. Barnum and the English department by William D. Williams.

With the exams for this course over, most of the classes then in session were on "rehash," a sort of regurgitation and second chewing of past lessons. So, in Frank Cutright's English Lit class the students were discussing the permanence of beauty and the mortality of man as set forth in the works of such diverse practitioners of the lyric arts as Carl Sandburg, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sara Teasdale and Rogers and Hammerstein. Presumably, this had been the subject of one of the test questions. In English Comp., Frank K. Perkins Jr., was trying to get the students to explain how they would develop a topic sentence. He was also correcting some of the more egregious errors made by students during the exam—without naming names.

MR. BARNUM's math group was rehashing, too, but it was also studying the slide rule as something that would be good to know at the Point. Barnum said that the math periods this year had run to 75 minutes each, with 50 minutes devoted to study and the rest going to preparation for the next day's work.

He produced a typical math exam, showing that it consisted of 15 completion statements and 25 multiple choice questions. This particular paper was the work of Cadet Candidate D. S. Tarr, who chalked up a 95 on it. This mark should not be taken as typical, however, since Tarr had a year at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology before entering service and is one of the top math men in the school. (One of the questions on which his answer was marked wrong was: "The cube root of 640, correct to the nearest tenth, is . . ." His answer was 8.61).

Tarr was not asked how he was getting along in math. The question was put, though, to Cpl. Vincent G. Grande Jr. and Pvt. Berton E. Spivey III. Spivey came here from Fort Sill, Okla., and Grande from the 3d Infantry Division, Fort Benning, Ga. Both said they were getting along fine, did not consider the math course too difficult, or the English, either.

OUTSIDE in the warm sunshine, Major Boatner said: "I think if we were to go through the morning reports over a period of time we'd find that most of these men dropping out before the course is over are doing so for reasons other than academic failure. In my own time here, which is something less than a year, I know of many who resigned—were not fired, you understand—because they found they couldn't cut the mustard outside the classroom. You know, to get in here a man has to finish one year on active duty as a soldier or airman. Well, too many men have been sent up here who asked for school as a means of finishing a good part of their regular hitch in a "campus" atmosphere, away from such dull stuff as guard mount and parade. Well, it's true that if they're academically prepared they might find this a snap for a while. But there's routine here, too—in student NCO assignments, in PT, and in other jobs. And when these jokers find that they've got to be good soldiers, on top of being good students—then they suddenly perceive greener pastures elsewhere.

"It all comes back to the basic thing: motivation. If you ain't got that old motivation, then you ain't got anything good enough for this school."

part of the committee's goal will be to secure substantial raises for "management" — particularly generals and top civilian scientists and technicians.

The new group supersedes individual service efforts directed at securing technician and other pay legislation for a particular service. Defense officials describe the new approach as a concentrated, joint-service effort.

Under this course of action, a full year can be expected to pass before technician, scientific and management compensation rates can be adjusted.

However, as an interim measure to ease the enlisted technician squeeze, Defense officials early this week were weighing a request to Congress for an immediate increased reenlistment bonus.

Details had not taken shape; indeed, the idea may never jell. The early thinking, however, was on a "selective" re-up bonus hike to be offered to particularly needed men who might otherwise leave the service before action is taken on the bigger pay revision plan.

IN ORDERING the new study, Mr. Robertson noted that the 1955 pay raise improved things for personnel in intermediate grades. "However, recommendations for increases in officer grades O-7 and O-8 were appreciably reduced."

He said the extent of recommendations for higher civilian pay will depend on the current executive pay bill now in Congress. It's in grades GS-12 and higher that the new committee will give most consideration for more civilian pay.

Robertson said the problem of more pay for officer and airmen technicians is a "complicated one, as some balance must be maintained between technicians and combat personnel."

Officials associated with the new panel noted that over half of the services' enlisted men are serving in the upper four grades. Much of this has been brought about by rewarding technicians "with rank in order to provide adequate pay."

But at the same time this "depreciates military authority and responsibility." The outlook, therefore, if it can be worked out, is more toward substantial extra pay for a particular critical job rather than promotion. Of course, there could be both.

In striving for solutions, the Burgess committee will come to grips with such knotty problems as the proper balance between technician pay and pay for leadership. Another tough one: should a technician at a safe Z1 post get more than a man risking his life in a forward combat area?

AN OVERALL aim of the new drive is to end "piecemeal approaches" to the manpower retention problem.

Mr. Robertson said "our most recent efforts to improve the compensation of those in the medical profession are indicative of a piecemeal approach to the problem, dictated by demand and without orientation to our over-all manpower requirements."

He was referring to the doctor-dentist pay raise now nearing final Congressional approval.

lations, nonappropriated funds of units deactivated revert to the Central Welfare Fund. The money is in fact not government money. And the award being paid is not a Treasury raid.

Though the money will be paid in two installments, one of $239,431.40 immediately and another of $119,465.69 on Sept. 1, it comes from the War Claims Fund, which was derived from selling the assets of German and Japanese nationals during and after World War II.

Army officials said that even though some of the units may have been reactivated since the fall of Bataan, they have no claim on the money now. They are made up of different individuals. Their non-appropriated funds derive from exchange profits, individual contributions and other sources. There is no continuity or proprietary interest.

The money received from the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission will be used by the Army and Air Force for any purpose to which the Welfare or Central Mess Fund may be put. Officials could not immediately give a breakdown of how the fund would be divided between the two services.

The Navy's Special Services Division in Bureau of Personnel has already received a settlement of $44,828.33.

Canada Forces' Pay Geared to Industry

OTTAWA. — Canadian armed forces, reportedly the best paid in the world, have received an across-the-board basic pay raise to bring their scales closer to the level of wages paid in private industry.

(Even before the new increase, Canadian servicemen were getting more money than American servicemen of equal rank, based on less than two years' service.)

The new Canadian pay schedule went into effect April 1. Since 1946, when the first survey of the differences in pay between the military and private employers was run, several raises have been given the Canadian armed forces.

The survey is made periodically in an attempt to attract and retain competent men in the forces.

THE NEW PAY schedule particularly improves the income of men in the forces as their service increases. For instance, a private WASHINGTON. — Training has started for 2800 Army troops who, in two composite battalions, will unload the tens of thousands of tons needed for resupplying the Distant Early Warning radar net north of the Arctic Circle this summer.

Another 1610 Transportation Corps men will take part in two other Arctic resupply operations this summer, bringing to about 4400 the number of Army troops which will support America's northern line of electronic defense.

ACTUALLY INVOLVED will be four task forces. Largest of these will be the 1500-man 519th Transportation Terminal Bn. which will unload supplies from MSTs ships of the Western Group of Project 572 (DEW Line).

Next in size will be two East Coast groups — the 398th Transportation Terminal Bn., about 1300 men strong, which will form the Eastern Group for project 572, and the 7278th General Reserve Unit, Transportation, whose headquarters are permanently located at Pepperrell AFB, St. Johns, Newfoundland. An augmentation force of more than 1300 will move from Fort Eustis, Va., to join the 7278th Hq. for SUNEK, resupply of USAF bases on Greenland, Baffin Island and Newfoundland.

Fourth group consists of 290 Army men from Seattle who will unload supplies in project Mona Lisa, the resupply of U. S. bases on the west coast of Alaska.

Making up the Army group involved in Mona Lisa will be the 119th and 79th Transportation Cos., Terminal Service, and the 330th Transportation Co. (Heavy Boat).

The 2800 men in Project 572, resupplying the isolated outposts in the radar chain that makes up DEW Line, are getting their special training at Eustis.

THE UNLOADING for resupply of DEW Line for an entire year must take place in a few short weeks of August and September, the Army said.

During this "critically short period," the Army troops will work around the clock "landing supplies over beaches of widely varied characteristics, from tidal mud flats to rockbound cliffs."

Unloading will take place after the height of the Arctic summer has been reached. During daylight hours, the temperature will be about 32 degrees.

Before the ships of the task forces reach open sea again in September, the Arctic winter will be closing in.

Return of various elements of the resupply operation to the U. S. by early October is expected.

THE MONA LISA element will leave Seattle in two trips. The first will begin in mid-May.

The Western task Force for resupply of DEW Line will leave Seattle Army Terminal and the Eastern task force will leave New York at about the same time, in early July. Ships involved in SUNEK will also leave the East Coast in July.

The East Coast task force for re-supply of DEW Line will be split into two elements, one proceeding to the Baffin Islands, the other to Foxe Basin, a previously uncharted area.

SUNEK will bring resupply to the giant AF base at Thule, among its stops.

Elements going from Fort Eustis to augment the 7278th for the SUNEK operation include the 105th, the 124th, the 155th, the 243d, the 417th, and the 565th Transportation Co., Terminal Service. Also part of the operation will be the 17th and 19th Transportation Companies (Medium Truck), the 554th Transportation Platoon, BARC, and various supporting elements made up of specialized detachments.

ARMY area rifle and pistol championships open April 30 in the Third, Fourth and Sixth armies, with some 1500 shooters scheduled to fire in the week-long matches closing May 4.

Approximately 600 are slated to fire in the Third Army matches at Fort Benning; around 500 in the Sixth Army at Camp Roberts, Calif., and roughly the same number in the Fourth Army showdown at Fort Hood.

Nearly 1000 prizes are offered in the Third Army matches. A total of 40 medals will be awarded for each match, with 10 prizes scheduled for each of the four shooting classifications—master, expert, sharpshooter and marksman. In addition, Third Army will present special trophies for winners in eight matches.

Teams entered in the Third Army meet are from Fort Bragg, and the 82d Abn. Div. at Bragg; Fort Benning and the 3d Inf. Div.; the CONARC Army advanced marksmanship 7112th service unit, also at Benning; Fort Campbell, Ky.; Fort Gordon and Fort Stewart, Ga.; Fort Rucker and Fort McClellan, Ala.; Fort Jackson, S. C.; and Redstone Arsenal, Ala. Teams also will represent the Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee military districts.

Lt. Col. Richard H. Smoot, of the AAMU at Benning, will serve as match executive officer. Chief match referee is Col. Perry D. Swindler (Ret.) of Lakeland, Fla. Range directors are Lt. Col. Frank Palmer, rifle, and Maj. Leonard R. Robinson, pistol.

IN ADDITION to the Army teams, the Sixth Army meet expects to draw entries from the Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, National Guard, Army Reserve and civilian shooting clubs. A total of 178 awards will be presented, 92 in the rifle and 116 in the pistol classes. Big award for the active Army winners, however, will be berths on the Sixth Army rifle and pistol teams which will com-

Car son Street Is Named for Hero

FORT CARSON, Colo.—A seventh Fort Carson thoroughfare has been renamed for a Congressional Medal of Honor winner. At the dedication ceremonies, G St. became Wetzel St., in honor of PFC Walter C. Wetzel.

He received the CMH posthumously during War II. He was a member of the 13th Inf. Regt., 8th Inf. Div.

Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Watlington, commander of Carson and the 8th Infantry Division, was to unveil the dedication plaque.

expected from New York, New Jersey, the New England states and Iceland.

The Iceland entry will represent the 2d BCT, stationed at Keflavik. Other entries include seven Army posts in the metropolitan New York area—Forts Jay, Slocum, Totten, Hamilton, Tilden, Wadsworth and the Brooklyn Army Terminal. Other active Army teams will come from Forts Dix, Devens, Niagara and Monmouth; Boston Army Base, West Point, and the 74th TCT, of Devens.

Military District, National Guard and Army Reserve teams will also be firing, along with teams from the other services and the First Army Area AAA command. Defending team titles will be Dix, rifle, and Devens, pistol.

Only two of last year's individual winners are entered—Maj. Joseph W. Rose, N. H. military district, winner of the 1955 "Vermont Pistol Match," and MSgt. Walter Moryl, of Dix, winner of the Army commander's individual rifle match.

pete in the All-Army matches next June at Fort Benning.

A leading contender for team honors in the Camp Roberts matches should be the 2d Inf. Div. from Fort Lewis, Wash. Both the fort and the division have teams entered, the division boasting the highest scoring rifle team in the post's history.

Maj. Raynold Dobak, OIC and member of the Indianhead team, said as they left Lewis this week that the division team was so deep in talent that "we are having difficulty picking our best line-up." In their last match in the Rainier league the division riflemen averaged over 235x250 per man for the NRA course.

Rifle squad captain is 1st Lt. Robert W. Lang; pistol, 1st Lt. William Tumlin. Post team captains are Capt. Adolphus Lung, rifle, and Capt. Cantrell Daniel III, pistol.

New Courses Set For YTS Soldiers

YUMA TEST STATION, Ariz.—The Army educational program at YTS went into full swing last week when classes in English, mathematics, and typing were started.

Personnel are allowed to take any two of these cost free classes that they wish and the nights of teaching are staggered to accommodate them.

The English course is 12th grade high school level and will be a six week course to include 24 hours of instruction. High school level math and elementary type-writing are stressed in the other classes.

The Army provides funds for teaching these off-duty classes to aid military personnel in furthering their education and to provide continuous study in order to qualify for better jobs and higher rank. The courses are open to enlisted men and also officers.

Gunbug Trainee Is Mighty Happy in Ordnance School

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md.—PFC James E. Smith, who volunteered for six-months' Army duty under the Reserve Forces Act training program, is living in a gun-collectors' dream world: he's a student in the small-arms course at the ordnance school here.

A 1955 graduate of Pepkin, Wis., high school, Smith acquired his rank by becoming a member of his local Reserve unit in August 1954, while still in school. A gun-collector from early boyhood, he qualified easily for assignment to an ordnance corps military specialty in both his Reserve unit and on active duty.

Smith "couldn't be more pleased" with his assignment to such courses as functioning, malfunction diagnosing, preservation and refinishing of such Army small arms as pistols, carbines, sub-machine guns, recoilless rifles, mortars, and machine guns.

UPON COMPLETION of the small arms repair course, Smith will begin studies here in the light artillery repair course. He will complete his ordnance corps training and his six months of active duty simultaneously and then return to his own home and Reserve unit.

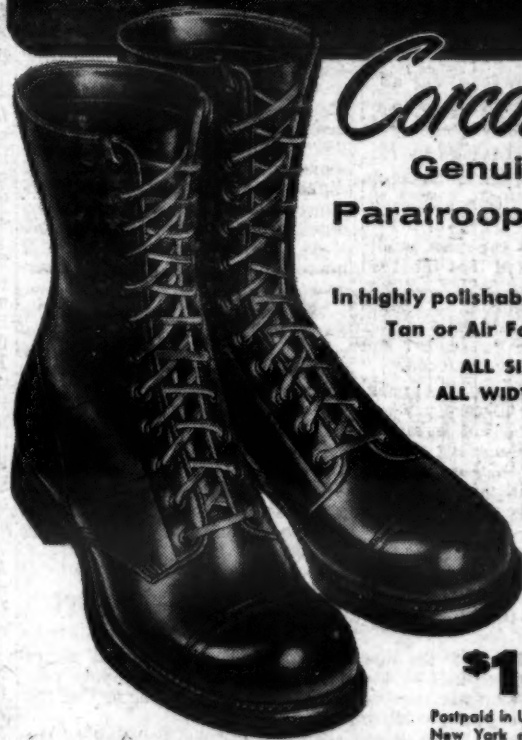

"I am a barber by profession," he said. "But I elected the Reserve Forces Act training program so that I could get a short-cut to advance in my Reserve unit. I'll have seven and a half years to serve anyway; I might as well earn a promotion."

TOUCH

OMAHA.—Mrs. A. W. Havelka says her 3½-year-old niece, Nancy, was staying with her and, while dressing herself, donned a pair of old slippers.

"Don't wear those. They're full of holes and your toes are sticking out," Mrs. Havelka told the child.

"Oh, that's all right. This way my toes can see where they are going," said Nancy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—City Judge Lawrence D. Childs has ruled a resident of 55 years has lived here a little too long to be considered a vagrant.

Herman Sellers, 65, was charged with vagrancy after being found sleeping in a packing box.

He explained he was locked out of his apartment by mistake. That explanation plus his long residence in St. Petersburg served to secure dismissal of the charge.

In these books, the checks are on the left side and the stubs on the right. It still takes money in the bank to use them.

DILLON, S. C.—Marriage license fees in this Gretna Green border county are paying for a new high school baseball park.

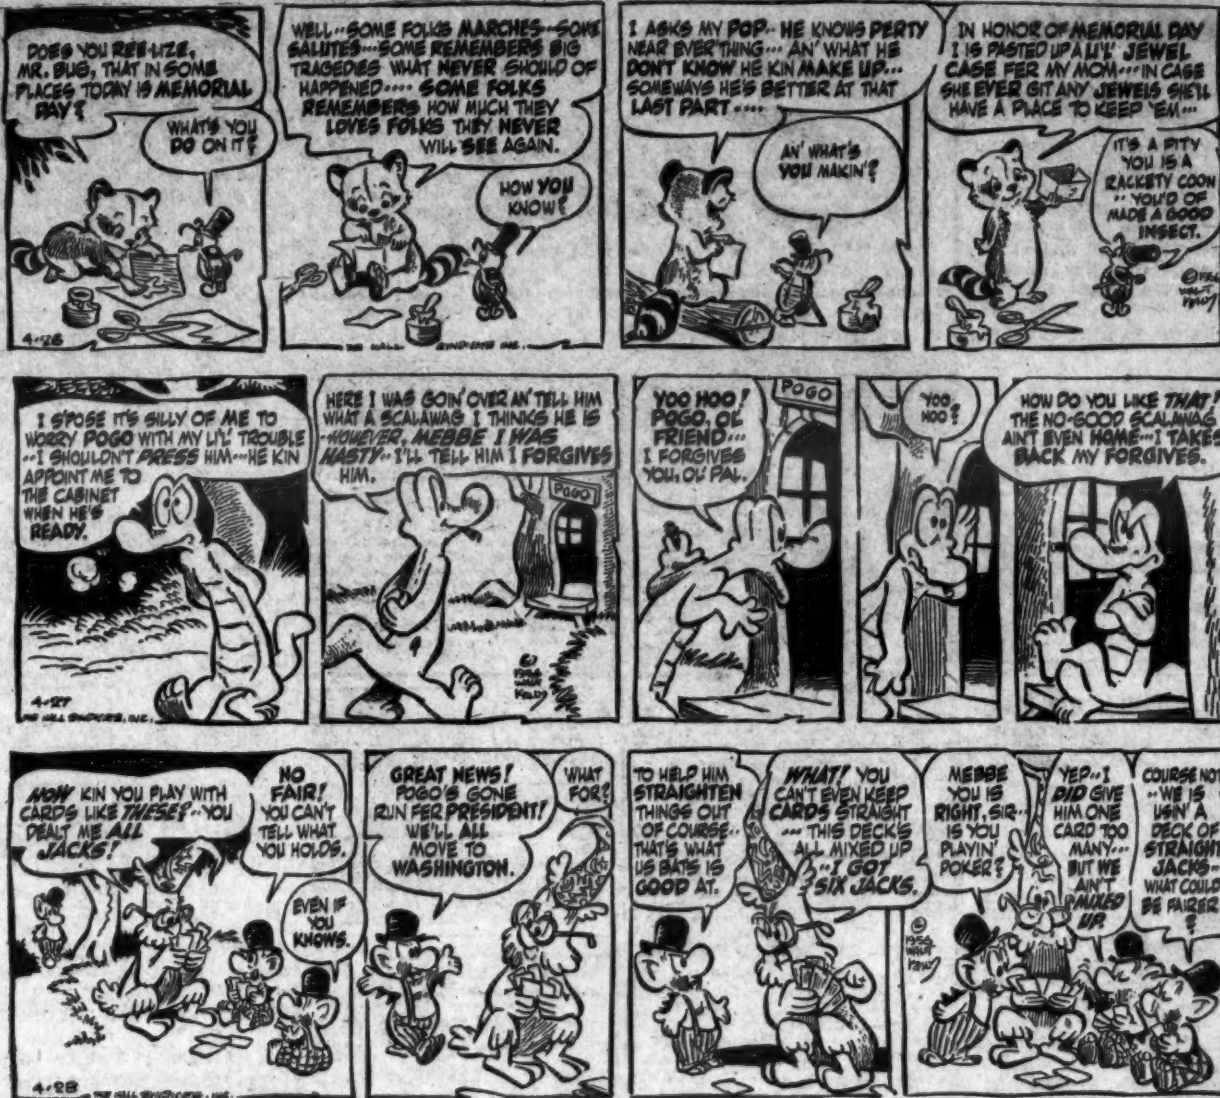

The county's legislative delegation earmarked half the marriage fees for the 1200-seat grandstand and park.

Dillon County borders North Carolina, where a three-day wait is required of altar-bound couples, compared to this State's 24-hour cooling-off period. As a result, Dillon issues about 5000 marriage licenses a year.

NEW YORK.—A municipal court justice has collected 17 traffic tickets since April 1953, and answered none of them, it was disclosed by the Traffic Summons Control Bureau.

The justice, Carson Dewitt Baker, availed himself of an amnesty period granted "scoff-laws" to pay up without being fined for delay.

THE WEEK IN CONGRESS

(Through Monday, April 23)

SHIPS: Senate Armed Services committee approved HR 7983, the ship's ship construction program for the coming fiscal year. Amendments limit the bill to the two escort vessels—the only construction for which the Navy actually needs authority.

ATOMIC ENERGY: Senate passed and sent to the President HR 10387, authorizing construction by the Atomic Energy Commission for fiscal 1957.

PUBLIC HEALTH: Senate passed and sent to President HR 8728, providing for burial in national cemeteries of Public Health Service commissioned officers. House passed, sent to President S 2387 making Public Health Service on Armed Service during national emergencies.

UNKNOWN: Senate passed and sent to House S 2512, providing markers for the graves of unknown war dead.

CIVILIANS: Senate passed and sent to House S 3515, which provides housing for essential civilian employees of the services.

JUSTICE: Brooks subcommittee of the House Armed Services committee continued hearings on Defense-sponsored changes in the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

HOSPITAL: Hospital subcommittee of Veterans Affairs committee approved HR 1820, to build a 1000-bed Neuropsychiatric veterans hospital at Gainesville, Ga.

DUAL COMPENSATION: A special House Armed Services subcommittee, appointed to study the dual employment and dual compensation statutes, scheduled its first meeting for April 24.

PHYSICIAN-DENTIST PAY: Senate passed HR 9428, to increase the special pay and constructive credit of physicians and dentists in the Armed Services, with amendment making the first special pay boost after two years and numerous technical amendments.

FACILITIES: Senate Post Office and Civil Service committee approved S 2878, which would bring the civilian facilities of the Naval Academy and the Naval Postgraduate School under the Civil Service retirement system and generally revise civil service retirement laws.

AIR FORCE: Senate Armed Services subcommittee under Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) began probe of U. S.-Russian air strength and missile power with testimony from Allen Dulles, chief of CIA, and Gen. Omar Bradley.

EMERGENCY: House Armed Services subcommittee approved HR 9709, continuing effect of law that provides for certain construction at military bases in time of war or emergency.

PENTAGON: Commerce Department submitted draft of proposed bill to allow it to improve the roadways around the Pentagon.

BONUS: House Armed Services committee approved HR 8823, relieving some 20,000 enlisted men from necessity of refunding overpayment of enlistment bonus.

BAND: House Armed Services committee approved HR 8290, providing officer structure for leaders of Marine Band.

MILEAGE: House Armed Services committee approved HR 8288, providing payment of mileage allowance for travel by private means overseas.

TAX: House Armed Services committee approved HR 8693, providing that men refunding unearned portion of re-enlistment bonus do not have service aid, in adjusting taxes paid on such refund.

HOUSING: Senate Banking and Currency committee continued executive meetings to mark up housing amendments, which would include possible extension of Capehart housing.

SOCIAL SECURITY: House Ways and Means committee approved HR 8615 extending to July 1, 1959 the old age survivor and insurance wage credits for military service.

VET COMPENSATION: House passed HR 10046, re-statement of all veterans' compensation laws.

SCHOOLING: House Education and Labor subcommittee studied bills to extend and revise the program of federal aid in building and operating schools in crowded defense areas.

NSLI Can Be Reinstated

WASHINGTON.—Veterans who cash surrendered permanent NSLI policies upon re-entry into active service may reinstate such policies when they get out.

A permanent NSLI policy may be reinstated as of the veteran's original age and effective date, without medical examination. But he must pay back the required reserve as well as the current premium.

Veterans may also reinstate surrendered policies at their present age but at a higher premium, without medical examination.

Bicycle Racer Eyes Olympics

FORT RILEY, Kans. — The 1st Division's 26th Inf. Regt., may have one answer to those who are worrying about United States chances in the 1956 Olympics.

Some cite the fact that U. S. athletes emphasize the "major" sports in preparation for the Olympics and pass up opportunities for gold medals and points in the unofficial team standings in other events.

The 26th Inf. points to 18-year-old Pvt. James A. Lucas, who is one of a handful of championship bicycle racers in this country. The young Blue Spader is currently working out in preparation for the U. S. bike racing Olympic trials.

BIKE RACING is one of Europe's most popular sports and draws crowds of up to 50,000 for major competition. Although the sport has never caught on here, the United States will field a team for the 1956 Games in Melbourne, Australia.

Lucas estimates that he has competed in more than 250 bike races and he has pedaled countless miles in races and practice. He won the Pennsylvania state junior championship in 1952 and was runner-up for the State senior title in 1954.

Lucas is a real booster for bike racing. He calls it "a real thrill to wheel along the track at speeds of 45 to 50 miles an hour."

"I just bought a new bike for the Olympic trials in California," he added. "Like buying a tailored suit of clothes, the bicycle is custom-fit to the individual. Leg and arm measurements are considered and the bike is built to the specifications of the rider. At no small cost, incidentally. My newest set of wheels cost me $100."

Lucas considers it a good investment, since the "set of wheels" may carry him all the way to Melbourne for the 1956 Olympic Games.

Bantam Sammy Price Aims For Olympic Mitt Berth

WITH 24TH DIV. IN KOREA.—SFC Sammy Price, the 21st Infantry's tough little bantamweight campaigner, has his heart set on representing the United States in the upcoming Olympic Games to be held this winter in Melbourne, Australia.

Of course Sammy has a long road ahead of him if he is to reach the Olympics — the Korean, Far East, All-Army, Inter-Service and U. S. Olympic qualifying tournaments—but he just might do it.

A veteran of 120 amateur fights, Price has piled up an enviable record of 106 wins. Not known as a knockout artist, the clever boxer is content to outpoint his opponents.

PRICE

The 25-year-old native of Knoxville, Tenn., began his ring career after enlisting in the Army in 1949, and less than two years later he was good enough to win the European bantamweight championship.

Four times Sammy has appeared in the All-Army tournaments, only to come away without a crown, but he's come close, awfully close, to capturing the 119-pound title.

In 1954 Price got all the way to the finals before losing a close decision to Fort Meade's Georgie Davis, two time All-Army and Inter-Service bantamweight champion.

Then last year he decided

A Job Well Done

LT. GEN. J. H. Collier, Fourth Army CG, accepts the All-Army basketball championship trophy won by the Fort Chaffee, Ark., All-Stars last month. First Lt. Omer L. Manley (right), coach of the winning team, made the presentation. "It was a team victory," said Manley, "It was a job well done," said Gen. Collier. Chaffee also won the title in 1954. If Chaffee wins again next year, the post earns permanent possession of the trophy. The Chaffee team was made up of stars from the post's regimental league.

Big League Stars To Tour Japan

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Arrangements were being made this week to send a group of major league all-stars to Japan following the World Series next fall. Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, is working out the details with Matsutaro Shoriki, known as the "Father of Baseball" in Japan.

'Winged Wheel' Golf

WASHINGTON. — The semi-annual Winged Wheel Golf Tournament, sponsored by the Office of the Chief of Transportation, Department of the Army, will be held at the Army-Navy Country Club May 3.

Participation is by invitation only. Individuals desiring an invitation may contact Mr. Anthony G. Liebler, Office of the Chief of Transportation.

Army Marathoners Do Well in Boston

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—Army banners waved proudly in the 60th running of the Boston Marathon last week as five of six soldier entries from this area placed strongly in the field of 212 runners vying for the laurel wreath and Olympic team berths.

PFC Dean Thackwray, who flew into Boston from Germany on April 12 and completed his training at the Boston Army Base, ran a magnificent endurance race in the Patriots' Day classic to finish fifth in two hours, 20 minutes and 24 seconds.

The slight red-head was the third American to cross the finish line. His time was only six minutes off the winning and record mark of Finnish runner Antti Viskari.

His training buddy, PFC Tom Ryan, also on a permanent change of station to the Boston Army Base from Germany, followed shortly thereafter, taking 11th position in the time of 2:29.35. Ryan was the ninth American to hit the tape on Exeter street in the heart of Boston.

Both men's performances indicate that they will be top Olympic marathon prospects. They plan to race this summer in shorter endurance tests and in September over the National Marathon course in Yonkers, N. Y., the race which combines with the BAA marathon to decide U. S. representatives to the Olympic games in Australia.

TWO FORT DEVENS racers also were among the first 25 men to finish in the 26-mile, 385-yard grind. PFC Mike Allen placed 18th in a clocking of 2:36.35, and PFC Jim Green ran 23d in the time of 2:37.56.

Allen was on TDY to New England's largest military installation from Fort Lewis, Wash. The youngest Army entry at the age of 20, he gave a spurt in the last third of the race which brought him past Green.

Green, the second Devens marathoner to finish, is a student on special duty from the Army Security Agency school here.

Final runner to finish the long haul was MSgt. Dick Ellis, also on TDY to Devens from Fort Ord, Calif. His time was 2:54.26 and he placed 47th.

THE ARMY'S brightest star of the afternoon, Thackwray, had been tabbed as a runner to watch. Called by many "the finest potential young marathoner in the country today," the 23-year-old Bay State native is the protégé of Johnny Kelley, who took second spot in the BAA marathon this year.

A personnel clerk at Boston Army Base, Thackwray will be racing for the Army until October of this year when he is released. His ambition is to run the 10,000 meter event in the Olympics.

POSITIVE THINKER

Peale Made Him Win, Says High Jumper

By SFC JAMES HUNTER

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo.—Pvt. James Leslie Vanover, a trainee here, credits "The Power of Positive Thinking," a book by Norman Vincent Peale for changing him from a temperamental college high-jumper to the third ranked high-jumper in the world in 1955 and a strong contender for Olympic honors this fall.

Vanover says he was temperamental and possessed a fear complex about clearing the bar. High jumper Chuck Holding, East Texas State star, knew this and "continually rode me whenever we competed in a track and field meet."

"Because Holding kept reminding me of the bar and worrying me, I was always coming out second best—until I read 'Power of Positive Thinking.'"

Vanover holds three first place finishes over Holding.

At the Southern Relays in Birmingham, Ala., during his junior year at Abilene Christian College, Tex., Vanover jumped 6' 7½" only to be beaten by Papa Hall of Florida University who made 6' 9".

IN HIS SENIOR YEAR, Vanover jumped 6' 8½" in the West Texas Relays, only to be beaten by Holding with a jump of 6' 9½".

Vanover bettered his own mark in a dual track meet with North Texas State and won the high-jump event with a jump of 6' 9".

"Following graduation from college I started teaching school in Corpus Christi, Tex.," explained Vanover, "and was just about to give up high-jumping because of the limited time that I had to practice, when I was invited to a track meet in Alice, Tex., to put on an exhibition. I cleared 6' 10", another high for me, and decided to keep going."

Vanover won the Texas AAU meet in 1955 beating Holding with a jump of 6' 6½" and won the right to compete in the NAAU meet but deferred the chance to take a job as assistant director of a boys ranch at Kenville, Tex., for the summer.

"I HOPE that I can get in top shape for the tryouts," said Vanover. "I am about two months behind in training but the basic training that I am undergoing now is keeping me in good general condition and the good food and work are keeping me from getting sluggish."

Fort Lee Coach Has Problems

FORT LEE, Va.—The '56 baseball Travellers are hurting—in more ways than one.

Second baseman Dick Harris has a sprained right ankle and catcher Ermi Gaido has a fractured left wrist. Both men will be out of action until early next month. Also, there are big questions concerning who's on third and what does Coach Roe Snyder use for pitching after Bill Lore?

That the Travellers are in need of several more first-line ball players was clearly evident here last week as the Leemen—with pitcher Bill Lore in leftfield, leftfielder Duane Emaar behind the plate, catcher Charlie Ewan in rightfield, outfielder Phil Roberts at second base, and former relief pitcher Vertis Elmore joining the steadily-growing list of third basemen—dropped an 8-7 decision to the University of North Carolina Tar Heels.

The setback was the third of the exhibition campaign for the Leemen who have won seven contests against college competition.

The '56 season will officially open Friday, May 4, at Nowak Field when Fort Belvoir provides the first service opposition of the year. The same two teams will play the following afternoon. Both games will be played on the old diamond, as sodding is still being completed on the new field.

Lee collected only five hits off two Tar Heel pitchers. Shortstop Carl Hanta, one of eight players back from last year's Second Army champions, had three of the five hits.

Carson's 40th FA Should Be Tough

FORT CARSON, Colo.—Looming as a strong contender for Fort Carson's regimental baseball crown is the 40th FA Group.

Already the 40th has compiled a 4-0 record this season behind the pitching of its "Big Three," PFC Phil Randazzo, Pvt. Gerald Kelly and SP3 Ed Hellenbrand.

The 40th's 9-8 victory over Colorado College gave notice that the artillery nine will be a powerful crew come regimental baseball time on May 4.

Behind 6-0 in the first inning, the undefeated stickmen buckled down to prove their worth and beat the Tigers. Sgt. Ken Henkemeyer, who coaches the team and plays left field, led the attack with three singles.

Kelly, who inverts his pitching ability to first base when not on the mound, chipped in with a pair of hits, as did SP3 Marvin Holloway, the shortstop.

Action in Japan

RALPH MINELLI, 7th Cav. Regt., triples to right center against Itami AFB at Camp Otsu, Japan, to drive in a big run. The 7th Cav. won the game 9-8.

7th Divarty Coach Predicts Good Club

WITH 7TH DIV. IN KOREA.—William Gil, 7th Divarty baseball coach, has issued a warning that the Cannoneers "don't intend to lose many games" in the Bayonet baseball league. Although Gil hasn't seen much of the other clubs in the league, the former University of Santa Clara halfback believes the artillerymen will be serious contenders.

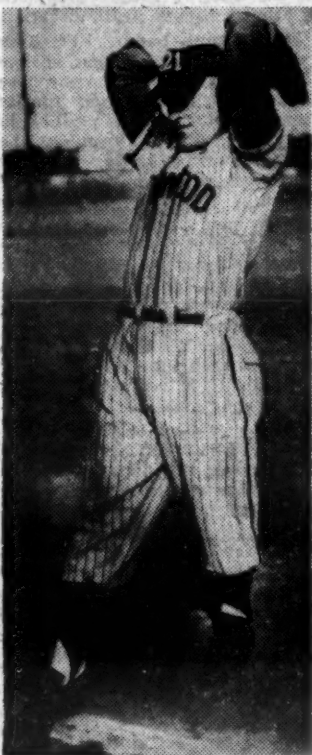

Gil is particularly high on shortstop Fred Kiernan. A smooth infielder who's slated for the lead-off slot, Kiernan played with West Palm Beach in the Class "B" Florida-International League.

Lou Zaza, an agile gloveman who played in the New York Yankees chain, will be at second base.

Bernie Cordette is a big right-hander who throws hard. He pitched for Savannah, Ga., in the Class "A" South Atlantic League. Another experienced hurler is righthander Angelo Torge.

Dean of the ballclub is 41-year old Ray Mitchell, a righthander who's celebrating his 20th year as an Army pitcher. No longer able to throw the high hard one, Mitchell relies on cunning and breaking stuff to stop a hitter.

Among catching hopefuls, Dave Vazquez has had the most experience.

Hurls No-Hitter

PFC RUBEN COX opened the Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., baseball season with a seven-inning no-hitter for the 921st Engineer Group over the Reserve Forces Training Regt. Score was 11-0. Cox fanned 16.

Defending Army Champs Take Two from Jackson

FORT McPHERSON, Ga.—Southpaw Billy O'Dell and right-hander Bob Anderton of Fort Mac's defending All-Army champions dealt Fort Jackson 5-3 and 5-2 opening game losses here last week.

O'Dell, Baltimore bonus rookie, trumped the Eagles in Third Army's lifelifter, allowing only two hits and fanning 10 in the 5-3 win. American doled out six hits and fanned eight in Fort Mac's 5-2 second game triumph.

Centerfielder Joe Fuller's two-run triple defeated Fort Jackson in the first game. It broke a 2-2 pitching duel in the 6th inning between O'Dell and Jax loser, Tony Funari (Savannah), who surrendered all five runs and eight hits in a good full-game effort.

A four-run 4th inning off Jackson lefty Brad Clapham (Rock Hill), highlighted by first sacker Buck Riddle's triple, gave Anderton more than enough margin in the second game.

With none out, Bolling singled to left, Riddle tripled him in, catcher Bobby Morris walked, Golden singled to center scoring Riddle, third baseman Emmett Allen walked, and Leftfielder Sal Salminen, a veteran of eight years of Army baseball, scored Morris and Golden with a single off the first base bag.

McPherson's Bolling, Golden and Fuller, and Fort Jackson's Harrington, a Mississippi Southern College star, each had three hits in the series. Bolling turned two of his hits into doubles with fine baserunning.

Golden also turned in the defensive sparkler of the set. He pulled in Jax catcher Phil Noto's long windblown foul fly with a running one-hand grab to choke off Jackson's uprising in the 4th inning of the first game.

The defending All-Army champs travel to Biloxi, Miss., this week to meet Keeler AFB in a two-game series.

Fort Bliss Rallies To Top El Paso

FORT BLISS, Tex.—The Fort Bliss Falcons scored five runs in the bottom of the ninth to defeat the El Paso Texans of the Southwestern League, 12-11, in an exhibition game in El Paso.

The Falcons used four hits, one walk, an error and a wild pitch in their winning rally. Leftlander Jerry Alsop was the winning pitcher.

All-Army Wrestling Team Heads for Olympic Trials

PICTURED above is the All-Army wrestling team which will enter the U. S. Olympic tryouts at Los Angeles April 29-May 5. The Army wrestlers represent the best of the Army's mat crop and many are former top college stars.

They have been training for the past three months under Lt. Alfred Paulekas, former captain of the West Point football team and present holder of the Pan-American 191-pound mat title.

All-Army champions are listed first in weight groups with runners-up second.

Pvt. Donald Wem, 160, Fort Dix, N. J. (Toledo); PFC Wenzel Hubel, 174, 94th Engr. Bn., Germany; and SP2 Richard E. White Jr., 174, 25th Inf. Div. (Oklahoma).

Agee Wins Five Events In 7th Division Track

WITH 7TH DIV. IN KOREA.—Paced by the running of Albert Agee and the throwing arm of W. T. Stapler, the 17th Inf. Regt. won top honors in the 7th Division track meet.

Sgt. Agee, 17th Inf., sped to victories in the 100 meter, 110 meter high hurdles, 220 meter low hurdles, and was also first in the high jump and the hop, step, and jump. His teammate, PFC Stapler registered firsts in the shotput and discus, plus a third in the javelin throw.

Six out of seven Division trackmen in training at Seoul for the Olympics participated and came through with flying colors. Second Lt. Carlton McLean, 7th Repl. Co., won in the 5000 meter run; 2d Lt. Franklin D. Case, 15th AAA, won the 1500 meter run and second in the 800 meter; 2d Lt. Henry Darlington, 57th FA Bn., took four second places in the 100, 200, 400 meter runs, and the javelin throw, and placed third in the broad jump; PFC Arthur McPheters, 31st Inf., won firsts in the 400 meter and 800 meter runs and a third in the pole vault; SP3 Saul Goldman, 31st Inf., took second in the high jump, and PFC Frank Munson, 31st Inf., placed second in the hop, step, and jump.

The Division track team is composed of 2d Lt. Robert Penrod (coach), 2d Lt. Donald Landeen, Sgt. Thomas Watson, SP3 Jasper Harrel, PFC Paul R. Uranga, Pvt. Gerald Hiller, Pvt. Llewellyn Miller, Sgt. Agee, and PFC Stapler, all of the 17th Inf. Regt.; Sgt. Norman Upchurch, Pvt. Allen Eisenberg, Pvt. Robert Enns, Pvt. James Williams, SP3 Goldman and PFC McPheters, from the 31st Inf. Regt.; and from Special Troops, Lt. Louis B. Zur and Pvt. Richard Bright, SP3 Willie Lefall, and Lt. McLean. Representing Division Artillery are Lts. Case and Darlington, and Pvt. ## Knox Hurdler Seeks Berth In Olympics

FORT KNOX, Ky.—Central Conference AAU 440-yard hurdle champion Pvt. Kanyon R. Stapley of the Armored Replacement Training Center is seeking a berth on the U. S. Olympic team.

Stapley won the Central Conference AAU 440-yard hurdle crown four consecutive years, from 1952 to 1955, while a student at the University of Chicago.

Originally a miler, he won letters in high school in that event, but he says, "When I saw that everyone else was getting faster and I was getting slower, I converted to the 800 yard event."

It must have been a successful conversion because Stapley, who entered the University at 17, won first place 22 times in 25 dual meets in his sophomore year with a best time of 1:58.3; won 21 in 24 dual meets as a junior; and won 18 of 20 dual meets with a best time of 1:57.1, as a senior.

The two defeats in his senior year were both at the hands of Bob Majeska, of Loyola U., now running for Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

At his own expense, he entered the Central Conference AAU meet each year and won the 440-yard championship each time. Lack of sufficient funds prevented him from entering National AAU competition except in 1955 and in his first time out against high pressure competition, he placed sixth in a field of 20.

Now Stapley has dropped the 800-yard event to concentrate on the hurdles. He says he is confident of making the team because he has become "much stronger" since he came into the Army—his only worry is to lose about 25 pounds gained in the service.

Lewis Marathoner Wins in Tacoma

FORT LEWIS, Wash.—Second Lt. Kenneth W. Reiser is living a fast life these past few weeks, and a look at his summer schedule indicates that the pace will pick up.

Reiser galloped to first place in the Tacoma, Wash., Daffodil festival five-mile marathon in 24:58.2 last week. After a quick rub-down he flew to San Francisco and joined an Army team which will compete in a Honolulu AAU track meet.

He will return to Fort Lewis in time for another track meet late this week. His "clutch" race will be on June 29-30 at the Olympic Tryouts in Los Angeles.

Carrying the titles of 1955 NCAA two-mile champion and 1955 AA 2 mile steeple chase champ, the fleet-footed 5th Inf. Regt. soldier is one of this post's most promising candidates for the 1956 United States Olympic Team.

The University of Oregon graduate toured Europe last year with the National AAU team. He is currently training for the 3000 meter steeple chase Olympic event.

Fort Bliss Chess Champ

FORT BLISS, Tex.—PFC Donald Benge won the Fort Bliss Chess Club championship by defeating Lt. Col. R. C. Hunter of William Beaumont Army Hospital in a final playoff match.

3000 Men Training for DEW Line Supply Mission

FORT EUSTIS, Va.—Day and night training has begun at Fort Eustis and Fort Story for the 3000 men who will sail to the Arctic this summer to carry equipment and supplies to the "DEW line."

The troops are being trained for the various jobs that they will have in the Arctic — cargo unloading, amphibious vehicle operation and landing craft operation. Work along the Distant Early Warning radar fence can only be done during the short summer season when the ice breaks.

Two new battalions have been formed in the 4th Transportation Terminal Command "C" to handle this training. The amphibious vehicle training is taking place at Fort Story.

There are two keywords for this training operation: speed and safety. Speed is important, because in some areas of Arctic Canada the unloading teams will have less than two weeks during which their ships can enter the icy area. Safety is additionally important because there will be no extra time for error.

To climax the approximately 10 weeks of training a Logistical Over The Shore (LOTS) exercise will be held at Eustis and Story to test the troops with a full-scale dress rehearsal for the Arctic operation. The troops will then be given leave before they proceed for movement north.

THE PROJECT is set up in two parts, east and west. The east operation will leave Eustis by ship about the middle of July. Project 572-west will sail from Seattle Army Terminal, Wash., at about the same time, but troops will leave Eustis by troop train approximately two weeks earlier.

The training is being carried out by two battalions at Eustis, both assigned to the 4th Terminal Command. The 519th Transportation Terminal Bn., with its nine terminal service companies, will participate in 572-west; the 398th Transportation Terminal Bn., with six companies, is training for 572-east.

Amphibious vehicle training for approximately 200 men is being handled by the 376th Transportation Amphibious Truck Bn. at Fort Story. One company is training in the operation of Dukws, the Army's amphibious trucks; another company is training operators and mechanics for the LVTs, the landing vehicles tracked which will be used to climb over soggy and icy beaches.

The 572-east operation will sail to the Baffin Island area of Arctic Canada, where the task force will split into teams to work the unloading sites. The western task force will unload at various sites along the Northwest passage of Canada.

Brig. Gen. Frederick T. Voorhees, commandant of the Transportation School at Fort Eustis, will be in command of the Army forces on 572-west. The eastern operation will be under the command of the Transportation Corps terminal in Newfoundland. Gen. Voorhees was commander of 572-east last summer.

Last year, the task force for 572-east sailed from Hampton Roads Army Terminal in Norfolk. This year, however, the task force will sail directly from Eustis.

PROJECT 572 will involve Army Navy and Air Force cooperation. The Army is providing troops for the unloading operation; the Military Sea Transport Service of the Navy is furnishing the ships to carry the men and equipment to the north, and the Air Force has operational control over the radar sites in "DEW line," which this project will supply.

This year's operation will mark the first time that the Transportation Corps has been the only Army branch to furnish troops for Project 572. Last year, the first year for Project 572, the troops for the operation came from various services of the Army: Transportation, Quartermaster, Engineer and Chemical.

This year the Transportation Corps was allocated over 2000 additional troops to augment troops already at the Transportation Training Command in order to have the necessary force for the operation. Unlike 1955, troops returning to Eustis from Project 572 will be assigned to this Army post as permanent party.

MDW Launches 'Briefing' Conferences for Retired

WASHINGTON. — The Military District of Washington has started a series of military conferences designed to help some 1000 retired Army officers in the MDW area keep abreast of the latest Army policies.

The first was held April 20 at Fort Myer's North Area post theater. The conferences are expected to better enable the Army "alumni" serve as active spokesmen for the Army and its commitments here and abroad.

The program carries out a plan of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army

Chief of Staff, who recognized the vital role retired Army officers can play in communities across the nation by explaining the needs and purpose of the Army.

The series of conferences will be highlighted by the appearance of top military speakers who will discuss the present state of the Army's preparedness program as well as its plans for the future.

Principal speakers for the opening conference were: Maj. Gen. A. T. McNamara, Director of Supply, Office, Deputy Chief of Staff, Logistics who discussed "Logistics Today"; Brig. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Deputy to Special Assistant for Reserve Components, Office, Chief of Staff, who spoke on the "Reserve Forces Act"; and Brig. Gen. W. R. Frederick, Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff, Intelligence for Foreign Operations, whose subject was "World Sensitive Areas."

Opening remarks were made by the conference's host, Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten, Military District of Washington commander.

A general floor discussion of military subjects followed the talks. Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks (ret.), ex-Army chief of information and former Second Army commander, was moderator.

Chaplain Association Is 31 Years Old

WASHINGTON. — The Military Chaplain's Association observed its 31st anniversary this week. The association was organized on April 25, 1925, by Army chaplains and later expanded to include chaplains of all military services.

Top American leaders, including President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker, Secretary of the Navy Thomas, Adm. Arthur Radford, and Maj. Gen. Lewis Hershey will participate in the annual business meeting of the association, to be held May 8-9, at Patten Hall, Fort Myer, Va.

All chaplains of the armed forces are invited to attend.

that USAA has long been the choice of the Army

Organized 34 years ago to provide low-cost automobile insurance for officers and warrant officers of the armed forces, United Services Automobile Association is a non-profit organization under the management of active and retired service officers.

The policy of insuring only preferred risks, plus responsible management, has provided substantial savings that has made USAA truly the choice of the services.

In 1955 over seven million dollars of dividends were paid in the states to 262,161 members, amounting to an average saving of 44% of the standard manual premiums on automobiles.

Wherever you serve, USAA can serve you. Claims are settled rapidly, also—even in the most remote places.

Give yourself the most responsible protection for the least cost. Just fill in coupon, mail and be insured today—with USAA.

- ★ USAA is the oldest, largest and strongest non-profit insurance organization serving the armed forces officer.
- ★ USAA is under the direction and management of active and retired officers of the Armed Services.
- ★ Because all funds are pooled for mutual protection, USAA can offer insurance at lowest possible cost, with large savings realized in generous annual dividends.
- ★ USAA operates in the United States, its possessions, territories; Canada, Cuba, Canal Zone, Japan; certain U. S. military bases in the Pacific, Philippines and in Western Continental Europe.
- ★ No matter whether you are stateside, or overseas, USAA is as close as your nearest mailbox, telephone or telegraph office. Your USAA insurance becomes effective as of postmarked time of application, unless a later date is specified.
